EXPECT BIG BATTLE TO-DAY

Essex Troopers "Killed" in Lively Skirmish—Balloon Trip of Defenders Proves a Fiasco.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 16.—Middleboro and South Middleboro, both of which places were in the possession of the Blue army yesterday, were to-day captured and invested by the troops under Gen. Bliss.

While the big battle predicted for to-day did not come off there were many hot skirmishes, and when the day's hostilities ceased the umpires announced that scouts to the number of about 200 had been captured by the different army advance guards during the day, while a detachment of thirty-six cavalrymen from the famous Essex Troop of Newark, N. J., was caught in an ambush and almost wiped out. At least ten of the Essex men were umpired clean out of existence, while of the others the umpires decided that at least a dozen had been seriously and perhaps mortally wounded.

To-night the Red army, under Gen. Bliss, is encamped in the Middleboro district, with South Middleboro as the centre, while the Blue, from the best information obtainable, is entrenched a few miles distant from the Red line in the crescent formed by the chain of lakes that beautify this section of Massachusetts.

The cavalry regiment under Major Bridgman of Squadron A, New York, is reconnoitering ahead of the main line of attack, and many engagements with scouting detachments of the enemy's army have been reported, resulting in the capture of many men by both sides.

Middleboro was entered by the Red advance guards early this morning, and late this afternoon the Red soldiers, who had taken possession of the little village without firing a single shot, were much crestfallen, for it became known that they had missed making a capture that would have made them the envy of all the other troops in Bliss's army.

Gen. Pew's headquarters to-day, it is said, are at Robbins Pond, a few miles distant from Middleboro, and as stated yesterday, Gov. Draper of Massachusetts is with Gen. Pew's forces. This morning the Governor, accompanied by Gen. Brigham, the Adjutant General of Massachusetts, decided to go to Middleboro to mail some important letters. He was almost there when he sighted a number of Red scouts. Not desiring to risk capture, the Governor turned and soon left the bewildered Red soldiers far behind. Had an adequate force of Gen. Bliss's scouts been on hand, it was said afterward, the Governor's escape would have been practically impossible.

Tenth Troopers' Big Capture.

The biggest capture of the day goes to the credit of the negro troopers of the Tenth Cavalry. This command, with Squadron A of New York and the Essex Troop from New Jersey, was ordered out to reconnoitre early this morning, the commands dividing up into small detachments and proceeding in all directions ahead of Gen. Bliss's advancing line of infantry and artillery. Capt. Ryan was in command of the largest of the Tenth detachment, and proceeded in the direction of Myrick, a small village five miles east of Taunton. Ryan knew that a large force of Blue scouts were operating near that place, and he determined to capture them, even if it took all day to do it. A few minutes before noon he came upon his prey. There were about seventy-five of them, and they were headed in the direction of the Taunton River when a veteran of San Juan Hill sighted them. Ryan was after them like a flash, his command dividing and widening out into circular formation so as to surround the fleeing Blue soldiers on all sides. Ryan's men knew exactly what he desired to be done, and before the Blues knew it they were caught in the neatest trap that has been sprung since this bloodless struggle for the possession of Boston began.

About fifteen of the Pew men got away, but the other sixty were caught and later turned over to the advance guard of the Fourteenth Regiment of Brooklyn for safe keeping. They were paroled and returned to their regiments to-night.

While the troopers of the Tenth were winning fame over at Myrick the Essex troopers were coming to grief near Middleboro. Thirty-six of the Essex men were told to raid Middleboro, and about 11 o'clock this morning they galloped out of their camp to surprise the natives of that peaceful village. They had a ride of about ten miles ahead of them, and had made nearly nine miles of the distance when a big force of Blues spied them. The Blues took up a position on the crest of a hill that the Essex men would have to climb in order to reach Middleboro. The men from New Jersey had no idea that they had been discovered, and the first they knew of the enemy's presence was when the Pew soldiers suddenly appeared in the bushes just ahead and opened a deadly fire on them.

The Essex men were in a perilous position, and escape was impossible. On one side of the hill was a cliff, while on the other was a deep ravine. This made it necessary for the Essex troopers to advance in close formation, so that when the Blues opened fire the umpires who witnessed the achievement of the Massachusetts soldiers could make only one decision, and that was a crushing defeat for the Essex troopers. The umpires decided that had it been actual warfare at least ten men would have been killed outright and many more wounded. Those of the troopers who were not umpired into the grave or hospital were permitted to escape by the umpires.

Sirloin Steak Their Undoing.

Another victory for the Blues was reported this afternoon from the settlement known as Rock, which is on the Bridgewater road, a few miles north of Gen. Bliss's headquarters, at South Middleboro, when word was received that a force of about fifty Red advance guards had been surprised and captured by a strong force of Blue skirmishers. The place where the capture was effected was about midway between Middleboro and South Middleboro. The Reds had been marching all day, and were a tired lot, and had been looking around for a quiet, safe place to lunch, when suddenly, like a whirlwind, the Blues swooped down upon them. The Reds were taken unawares, and resistance was out of the question. There was nothing to do but surrender. The Reds were marched into Blue territory, exhibited to the admiring Bay State soldiers, and then paroled. They meekly reported back to their regiments early this evening.

Capt. Ryan and his Tenth Cavalrymen, however, were destined to even up matters with the Blues for the liberties they

WHITNEY'S $50,000 SHOOT.

He Has Engaged More Than 100 Beaters for Holwick Hall Grouse Moor.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Harry Payne Whitney is cited by a London paper as "illustrating the lavish costliness to which sport in England may attain." Mr. Whitney has laid out about £10,000 ($50,000) on the Holwick Hall grouse moor in Upper Teesdale, and has engaged more than 100 beaters.

He arrived in England only Sunday after a visit to the Continent, and did not reach Holwick Hall until to-night. In a few days, after attending the Stockton and York race meetings, he will return to New York.

Mr. Whitney traveled from London to Darlington to-day in a private car attached to the Scotch express from King's Cross. The journey was continued from Darlington by special train. E. Harriman, cousin of the railway king, H. Burden, William Payne Thompson, and other prominent New Yorkers accompanied Mr. Whitney.

As a general computation, the season's grouse shooting is reckoned to cost the Englishman who rents a good shooting-box, with the payment of keepers and beaters and other incidentals, about one guinea a bird.

HARRIMAN COMING HOME?

He Leaves Munich and It Is Reported Will Sail on Saturday.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—E. H. Harriman has left Munich, saying he was going to Paris and London, and giving his Paris bankers' office as his address, in case there was anything for him requiring to be forwarded. Up to the time of his departure from Munich it was understood there that Mr. Harriman would not sail for America until the beginning of September, but his journey to Paris is a change from his previous plans, which included a short visit to Baden Baden.

No information was obtainable at any of the steamship offices here to-day to indicate that the financier had engaged passage by any steamer leaving an English port this week, but from a usually well-informed quarter I learn that he will probably sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. to-morrow or the Campania on Saturday.

While he was in Munich last week Mr. Harriman received a visit from George J. Gould, who was accompanied by his family. Mr. Harriman and Mr. Gould had a long conference in the sanitarium at Neuwittelsbach.

PRETTY GIRL DELAYS CAR.

Conductor Wouldn't Start Until Her Umbrella Was Closed.

She was about twenty-two and dressed in black, with a green automobile veil tied about her hat. She asked Conductor 536 of a White Plains Avenue car to close her umbrella as she boarded the car last night, and as he was young and obliging, he tackled the job.

He held it horizontally and vertically, tried mental suasion and brute force, and gave it up several times, only to try again, after the young woman had smiled at him. In the meantime twenty-five dripping business men who had taken temporary shelter under the Subway kiosk at the corner of Melrose Avenue and 149th Street, the Bronx, waited until they could board the car. She was holding the pass like Horatio, and no one could squirm into the entrance around her. If any one tried, Conductor 536 gently but firmly stopped him and said, "Ladies first."

As each car slowed up behind the first one, and the passengers stuck their heads from the windows to learn the cause of the delay, there were loud complaints, until Conductor 536 explained that the umbrella wouldn't shut, and until it did, she couldn't get in, and until she got in the car, it wouldn't go on, "see?" He was a firm conductor.

The young woman and the umbrella were causing so much excitement that she wanted to disown it, and pretend it belonged to some one else, but the trick didn't work. Every one knew by her blushes that it was her property.

Suddenly, 20 minutes later, the umbrella closed with a click. The twenty-five marooned in the kiosk made a rush for the first car, and as Conductor 536 pulled the bell for the motorman to go ahead, he smiled regretfully, and said:

"Don't mention it."

She was a pretty girl.

MADE BIGGER BY AN INJURY.

Passaic Man Hurt in a Runaway Here Fast Swelling Out.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 16.—Physicians at the General Hospital here are puzzled over the condition of Anthony Nato of 9 State Street, who was injured while carriage driving in New York City yesterday. Nato was thrown out, the carriage passing over him. He was seriously hurt and was hurried home by his friends.

Soon after reaching Jersey City the man's arms began to swell, as did his face. At the General Hospital here his clothes were removed, and to the amazement of the physicians Nato's entire body was puffed out as if air had been pumped into him. Several ribs were fractured, and his lungs were seriously injured. Every time he breathes Nato's body swells more.

His condition is precarious, but it is believed that he has some chance of recovery.

ADAMS AND PERSCH JOINTLY INDICTED

New Complaint Also Against Windsor Trust Employe in Heinze Swindle Inquiry.

GANG'S PLANS UNFOLDING

Various Other Queer Transactions Laid at Its Door—Bench Warrants for Persch and Adams.

A new complaint involving a transaction handled by an employe of the Windsor Trust Company was made yesterday to Acting District Attorney Nott, who has in charge the criminal inquiry into the $50,000 loan swindle on Heinze copper stocks operated through the Windsor Trust by a gang, two members of which have already been arrested. An attorney representing the loser came to the District Attorney's office with the story of this latest deal.

There will be a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Windsor Trust Company at 11 o'clock to-day, at which the part that company was made to play in the scheme to swindle F. A. Heinze and M. M. Joyce, his broker, out of $50,000 Ohio Copper and Davis-Daly Copper stocks will undoubtedly be brought up. The Windsor Trust management has now assumed an attitude of concealment concerning the investigation, if any, which the company itself is making into the Heinze loan. The dismissal of the clerk Birmingham, who accepted a $250 gratuity, appears to be taken as the closing chapter of the affair.

Jordan J. Rollins, counsel for the company, and a Director, refused yesterday, when questioned, to say who were the members of the Executive Committee or whether or not the meeting will take place at the uptown or the downtown offices of the company. Mr. Rollins did say, however, that no board meeting had yet been called to take up the Heinze loan case, despite the demand made by Theodore P. Shonts and other Directors. There was talk in well-informed quarters yesterday afternoon to the effect that a special investigating committee would be appointed at to-day's meeting of the Executive Committee.

A. D. S. Adams Indicted.

The Grand Jury yesterday returned a joint indictment against Donald Persch, the loan broker, now in the Tombs for the theft of the Heinze stock, and A. D. S. Adams of Boston, the financial man whose name has been brought into the Eclipse Oil stock loan deal in which a client of Cram & Mulliken of 115 Broadway was the borrower. In the Eclipse Oil case the investigation which Mr. Nott has made has showed that Persch undertook, on behalf of the supposed lender, "Henry F. Risbrough" of Philadelphia, to put the matter through. At the proper time he produced a man answering to the description of Adams who delivered the $7,000 constituting the loan, and took $15,000 Eclipse Oil stock as collateral.

The same day Cram & Mulliken got wind of the attempted sale of some of this stock on the Boston Curb, and, having stopped that, undertook to get back the collateral. Meantime, on the following day, Aug. 5, Adams delivered the stock to Leonard J. Field, son of Jacob Field, who advanced on it the $7,000 paid over by Adams the previous day, and the stock remains in Field's possession to this time.

Another indictment was returned yesterday against Persch charging him with the larceny of Heinze's Davis-Daly Copper Company stock and Ohio Copper Company stock. Bench warrants were issued for both Adams and Persch.

More Indictments Looked For.

It is believed that Adams will come to New York without extradition and fight the case, for he is understood to take the stand that the Cram-Mulliken loan agreement has not been violated by anything done with the collateral down to the present time. There are, however, new complaints coming into the District Attorney's office daily involving various of the parties who have figured in the loan swindles, and further indictments are expected from the Grand Jury to-day or to-morrow. Mr. Nott is particularly anxious to trace to the end the connection of Leonard Field & Co. with the matter, and to this end has served subpoenas duces tecum upon young Field to produce the books of his firm.

It may be said that the crux of the criminal investigation of the Heinze loan rests upon the connection with the matter of Leonard Field. Thus far the finances behind that loan and behind the Cram-Mulliken loan, as the latter came to stand a day after it was made, were derived from young Field's firm. The $50,000 which Persch had to lend to Heinze's friend Joyce on the Ohio and Davis copper stocks came directly from young Field through John S. Sherwood, and, as has been told, Adams recouped his $7,000 loaned to Cram-Mulliken's client through Field. Mr. Nott wants to find out whether young Field supplied this money in his own right and interest, or whether it was derived from other sources, and in this connection an examination of the books of Jacob Field is not improbable if Mr. Nott confirms certain suggestions that have come to him.

These facts account for all the relationships that have been established between the various parties, and point to more extensive ramifications of the loan swindle gang than have yet appeared. That young Field should have been well acquainted with the crowd was not surprising after it had been discovered that Adams had made Field's office at 74 Broadway his New York headquarters downtown for some time past. Sherwood's connection with Field is accounted for by the fact of his former employment in Field's office. Sherwood and Persch and Clark and Gustav Wassauer have been acquainted for some time, and the latter was interested with "Col." J. P. Persch, Donald Persch's father, and Charles Katz of the Eastern Brewing Company of Brooklyn, in the Independent Brewing Company, which was exposed in THE TIMES last November. The other names that have appeared, such as Birmingham, the former clerk in the Windsor Trust Company, whom Clark and Persch picked up, and Henry Ullman, the manager of Katz's brewery, all fit into their proper places.

The investigation made on behalf of members of the American Bankers' Association discloses not only the personnel of this contingent of operators, but the origin and inspiration of the loan scheme in which their names have figured with one victim or another. At the same time this probe has indicated how F. A. Heinze came so readily to fall into the trap, and the latter story may properly be told before the former.

Heinze, it develops, has been employing Joyce for some time in making a market

CURTISS HAS MISHAP.

Aviator Not Seriously Hurt, but Machine Is Damaged at Rheims.

RHEIMS, Aug. 16.—After two successful flights here in preparation for "aviation week," Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator, met with an accident on his third trial.

The accident was due to a violent gust of wind catching the aeroplane crosswise and causing it to strike the ground hard on its side. Mr. Curtiss is suffering from shock and bruises, though his condition is not serious.

The damage to the aeroplane was considerable, and it is feared that the time required for repairing it may preclude Mr. Curtiss's participation in the first days of the meeting.

Curtiss's trial was viewed by a large crowd. When he brought out his aeroplane to the Betheny Field fifty mounted gendarmes were engaged in a practice drill. Curtiss started up his motor, when suddenly a dozen horses, frightened by the whirr of the machine, began plunging wildly and galloped off almost beyond the control of their riders.

Remarking that the motor ran well even if it did make a good deal of noise, Curtiss took his position on the machine and flew away, making a turn over the heads of the horses before he landed.

A hurricane, accompanied by hail and torrents of rain, swept over the aerodrome to-night, unroofing a number of sheds and drenching M. Delagrange, who was making a short flight in M. Blériot's machine.

The Organization Committee of "aviation week," presided over by the Marquis of Polignac, was entertained at a banquet here to-night. Among the aviators present were Count de Lambert and MM. Blériot, Delagrange, and Tissandier.

HUGHES BACK IN SARANAC.

Returns from His Western Trip—To Take Up Haffen Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Gov. Hughes reached Saranac Lake to-night, having ended his visit to Seattle and the Alaska-Yukon Exposition. He expressed himself as delighted with the trip and said that he was much refreshed by his vacation. Gov. Hughes didn't wish to go into details about the trip, save to mention the various interesting points in the United States and Canada which he had visited on a trip aside from the exposition. He spent several days in Yellowstone Park en route to Seattle. In returning from the exposition he passed through the Canadian Selkirks. During the tour he did much walking, which he said was beneficial to him.

Gov. Hughes was met at the train by Mrs. Hughes, and they drove to their cabin, where the Governor will remain until Wednesday, when he will return to Albany.

His family will remain here until late in September and the Governor will make week-end trips from Albany. To meet her husband this evening, Mrs. Hughes took a sixteen-mile carriage drive on the wet mountain roads.

The Governor spoke of the Seattle Exposition, its management, and the reception accorded him in the highest terms.

"We do not realize the possibilities of the Northwestern country," he said, "and the beauty is that while it is rapidly developing on either side of the line, there is no unfriendliness attending its advancement."

Gov. Hughes said that he would take up at once the consideration of the case of Louis A. Haffen, President of the Bronx, whose removal on charges a special commissioner has recommended.

WIDOW OF 81 YEARS TO WED.

Smokes Clay Pipe and Gives Advice at License Office—Fiance Is 81.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Evalina Hall, a widow 81 years old, and Robert B. Wright, aged 51 years, both of Turtle Creek, Penn., to-day took out a marriage license in the Allegheny County license office. They will marry on Thursday evening. John Hall, aged 62 years, son of the woman by a former husband, was present, and declared his mother to be of legal age.

Mrs. Hall, who owns a large farm and is wealthy, asked Marriage License Clerk J. S. Wherry if he would object if she took a little smoke. Wherry told her to "go as far as she liked." Whereupon she produced and smoked a clay pipe. While waiting for the papers to be filled out she gave some motherly advice to several young women, who were bashfully waiting to get their own licenses.

Mrs. Hall has been a widow five years. She offered to bet Clerk Wherry that she would live to be 100 years old.

FIVE FIRES IN ROCHESTER.

Police of That City Believe Incendiaries Are Again at Work.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 16.—After a lull of several weeks incendiaries are believed to have begun their work again in Rochester, when five fires were discovered in less than two hours. In each instance there was some evidence of the work of incendiaries. In Railroad Street a man was seen to run away from a building that had just been discovered ablaze.

The heaviest losses were in the Walter May commission house, and in the Wayne County Driers and Packers' Fruit Company, both being in the Railroad Street block. They were burned out, and the buildings were gutted. The loss is estimated at $50,000. Later the factory of the Rochester Mattress Company was gutted, with a $5,000 loss.

A bottle thought to contain gasoline started a fire in a flat on Jay Street, but a resident of the block gave the alarm in time. The other fires were unimportant, but the police think them suspicious.

This station is situated in the marshes near Fall Creek, to the southwest of the city, and contains a number of important scientific instruments used by the men engaged in research work in the marshes.

The loss was reported to the police by Prof. J. G. Needham, head of the department, who said that other burglaries had been committed recently.

TWO LOST IN ASCENT OF MOUNT TACOMA

Packs of J. W. Stevens of Trenton and Callaghan, a Seattle Man, Found Near Crater.

STARTED WITHOUT A GUIDE

Three in Party Which Started to Climb the Mountain, but One Turned Back with Frozen Hands.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 16.—T. F. Callaghan of Seattle and Joseph W. Stevens of Trenton, N. J., are lost on Mount Tacoma. They started to ascend the mountain on Saturday morning without a guide, and were last seen by J. P. Stirley, who started with them and went as far as Gibraltar Rock. He returned with frozen hands. He said the others had decided to go on, in spite of a gathering storm. A searching party of four, carrying provisions for several days, led by Joseph Stampfeler, started at 9 A. M. yesterday, and at 3 P. M. they signaled no success from McClure Rock.

At 8 o'clock this morning E. A. Phillips and A. H. Swartz returned and reported finding a place on the edge of a large crevasse where the men are believed to have slipped in. Joseph Stampfeler, worn out with the hunt, returned, and Jules Stampfeler and a party of five took up the search this morning.

Word was received from the mountain later in the forenoon that the searchers had found the Alpine staffs and the packs of the lost men ten feet from the crater.

There is little hope of finding the men alive. They carried little or no food, and even if they did not fall into the crevasse it is probable that they died from hunger and exposure. A severe blizzard swept the mountain heights Saturday night. One of the climbers lost on the top of Mt. Tomaco was about 60 years old, according to Robert Lee, general agent of the Harriman lines, who returned from Longmire Springs to-day.

"All three of the men were well along in years," said Lee this afternoon. "The oldest man was a resident of West Seattle. They started at 4 o'clock Saturday morning refusing to take guides. They said that although they had never climbed Mt. Tacoma before they had often climbed mountains in California and that they were experienced enough not to need guides. They started from Camp of Clouds.

"One of the men was in the rear and began to tire before they had gone more than half way up the trail. His hands became numb with the intense cold of early morning, and, finally lagging behind, he began to draw further and further away from his companions. A cloud suddenly floated between him and the other two and he decided to return to camp. The intervening cloud kept him from signaling the other climbers, and they did not know he turned back.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 16.—Joseph W. Stevens is a well-known contractor here. He is the son-in-law of the late William Cloke, formerly of The New York Herald. He represented the Seventeenth Ward of Trenton in the Mercer County Board of Freeholders.

TWO SHOCKED TO DEATH.

Overcharged Electric Switch Kills Coal Company Employes.

Two stablemen in the employ of the Jagels & Bellis Coal Company, at their Weehawken stables, were killed at an overcharged electric switch in the stables last night. It is supposed that the lighting wire came into contact with the feed wire of a trolley line and sparks began to play about the switch. In the stable were Robert Zubro of 210 Hackensack Plank Road, Union Hill, and Laughlin Tierney, 38 years old, of Homestead. It is supposed that when they saw the sparks shooting about the switchboard one went to the board to try and cut off the power and received a shock and the other then went to his assistance and was also shocked and killed.

When the night watchman, Herman Kornschultz, went on duty he found the two men lying on the floor under the stoop, and called an ambulance. The men were taken to the North Hudson Hospital, but the doctors decided they could not be revived.

Zubro was a widower without children. He had worked for the company for eight years. Tierney, who was single, had been in the company's employ sixteen years.

PROMOTER KILLS HIMSELF.

D. H. Bidwell of New York Was Unable to Finance Motor Company.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 16.—David H. Bidwell of New York, a promoter, who has been engaged in many enterprises in New York and throughout the country, shot and killed himself on the lawn of his sister's home, in Becket, twelve miles from here, this afternoon. Bidwell had been here since June, engaged in promoting and financing a motor car company.

He said here that he had many wealthy acquaintances in Boston, Pittsburg, and Philadelphia whom he could interest. Failing to do this, and at the end of his resources, he went to Becket to see his sister, Miss Elizabeth Bidwell. Following a talk with her he walked out of the house and shot himself.

Bidwell had been at one time associated with M. M. Belding of New York in several enterprises. His last residence in New York was the Sherman Square Hotel. He was interested in the Yetman Typewriter Company in North Adams, which failed several years ago. He was 62 years old.

At the Sherman Square Hotel, 200 West Seventy-first Street, it was said yesterday that Mr. Bidwell lived there, but had not been at home for the last two or three months. He was known as a well-to-do promoter.

LOWER CUNARD RATE.

Second Cabin Passage Cut to $52—All Its Liners to Touch at Fishguard.

The Cunard Line announced yesterday that the second cabin minimum rate on the Carmania and Caronia would be reduced from $55 to $52.50 from now on.

It was announced also that all the Cunard steamships bound for Liverpool would call at Fishguard on the eastward passage, commencing with the Mauretania's trip from this port on Aug. 25, and that the fixed sailing hour of the Cunard liners would in future be 10 o'clock.

SAWS OUT OF GUARD HOUSE.

General Alarm Out for Soldier Who Escaped from Fort Totten.

The escape of Private Arthur D. Gibson, a garrison prisoner at Fort Totten, S. I., was reported to the police here last night, and a general alarm was sent out for the soldier. He sawed his way out of the Fort Totten guard house during the afternoon.

The military authorities gave out no information in regard to the offense for which Gibson was in the guard house. The soldier is a private in the One Hundred and Sixty-seventh Company, Coast Artillery.

He wore a prison suit of brown and a brown slouch hat when he escaped. He has an eagle and shield tatooed on his breast.

MEXICO AGAIN SHAKEN.

Shock of Moderate Intensity Is Recorded in Washington.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 16.—A slight earthquake was felt in Mexico City early this morning. No report on this shock has been received yet from Guerrero, the seat of the recent disastrous earthquake.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The seismograph of the Weather Bureau began to quiver moderately at 2:05 this morning, and for more than an hour the signs of an earthquake somewhere continued. It was estimated that the centre of the disturbance was about 2,500 miles distant. A statement was given out later by the officials of the Coast Survey, saying:

"The character of the record is similar to that of the record of the Mexican earthquake of July 30, though much less in magnitude. The record indicates that the origin of the disturbance was in the southeastern part of Mexico."

DESERTED FROM THE DIXIE.

Firemen and Sailor Took With Them a Motor Dory and Crew's Valuables.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16.—The police of near-by towns are looking for Edward Mahar, a fireman, and Thomas Hogg, a seaman, of the cruiser Dixie, which came from the Atlantic fleet Friday with torpedoes requiring overhauling at the torpedo station. The two men took a motor dory from the Dixie soon after midnight Saturday, and carried with them jewelry and clothing belonging to members of the crew.

Lieut. Paul Foley, commanding the Dixie, has offered rewards of $20 for the arrest of the men. The agent of the Middletown station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford found the dory Sunday morning on the beach at Middletown. It has been returned to the Dixie.

STRIKERS HAVE WARSHIP.

Pressed Steel Car Company's Workers Challenge Employer's Armed Boat.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Aug. 16.—Five hundred additional workmen were taken into the mill yards of the Pressed Steel Car Company to-day, making a total of 1,500 men now being lodged there. The company says it will not start the mills until after the Pittsburg courts have passed on the strike question on Wednesday. Then, it says, it will start in full. A few hundred of the strikers who tried to stop the new men when they came off the trains were chased by railroad detectives with guns. The strikers fired many shots at long range, as the workmen were being taken to the mills across the river.

Late this afternoon the strikers announced that they, too, had an armed vessel, and a challenge to fight the Steel Queen, which is armed with a machine gun, was sent. The strikers' vessel, which is named the Spy, has a mounted gun, and, while the question of arming the vessel has been considered as a joke, the crew of the Steel Queen did not think so to-day when they heard the Spy was on the warpath, and they deserted in a body. A new crew was got quickly, however.

SUTTON VERDICT REACHED.

Rumored in Annapolis That It Removes Stigma of Suicide.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 16.—A verdict was reached in the Sutton case late this afternoon. The findings of the court were at once forwarded to Washington, where after being reviewed by the Judge Advocate General and the Secretary of the Navy, they will be made public. What the findings of the court are none of the members would say. They expressed great relief that their duty was completed and their connection with the case ended.

Major Henry Leonard, Judge Advocate of the court, who at his own request was allowed to withdraw from all participation in the court's deliberations, returned to Annapolis from Washington to-night to sign the findings. He took the sealed findings and left for Washington, guarded by a Sergeant of Marines.

That the verdict removes the stigma of positive suicide from young Lieut. Sutton's record, but does not go so far as to call his death an accident, is the consensus of opinion here. It is believed that the court has found that Lieut. Sutton came to his death from a shot fired out of a revolver in his own hands and that the court is unable to determine whether the shot was fired with suicidal or homicidal intent.

SKIES EMPTY DELUGE ON CITY AND COAST

TENTERS ARE DROWNED OUT

Brighton Theatregoers Rafted to Music Hall Doors—High Seas at Coast Resorts—Streets Flooded, Cars Stopped.

New York received such a deluge yesterday and last night as it had not had during the entire Summer. After a number of showers on Sunday evening, a rainstorm struck the city about 4 o'clock in the morning, and continued a steady, uninterrupted downpour all day long. By 10 P. M. four and one-half inches had fallen, and there were no signs of its ceasing. The New England States and the eastern portion of the Middle Atlantic States came in for a similar downpour.

Along the Atlantic Coast the storm raised very heavy seas, and from many different points the news came of boardwalks submerged and cellars flooded. At Long Beach the velocity of the wind at 10 o'clock last night was estimated at forty miles an hour. At Manhattan Beach the sea ran very high. At Brighton Beach the patrons of the theatre had to get to the doors on rafts, and at Rockaway Beach and Rockaway Park the tent colony suffered particularly severely.

The rain poured through the canvas of their tents and converted the ground into a morass. They could cook no food and had to sleep with raincoats on under umbrellas. If it rains to-day it is expected that the whole population of the tent cities, about 1,500, whill be driven to seek refuge in New York. The Summer tenants of the small cottages were not much better off, as the rain poured through the flimsy roofs and flooded from the street into the cellars, and to make things worse the wind rose as high as thirty-five miles an hour.

Some of the hardier spirits sallied out to look for food, but all the restaurants had closed up. At Rockaway Beach the water was from one foot to eighteen inches deep on the Boulevard and transformed the place for a time into a miniature Venice. The sewers were old, it was said, and entirely too small to carry off the heavy rains.

Trolley Cars Plow Through Water.

Hammels was completely cut off for pedestrians between Grove and Chase Avenues, and the trolley cars churned their way through eighteen inches of water to get through.

In South Brooklyn and Coney Island also there was much overflowing of sewers. The cellars were filled and the street car traffic interfered with. At many corners, when the cars stopped, the men were called upon to pick up the women and wade with them to the sidewalk. Traffic on the Thirty-ninth Street line was blocked for nearly two hours by the water, which rose so high that the cars could not run.

By 8 o'clock last night the New Brighton Beach Theatre stood on an island entirely surrounded by water. On rainy nights there is always a good attendance, for the falling away of the usual crowds from Manhattan is more than made up by the large number of show employes at Coney Island, Manhattan Beach, and other resorts along the coast, who take the opportunity of a night off. Last night, when they had alighted from the B. R. T. trains at the station they found 100 feet of water between them and the entrance to the theatre. The railway rose to the occasion and constructed four rafts, upon which the passengers were ferried over to the theatre.

The officer on duty at the Sandy Hook Life Saving Station last night reported over the telephone that there was a strong northeast wind blowing outside and a heavy sea. The rain was falling in sheets and the weather was very thick. No ships had been reported going ashore at midnight.

Jeremiah Bensen and Henry Oak, deckhands on the municipal ferryboat Manhattan, rescued yesterday Samuel Stanson of 442 Thirty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, a Government stakeboat keeper, from drowning as his sailboat capsized 500 feet off Staten Island. A flaw struck his sail and upset his boat just as the Manhattan left the St. George slip. The Captain stopped the engines, and Bensen and Oak threw ropes to Stanson. He caught one, and was immediately pulled aboard.

George Stubman, a guest of the Midland Hotel at Coney Island, went in bathing yesterday afternoon. About 3 o'clock the life guards employed at Balmer's Bathing Pavilion saw him among the supports of the Iron Pier, evidently in distress. The guards attempted to launch a boat, but the sea was too rough. Finally five of them together swam out to Stubman and brought him ashore. He had lost consciousness by that time, but was revived and will live.

New York Awash All Day Long.

New Yorkers shivered when they arose yesterday morning, as the temperature at 6 o'clock was as low as 56. This is very nearly the record for the month, and it has not been as cold since Aug. 27, 1885, when the mercury dropped to 51. The average temperature yesterday was only 67 degrees.

Every street was awash with water from early dawn yesterday. Every one who could stayed in doors and those who were forced to go out were thoroughly soaked before they had gone half a dozen steps. The rain fell in sheets, and a breeze blew it under umbrellas into the faces of pedestrians.

Forecaster Emery sat in the office of the United States Weather Bureau at 100 Broadway yesterday afternoon and smiled as he watched the heavy mantle of gray clouds outside. The record rainfall for twenty-four hours was on Oct. 8-9, 1903, when the rainfall was 9.40 inches. Since then there have been several precipitations equaling yesterday's.

"It is the heaviest rainfall so far this Summer," said he, "and it has brought great relief to the parched Atlantic States, which have been suffering for many weeks from drought. The heavy storm is due to a disturbance which centred in the Great Lakes district, moving slowly eastward and southward. It reached New York about 4 o'clock this morning, being preceded by a series of local showers.

"For the first half of the month the rainfall has been about normal, but this downfall makes it at least three inches above the normal precipitation. To-day the storm is general over the New England States and the eastern portion of the Middle Atlantic States, but the heaviest rainfall is along the coast. Rain was not well distributed during July in this section, and a month of such variable weather is apt to bring a heavy rain storm.

Fair Weather to Return Soon.

"Late to-night or to-morrow the prevailing easterly winds will shift to the west, and we may look for clear weather and a rising temperature all along the Atlantic. The winds have been moderate throughout the storm, but the Washington Bureau sent out a northeast storm warning last night."

Several accidents occurred during the day, as the pavements, made slippery by the rain, were exceedingly dangerous to automobiles. As a touring car was going up Broadway yesterday afternoon an automobile owned by the Edison Electric Company, just ahead of it, skidded in front of the Equitable Building at Cedar Street and turned directly in front of a Broadway car.

The street car struck it, giving the passengers a slight shake-up, and threw it directly in front of the touring car. August Whyland, the chauffeur of the touring machine, applied the emergency brake, but he was too late, and the front wheels of his automobile were smashed on the rear of the Edison car. The latter was only slightly damaged, and no one in either car was injured. Whyland said that the machine he was driving belonged to Dr. Heagley of 163 Willoughby Avenue, Brooklyn.

Mother and Children Nearly Run Over.

Another accident occurred at Third Avenue and Seventeenth Street early in the afternoon. Mrs. Mary Deljonca of 279 Avenue C was crossing Third Avenue with her umbrella lowered so as to block her view. Under her right arm she carried her eleven months' old son, Addie, and with her left hand she raised her daughter, Olga, 3 years old, to carry her to the opposite sidewalk.

A United Express Company's double truck delivery wagon bore down on the mother and children. John Giessen, the driver, of 438 West Fifty-eighth Street, says that he shouted to her, but his voice must have been drowned by the elevated trains. In an instant the horses knocked Mrs. Deljonca down and the heavy wagon pole struck little Olga, inflicting a scalp wound four inches long. The baby fell from his mother's arms, cutting his forehead. Had not Giessen swerved his team the wheels would have passed over the helpless infant. As it was, they missed him by an inch. Mrs. Deljonca and her children were taken to Bellevue Hospital. Giessen was locked up in the East Twenty-second Street Station, charged with assault.

Owing to the weather conditions the traffic on all lines of transportation was materialy increased. The street car lines were jammed with damp individuals, and the Subway did a rushing business from daylight till long after nightfall. The attendance at the theatres fell off considerably, as it was a brave man who would prefer venturing into the wet to sitting at home in the security of dry clothes.

There was general rejoicing among the farmers in New Jersey and on Long Island, as the crops for several weeks past have been in great need of rain.

5,000 COMMUTERS STORMBOUND.

Rain Ties Up Steam Road First, Then Paralyzes Trolley Lines.

Five thousand New York, New Haven & Hartford commuters living in cities and towns from Mount Vernon to Stamford, Conn., were delayed for over two hours last night in getting home by a peculiar accident.

The Mount Vernon authorities have been repaving Scott's Bridge, which spans the railroad tracks in that place, and during yesterday's storm a big pool of water collected on the bridge. As the 6:13 New Rochelle express was passing under the bridge the planking spread, letting the deluge down upon the motor of the locomotive, burning out the fuse. The electrical display that ensued was seen for miles.

The mishap short circuited the entire system from Wakefield to Stamford, stalling some two dozen heavily laden trains. After waiting an hour or more scores of commuters bound for towns above Mount Vernon walked through the rain for more than half a mile to board trolley cars.

They had not proceeded far by trolley however, when they were again overtaken by misfortune, the storm having beaten down a big tree at the corner of South Fifth Avenue and Third Street, which knocked down the wires and crippled the entire trolley service.

It was after 9 o'clock before commuters due at dinner at 6 reached their homes.

FIGHT A FIRE IN THE STORM.

Rockaway Beach Boulevard Summer Residents Routed Out in the Rain.

In the midst of a heavy storm of wind and rain about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a fire started in the loft of 73 Boulevard, Rockaway Beach, which threatened for a time to destroy the entire block of buildings from No. 73 to 81, just opposite Chaffee's Tent City. The fire spread through the lofts of the entire block, but did not come down to the floors or go up through the roofs—except a small hole in No. 73—of the houses, which are three-story frame buildings, with stores on the ground floor, and two families on each floor above.

Two engine companies and a hook and ladder company fought the flames. Owing to the drains not having sufficient capacity to carry off the rain that had fallen since midnight on Sunday, the Boulevard was flooded, and the horses drawing the fire engines were in some places over their knees in water as they galloped along.

Acting Fire Chief Lenahan quickly got the families out of the burning buildings. The firemen had to fight their way through the suffocating smoke in the lofts, where all kinds of old rubbish had been stored between the roofs and the ceilings of the rooms occupied by the Summer boarders.

After breaking down the brick partitions between the houses the firemen got their hose to work, and after an hour's hard work they got the fire under control.

Chief Lenahan said it was a most peculiar fire, as it had originated in the small loft at No. 73, and there was nothing to show what had caused the blaze. He estimated the damage at $1,000. As the fire was practically under cover the heavy rains did not help extinguish the flames.

Large crowds of holiday makers watched the firemen at work, and all traffic on the Boulevard was shut off until the fire had been got under control. The restaurant, barber's shop, drug store, grocer's and stationer's stores underneath were not damaged by the fire, but they all suffered considerably from the heavy streams of water that had been pumped into the lofts.

The block from 73 to 81 Boulevard is situated in the centre of a densely populated section of Rockaway Beach. The buildings are all owned by Monroe Rosenfeld, who rents them to Summer residents

HITCHCOCK IN STORM.

Actor, His Wife, and Her Cousin Bufeted for Hours in Frail Canoe.

The first rehearsal of Raymond Hitchcock's new play, which was to have taken place yesterday, had to be postponed because the actor was at his home in Great Neck, L. I., recovering from the effects of five hours of danger on Cow Bay, Long Island Sound, the day before.

Accompanied by his wife, Flora Zabelle, and Charles Kondazian, her cousin, who has been in this country from Armenia only a month or so, Mr. Hitchcock started out in a fifteen fo[illegible]

A sudden squall came up, and the little craft was at the mercy of the wind and waves. Mr. Kondarian, who can't swim, was so frightened that he endangered the lives of his two companions by squirming around in the canoe.

The canoe finally drifted between two rocks, and there was buffeted for five hours. Mr. Hitchcock steered it to a rock, and all three got off. Then his wife fell in a swoon. The party was rescued by a launch, and were hurried to the Hitchcock home at Great Neck. There they remained all day yesterday.

LONG DROUGHT IS BROKEN.

Heavy Rains Up State Greatly Relieve the Crop Situation.

INTERLAKEN, N. Y., Aug. 16.—This section of Seneca County, where a drought has prevailed for several weeks, lies thoroughly drenched to-day, as the result of two heavy showers late yesterday and an electrical storm during the night, accompanied by a heavy downpour.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The heavy rain yesterday greatly relieved the crop situation in Western New York, especially in the grape and apple growing belts. Up to the rain general crops also had suffered greatly.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Aug. 16.—Reports from various portions of Pennsylvania are to the effect that while the drought has actully been broken by general showers during last night and this morning, the rainfall has been disappointingly light.

The light showers have been sufficient to extinguish most of the forest fires and lay the dust, but there has been no appreciable increase in the flow of streams on which cities and towns depend for their water supply. Much more rain is needed to revive the crops that had not been harvested before the drought.

DROUGHT HURTS PEACH CROP.

Rain Will Help Only the Later Jersey Varieties—War on San Jose Scale.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, N. J., Aug. 16.—Jersey peach growers have suffered greatly from the long drought. The early fruit in many sections has been very small, and even the rain of to-day came too late to be of much benefit, except to the late varieties. These, however, are now expected to improve so greatly as partly to make up for the loss in the earlier crop.

The waging of an intelligent war against the San José scale has helped to revive the New Jersey fruit growing business. Keifer pears, which many growers seized upon as their only salvation after the destruction of their peach orchards, proved too bountiful to be profitable, and many growers have returned to the popular Jersey peach.

BRIDGE WRECKS A LAUNCH.

Falls as Vessel Passes and Injuries Members of Pleasure Party.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The yacht Dagon, owned by Capt. M. W. Collyer of Chelsea, was struck by the life bridge at the entrance of Wappingers Creek last night and was damaged to the extent of about $500. The creek is an inlet to the Hudson, this city, and Poughkeepsie.

Capt. Collyer had a party of friends aboard and was steaming out of the creek on a trip to Long Island Sound.

As the boat neared the bridge the pilot noticed that the bridge was not ascending rapidly enough, but it was high enough to allow the boat to pass under. When the boat was half way through, the bridge commenced to lower, and before the launch was free the bridge descended and struck the craft. Several of the party were on the deck and could not escape being struck. Some of them were badly injured.

Electric Storm Kills Two in Georgia.

ROME, Ga., Aug. 16.—A severe electrical storm passed over Tryon, in Chatooga County, to-day, killing two men and injuring five, one seriously, from a stroke of lightning. Lightning also damaged the depot of the Central of Georgia Railroad. Sam Ray and Clarence McCants were the men killed, while Jess McCants was seriously injured.

STOLE FOR STARVING WIFE.

Bancher Caught as He Left Butcher Shop Into Which He Had Broken.

It was raining yesterday morning at 4 o'clock, at which hour William E. Bancher was in a hall bedroom at 219 East 125th Street. His wife, frail and dying of consumption, lay on the bed. Neither of them had had any food since Saturday, and little then. She had asked often for it Sunday.

Three weeks before Bancher had been a stoker on the Grand Republic, but had lost that position. Before that, in years gone by, he had been fairly well to do. He and his wife had known the comforts, even the luxuries, of life.

Tip-toeing about in the room so as not to awaken his wife, Bancher got together a screw driver, a hammer, and other tools. He went to the butcher's shop at 303 East 125th Street, just down the street, and broke into it. He had traded there, and he knew the lay of the shop. He cut off some pieces of beef, put them in a suit case, and started back to his home. He was stopped by Policeman Zapke, who searched the case and then arrested him. He went to a cell in the East 126th Street Station.

He admitted his burglary to Magistrate Breen in the Harlem Court yesterday morning, telling why he had done it. The Magistrate sent Probation Officer Crotty out to confirm his story, with orders to give Mrs. Bancher food and clothes if she needed them, at his expense.

Crotty, on his first visit, found Mrs. Bancher out; on his second he found her in the hall bedroom, hungrier, more sick, and more hopeless than ever. She had been out to look for work and for news of her husband, about whose arrest she had heard. She had found neither up to that time.

Crotty procured food for Mrs. Bancher, but he could do nothing else to comfort her.

Bancher was held in $1,500 bail for further examination.

PREVENTABLE BUSINESS FAILURE

A large percentage of business failures would never occur if those responsible knew where they stood from day to day—if wastes and losses and bad policies were clearly revealed before they crippled the business, before they began to approach disaster.

Our service makes provision for such information in every department of a business house—not once or twice a year, but day by day—not involved in a mass of detail, but reduced to the vital, speaking facts.

We solicit the privilege of outlining our methods of work.

HEAT WAVE IN WEST CAUSES MANY DEATHS

Hottest Day in Eight Years Experienced in Southwest, with Temperature Above 100.

21 PERSONS DIE IN ST. LOUIS

New Record Established in That City—Wave Not So Severe Coming East, Says Federal Forecaster.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16.—Three men died of the heat here to-day, adding to the nine deaths Saturday and Sunday, which did not become known until to-day, and making a total of twenty-one persons who have succumbed during the present heat wave. There is no indication of relief, though a slight shower yesterday cooled the atmosphere for a few hours. The maximum temperature to-day was about 95 degrees.

The heat prostrations will number almost 100. The present heat wave has established a record in St. Louis. Reports from the Street Department show that 180 horses have died on the streets from the heat in the last five days.

Many laborers quit work at noon to-day, unable to stand the sun's rays longer.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 16.—Eleven deaths have occurred in Omaha in the last twenty-four hours, as the result of one of the hottest waves Nebraska has ever known, and which is continuing without a break.

There were nine prostrations reported to the police to-day, and numerous ones which were not reported. Many horses died on the streets.

Out in the State there were a number of deaths, and also many prostrations. In Omaha all building operations have ceased or are being carried on at night by electric light.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 16.—The last twenty-four hours were the hottest experienced in the Southwest since 1901. Several temperatures of 103 and many above 100 were recorded, Enid, Okla., reported 105; Fort Smith, Ark., 102; Concordia, Kan., 102, and Lamar, Mo., 101. The heat continued to-day. No deaths have been reported.

Last night was the warmest night in years. At midnight the temperature at Topeka registered at 84, while 87 was recorded in Kansas City. Many persons spent the night in the parks or slept on porches or lawns.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 16.—Although Sunday was the hottest day in St. Joseph in eight years, the record was broken to-day, when the mercury registered 96.

SEEK SCHUMACHER MURDERER

Priest Tells at Inquest of High Character of Seminary Students.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Among those who were examined at the inquest into the murder of Anna Schumacher to-day was the Rev. Dr. James Joseph Hartley, pro-rector of St. Bernard's Seminary and the principal residing officer at the seminary. Because of vacation, he said, there were but five students at the seminary. He testified they were of high character and under strict discipline. He especially spoke well of the Filipino students at the seminary, who remained at the institution during vacation.

Mrs. Theresa Schiel, who was at the cemetery the day Anna Schumacher was murdered and spoke to her, told of having been addressed by a man at the cemetery, but this man will not be brought into the case until he has had a chance to tell his own story. What he has to say is not regarded as necessarily incriminating.

The inquest is not believed to have added much of value to the information possessed by the county authorities. The arrest and examination of suspects in and about the county goes on, but none has yet been closely connected with the crime.

ROBBED DETECTIVE OF $500.

Man Who Promised to Lead Him to Criminal Proves a Thief.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Thomas D. Stewart, a former coal merchant of Pittsburg, and now the head of a private detective agency in that city, to-night reported to the police the loss of money and jewelry worth $500. Mr. Stewart came to Chicago Saturday night and registered at a downtown hotel.

He had with him a man, who gave the name of Frank H. Farrell. Farrell had induced the detective to come to Chicago to lead him to the man who he said was responsible for the dynamiting of the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge near Pittsburg several months ago, and for whom a $5,000 reward is offered.

The detective and his informant took the same room at the hotel, Stewart told the police, and in the morning Farrell was gone and so was the jewelry and the money.

FLOOD OF LETTERS FOR THAW.

Chiefly from Cranks and Women—Back to Matteawan To-Morrow.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Aug. 16.—Harry K. Thaw, who is to be moved from the jail here back to the Matteawan Asylum on Wednesday, is putting in his last days opening the hundreds of letters sent to him. He replies only to those written by personal friends and his counsel, but he reads all the others that come in. They are chiefly from cranks and women.

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw and her daughter, the former Countess of Yarmouth, spent two hours in the morning and most of the afternoon in the jail with Harry Thaw. Mrs. Thaw has here in her employ two private detectives, whose chief work, however, seems to be to act as messengers.

Sheriff Scherp said to-day that he and his Deputies would not transfer the prisoner back to Matteawan. He expects Dr. Baker and two guards from the asylum Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, to whom he will turn over Harry K. Thaw.

TO CELEBRATE IN MIDRIVER.

Exercises To-Day on Robert Fulton to Commemorate Clermont's Maiden Trip.

One hundred and two years ago to-day at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, Robert Fulton started the maiden trip of his steamboat Clermont from a pier off the site of the old State Prison, which stood in the square now bounded by Washington, West Tenth, West, and Charles Streets.

At exactly 1 o'clock this afternoon the anniversary of the event will be celebrated on board the Hudson River Day Line boat Robert Fulton as she passes between Newburg and Poughkeepsie. Creswell Maclaughlin of Cornwall-on-Hudson will make an address on Fulton's life and accomplishments; Fulton's favorite song, "Bonnie Doon" will be sung by the passengers, led by the steamer's band; Robert Underwood's ode to Fulton will be read, and Mrs. Alice Crary Sutcliffe, great-granddaughter of Robert Fulton, will also speak.

BACK WITH ELKINS PEDIGREE.

Mrs. Richardson Sure She Traced the Family to Old Italian Royalty.

Mrs. Albert L. Richardson, the Maryland woman who has been in England gathering data for her book on the ancestors of American colonists, returned yesterday on the Atlantic Transport liner Minneapolis. Mrs. Richardson traced the ancestry of Miss Katherine Elkins on her mother's side back to an old Italian royal family, and also to the family tree, which sprung from Charlemagne.

This record Mrs. Richardson has filed in England, and she brings back a certificate from the registrar of the College of Heralds in England approving her findings.

BOY GAMELY FIGHTS NIAGARA WHIRLPOOL

Caught in Current as He Took a Swim, He Tried to Get Back to Shore

BUT STREAM SWEPT HIM ON

Then He Deliberately Turned Down Stream and Tried to Swim Through Whirlpool—Sank Finally.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—August Sporer, an eighteen-year-old boy of this city, went to his death this afternoon in the whirlpool rapids after a gallant battle with the large waves between the lower bridges and the pool.

With three companions Sporer went for a swim in the river at the old Maid of the Mist landing. He struck out at once for the middle of the stream and then turned toward the bridges. His companions called to him to turn back, for the current is very swift at that point, but he kept on downstream and was caught in the great sweep, the first break from the smoother waters to the rapids.

The boy battled for a time against the current, but to no avail. Then, evidently realizing that he was beyond human help and was to be carried through the rapids, which took the life of the Englishman Capt. Webb, and which have resisted every unaided human effort at passage, he deliberately turned downstream and began a fight to live through the rapids.

Not in all the history of the river has such a stanch attempt been witnessed, observers say. Although but a frail boy, Sporer went into the rapids, swimming strongly, and held his own until he struck the giant wave which curls up opposite the old battery elevator. Then he went under, and for a second was lost to sight of the score of people who stood on the lower arch bridge.

Again and again he disappeared, only to reappear, each time fighting desperately against the terrible current, but when within 300 yards of the whirlpool his strength gave out, he sank, and was lost to view. Even then he had swum perhaps 100 yards further than Capt. Webb did.

The body can now be seen in the whirlpool, where rivermen are waiting for it to be brought far enough in shore to be caught.

Kosher Butchers' Strike Delayed.

The threatened strike of the Kosher Butchers' Union for higher wages and a shorter work day did not go into effect in Manhattan yesterday. According to the representatives of the union no strike will be declared until the union has received charters from the United Hebrew Trades and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen. Both charters are expected this evening.

had taken with the Essex troops and Red outposts, and the Blues were still rejoicing over their big capture when news came in that one of Gen. Pew's finest squads of motor cycle men scouts had been captured by Capt. Ryan. Ryan got eleven machines and an equal number of enlisted riders. A few officers who were trailing along behind in an automobile managed to get away. This was the second squad of Blue motor cycle men to be captured in the last twenty-four hours. A squad of five was captured yesterday near Freetown.

The next skirmish was about as funny as it was noiseless. It happened in Taunton, where there is a restaurant that is much frequented by soldiers of the Blue army. Some of the Red scouts heard about this place, and four of them decided to take a trolley car into Taunton and find out what a tenderloin steak tasted like. Taunton was being patrolled by detachments of Blues, but the Reds figured it out that expeditions in search of food would not be considered a hostile movement. They soon learned their mistake. The four Reds repaired to the restaurant, and they were still eating when a Blue patrol happened to pass by and sighted their red hat bands. There were ten men in the Blue patrol, and four of them entered the restaurant and told the surprised Reds that they were prisoners. The Bliss scouts had just started on their dessert and begged for permission to finish their meal, but the Blues could not see it that way, and told them they would have to report immediately to the commanding officer of the Taunton patrol.

Three hours later Gen. Pew ordered the men released on parole. The fourth Red who came into Taunton escaped by a trolley car.

Balloon Trip Fails.

It was learned to-day that Gen. Pew's army is preparing to use a balloon in its efforts to defeat the Bliss forces in their efforts to capture Boston. The balloon corps of the army is in charge of Lieut. Chase of the Massachusetts Signal Corps, and an attempt was made to use it this morning, but there was something wrong with the gas, and to-day's effort had to be abandoned. The balloon is a big one, capable of supporting three men, and is to be captive and used as an observatory by the signalmen of the Blue army. A better gas bag will be available by noon to-morrow, when the Blues expect to have the balloon captive at an altitude of at least 2,000 feet. The effort to hoist the balloon to-day was made at Brockton, near the headquarters used by Gen. Pew on Saturday.

The First Battalion of the Twenty-second Regiment of Engineers of New York was about the hardest-worked organization, with the exception of the cavalrymen and Signal Corps, to-day. The Engineers were ordered out the first thing this morning and told to destroy every bridge in this section of the State that might prove of value to Gen. Pew in his scheme of defense. The engineers were also told to make military maps of the country for war purposes and to do such other work as might be found necessary to frustrate the plans of the Massachusetts commander. The men who are charged with deciding what would have happened were this a real instead of a supposed war decided that the engineers did their duty well, and to-night there are a lot of bridges in Bristol and Plymouth Counties that no longer exist, except in reality.

To-day's march of the invading army was an even harder one than that of yesterday, but fortunately for the men the sun remained hidden behind the clouds and a cool, brisk wind blew all day, so that yesterday's record of prostrations was not repeated. So far as is known, not a single man fell out of ranks to-day.

The army which had been concentrated in and near Freetown on Sunday broke camp about 8 o'clock this morning and headed in a northeasterly direction, the line of march being over one of the worst roads in New England—a road that in rainy weather is said to be almost impassable. For mile after mile the dust was anywhere from one to three feet deep, and when the hills were encountered wagons drawn by the finest of army mule teams were unable to move a foot, and it was not the fault of the stubbornness of the mules. So deep was the sand that the automobile pack train was not a whit better off.

The Seventh Regiment and the four batteries of field artillery with a detachment of engineers and the Signal Corps preceded the wagon trains, and when unusually hard hills were encountered as many as twenty-five men were sometimes detailed to push the wagons up the incline. Automobile No. 5 of the pack train was caught in a particularly bad place and the advance was delayed nearly an hour while it was being extricated from its grave of dust in the middle of the road.

Blues Have a Hard March.

The road was the same all the way to the crossways, where the Bridgewater, New Bedford, Rochester, and Wareham Roads meet, and at times the cloud of dust was so great and ascended to such great heights that from a distance it looked as if the forests were on fire. After the troops had been marching for about two hours and had covered about four miles an order was sent back along the line that the men were to be given ten minutes' rest at the end of each fifty minutes. It was after 1 o'clock this afternoon before the advance guard reached the crossways of the Highland and Spruce Roads, near South Middleboro, where Gen. Bliss established his line of defense for the day. The Seventh and the artillery commands went into camp east of South Middleboro, while the regiments from Connecticut and the Signal Corps detachments took up a position to the west of that place. Gen. Bliss established his headquarters between these troops, on the eastern side of the New York, New Haven & Hartford tracks. The troops from the District of Columbia were encamped to the northeast of headquarters, about three miles distant from Assawompett Pond, near which sheet of water Gen. Pew, it is rumored to-night, has established his headquarters. The cavalry regiment was not camped near the Bliss headquarters, and is supposed to have taken up a secret position some miles away and near the Taunton River.

Gen. Bliss said this afternoon that he had heard that the Blue Army is now intrenched somewhere in the crescent formed by the chain of lakes, and that it is quite possible that Gen. Pew is waiting for the Reds to begin the attack that is to start the first of the battles. Gen. Bliss said that the men captured by the Red scouts and outposts were from the Second and Eighth Massachusetts Regiments of Infantry and the Cadet Corps from Boston and Salem. He added that from reports he had received the number of captures made to-day was about even in the two armies. He admitted that it was quite probable that a big battle would be fought to-morrow morning.

A heavy rain would be welcomed by Gen. Wood, one of the officers at headquarters said to-day. It has been weeks since this section of the country has been visited by a heavy rain, and Gen. Wood, it is said, is apprehensive that in one of the big sham battles so soon to be fought the liberal use of powder may set some of the forests afire, entailing a heavy damage bill on the Government. To-night there are indications that Gen. Wood's hopes may be realized to-morrow.

Men's Behavior Excellent.

Major Blanton Winship, the Provost Marshal of the Red Army, said this afternoon that so far he had found no difficulty in settling on a fair basis the claims of the farmers and others for damages due to the occupancy of their land by the soldiers. In two cases, he said, he had been unable so far to come to an agreement with the owners of the land on which the troops had camped. Major Winship said the behavior of the troops so far had been splendid, and that he had not heard of a single case of destruction. When Major Winship remarked on the splendid behavior of the troops, a bystander remarked that there was not a single saloon in the entire war zone.

It was reported here to-night that Gen. Pew will complain to Gen. Wood, the general observer, that Gen. Bliss violated the rules of this war by making an advance before 5 A. M. to-day. No confirmation of any such protest being received could be had at Gen. Wood's headquarters at North Rochester to-night.

The ancient Red Cross mule of the Tenth Cavalry, which is one of the few white mules in the army, was brought to New Bedford to-night suffering from a bad case of distemper. This animal, which rejoices in the name of Louisiana, has for years drawn the ambulance of the First Battalion of the Tenth, and has a bright red cross painted on his snow white face. The veterinary surgeon who examined Louisiana said to-night that the recovery of the famous hybrid is very doubtful.

Gen. Wood, accompanied by Col. George Anderson, the chief of staff of the Department of the East, visited Gen. Pew's headquarters to-day, and during his stay there inspected the various regiments that are taking part in the defense of Boston. Gen. Wood witnessed the mimic destruction of a bridge that Gen. Bliss may want to use later on. The method by which bridges are destroyed in this war is interesting. The squad detailed to destroy a bridge proceeds to the structure and places something that looks like dynamite under its main support. Then a fuse is lighted, and a moment later there is an explosion. An investigation disclosed the fact in every case that the "dynamite" was a large firecracker.

On his return to his North Rochester headquarters Gen. Wood expressed himself as highly pleased with the showing of the Blue Army. Gov. Draper and the members of the Military Committees of the Massachusetts Legislature inspected the Blues this afternoon. The Governor, it was said, will remain with the defenders until peace is declared next Saturday night.

The Red Navy, under Capt. J. W. Gulick, Coast Artillery Corps, left Provincetown to-night to start a series of raids and bombardments of the various fortifications between Narragansett and Portland. The fleet operations will go on every night for the rest of the week and Capt. Gulick, it is said, hopes to effect the capture of Boston by sea, while Gen. Bliss is attempting to do the same thing by land. The vessels which sailed from Provincetown to-night are the transports Meade, flagship, Sumner and McClellan, the mine planters Ord, Schofield, and Ayres, and the Quartermaster's Department steamers Downes, Cheny, Connell, Gregg, Hartshorne, Schenck, and Drew.

LUNATIC PESTERS PASTOR.

Woman, Suffering from Religious Mania, Annoys the Rev. C. T. Russell.

Sophie Hasam, the woman who was found asleep in the vestibule of the home of the Rev. C. T. Russell, pastor of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, 124 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, Saturday morning, was arraigned before Magistrate Tighe in the Adams Street Court yesterday. It came out that she had been an inmate of the Kings Park Asylum, and escaped on Wednesday. Her home is believed to be in New Jersey.

Once when coming from Europe she attended a religious service conducted by Mr. Russell on the steamship. Since then she has persisted in seeing the minister, and the occupants of his house have on two occasions been called upon to prevent her from annoying him.

Supt. Macy of the Kings Park Asylum had requested two nurses from the Flatbush Hospital to be in court yesterday when the case was called to arrange for the release of the woman. After Magistrate Tighe dismissed the case they had some difficulty in removing her from the courtroom to a cab in waiting. She refused to leave the room when she was asked to do so, and the nurses had to use a little force to take her out of the building.

No information could be learned about her yesterday. She refused to give her address or talk about her relatives. She was taken to the Flatbush Hospital, whence she will be transferred to the Kings Park Asylum. It is believed that she is suffering from religious mania.

URGE QUEENSBORO FRANCHISE

Queens Taxpayers Blame City for Delay in Line Over New Bridge.

Citizens of Queens held a mass meeting last night at the Union League Club, Elmhurst, L. I., under the auspices of the Equal Taxpayers' Association at which they expressed indignation against the city officials for their failure to give trolley transportation across the Queensboro Bridge.

A report was read by Frederick J. Cleary showing that the New York & Queens County Railroad is the only company in a position to accept franchise and give adequate service. The report stated that the Board of Estimate demands that the company pay yearly an amount which is in excess of the present earnings.

A resolution was adopted, asking that the select committee of the Board of Estimate be requested to meet at once and arrange a franchise for trolley transportation on the bridge that the company can accept and give relief to the residents of Queens.

SHERMAN AND SIBLEY CONFER

Vice President and Former Congressman Have Talk at Utica.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Ex-Congressman J. C. Sibley of Franklin, Penn., was in conference with Vice President James S. Sherman in this city for several hours this afternoon. Following the conference Mr. Sherman stated that it was of no political significance.

Mr. and Mrs. Sibley and party are touring the State in the former Congressman's automobile. This evening they entertained Vice President and Mrs. Sherman in the Butterfield Hotel.

Heffernan to Succeed Leader Wogan.

Alderman William J. Heffernan was selected to succeed Thomas F. Wogan as leader of the Seventh Assembly Democratic District, Brooklyn, at a meeting of the district committee last night, in the clubhouse, Prospect and Fifth Avenues. The Seventh District is strong for McCarren. Wogan resigned a few days ago to become leader in the Ninth Assembly District, where, it was feared, that William A. Doyle, an anti-McCarren man and former leader, might regain his leadership were not a strong man put in to oppose him.

CHANGE IN POSTAL SERVICE.

New Chief Inspector from Outside Department, Hitchcock's Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—In an effort to perfect the organization of the Post Office Department throughout the country, Postmaster General Hitchcock, it is said here to-night, has determined to appoint as Chief Inspector a man entirely outside the service. The present incumbent is Frank E. McMillin, though he is said to have already practically quit the service.

The Chief Inspector of the department is in charge of the local Inspectors throughout the country, and of late years these men have come to have more and more to say in regard to the patronage of the department. This growth in the direct appointing power that comes directly from the Postmaster General has veen viewed with alarm by Congressmen in all sections, who see in the change a great curtailment of their influence in local appointments.

The name of the proposed Chief Inspector is for the present kept secret, though it is said that he will be a man whose reputation will at the outset make for the future importance of the position. The Inspectors are now given authority to inquire among the citizens of every town as to the standing of the Postmasters, and reappointments are already largely based on the nature of their representations.

for Ohio and Davis-Daly Copper stocks, with which Heinze is at present concerned more than with any others. Joyce came on not long ago from Montana, and was quiet unused to the wiles of the world of finance. There also came to this city a young man named P. C. Thompson, whose mother, according to reports from his home town, held $400,000 of the bonds of the Ohio Copper Company. Thompson was sent, supposedly, to look after his mother's interests in that property.

Young Thompson's Copper Deals.

Not long after Thompson's arrival Stock Exchange houses, through branches in several parts of the city, began to get orders to buy Ohio Copper, and these orders ran into amounts large enough to prompt them to inquiry as to the standing of the prospective buyer. Accordingly, Heinze was visited and asked what he knew about Thompson. Heinze replied that Thompson was all right; that he was a friend of Heinze's friend, Joyce, and further investigation developed the fact that Thompson did, in fact, spend a good deal of his time in Joyce's office, at 5 Nassau Street.

For some reason certain of the Stock Exchange houses where Thompson endeavored to buy United Copper declined to make the trades. In other houses, of a more trustful disposition, trades were made, and some of these latter still have on their hands the Ohio Thompson ordered, along with a suspicion as to who sold it to them when they undertook to buy for the account of the young man who was protecting his mother's interests.

Alongside these "purchases" of Ohio there have gone a considerable number of Heinze loans on the Ohio and Davis-Daly stocks as collateral, and that was where A. D. S. Adams and his friends came in. The scheme that they have worked is in reality a scheme like one Alfred R. Gosling used to employ before he mended his ways and took to whipsawing bucket shops by placing orders with them to buy stocks knowing that the stocks would not be bought, and then forcing the market up by washed sales before he called for deliveries.

Gosling in his earlier days in Wall Street used to lend money on miscellaneous collateral and then sell out the collateral hoping thereby to break the market and repurchase it more cheaply on the expiration of the loan.

Adams has improved on this plan. A series of loan contracts, now about five in number, have been devised, so worded as to commit the borrower to allow the lender to do various things with his collateral. The privileges accorded by these contracts run all the way from the right to rehypothecate the collateral to the actual right to sell and repurchase for delivery upon the maturity of the loan. Adams and a man named Walter Althous, who was concerned in the flotation of the ill-fated Merganthaler Basket stock some years ago, have been operating the scheme together, with Boston as their headquarters.

Adams's New York acquaintance with young Field placed him in a position to get acquainted with that eminent company of financiers which included the Perschs, old and young; Katz, Nassauer, Clark, Sherwood et al. That he has been operating with them for some time is indicated by the fact that the loans which Adams or Nassauer or some other member of the outfit have placed for the Heinze people date as far back as last Spring. The recent $50,000 Heinze loan evidently was considered a master stroke, when with Birmingham's aid it was put through, for men who have been watching the ways of this company declare that for several weeks before the air on some corners of the Broad Street Curb was full of rumors that "something big was coming off."

Other Schemes Cropping Out.

The investigation has turned up one more interesting circumstance. It will be recalled that a young man named P. C. Mason confessed that he had signed the name "Henry F. Risbrough" to the receipt for the collateral put up on the Cram-Mulliken loan, after Clark had plied him with various drinks. It had been supposed that this name was altogether borrowed from Henry F. Risbrough, a Philadelphian, who left that city several years ago to live in the West, but now it develops that W. F. Risbrough, or "Risborough," and Donald Perach were in business together as a brokerage house at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street as long ago as last December.

The firm used both addresses on the building in question, 1 East Thirty-fourth Street and 353 Fifth Avenue, but did not stay in business very long. Quite recently, however, "W. F. Risbrough" has been one of the applicants at a Stock Exchange house having certain mining shares to sell in response to advertisements for a stock drummer to travel with these securities. He was not employed.

There are several other developments of the last two or three weeks that promise to work out interesting ramifications of the loan gang. Very recently offers have been received by several Stock Exchange houses to lend $500,000 to $100,000 on what are technically known as "cats and dogs" under loan contracts giving the lender very liberal terms as to the treatment of the collateral. These offers have not been directly connected as yet with the Adams contingent, but the similarity of method has suggested a relationship.

One of the most interesting of these cases is that of a man from another city, who has been trying to place notes of a bankrupt corporation, of which he is nominally the head, and at the same time offering to lend considerable amounts on much the same terms as those imposed in some of the Adams loans.

The possibilities of this scheme are interesting financial criminologists immensely, for if the notes could be placed in the first instance in sufficient amounts to provide a loan fund the process of lending money and selling out the collateral at a profit might be carried on indefinitely and the original notes themselves might be taken care of, unless some such hitch should arise like that experienced in the deal that Persch and his friends put through with the aid of the facilities of the Windsor Trust Company.

It was learned yesterday that Supt. Clark Williams of the Banking Department is keeping in close touch with Mr. Nott, and that an understanding exists whereby if Mr. Nott needs any information which Mr. Williams can get it will be supplied.

The moral aspects of the Windsor Trust case involved in the probable knowledge on the part of the officers lying behind the acceptance of a $1,000 commission for "clearing" a $50,000 loan, and involved in the fact of business relations with members of the loan swindle gang, Mr. Williams believes are for the Directors of that company to handle.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—A. D. F. Adams, the broker indicted in New York to-day for alleged complicity in the sale of pledged collateral, was not to be found to-night.

GAMBLING PALACE TO BE A RESTAURANT

Walbaum's Famous Resort in Thirty-third Street, Closed by Jerome, Again to be Opened.

DECORATIONS COST $350,000

$28,000 Paid for One Door Chosen by Stanford White—Furnishings to be Retained—Trap Door, Too.

The former gambling house of Gottfried Walbaum, in West Thirty-third Street—which was decorated by the late Stanford White at a cost of $350,000, and which District Attorney Jerome closed up about a year ago, after a dramatic interview with the proprietor—is about to be thrown open to the public as a restaurant.

Ever since Walbaum had a special set of keys made and turned them over to the District Attorney, the house has been closed. Walbaum is now living in Florida. Jacob Amram, the proprietor of the "Little Waldorf Restaurant," recently obtained from him a lease on the house with all its decorations and furniture. Amram's restaurant is now across the street, but within a month he intends to move his establishment over into Walbaum's house. He will leave the house's remarkable decorations—its carved bronze doors, its mural paintings, its nymph-supported balustrades, and its carved marble mantels—exactly as they are.

The restaurant's patrons, on entering the place, will pass through a certain fifteenth century bronze door, which, at Stanford White's suggestion, Walbaum imported from Italy and paid $1,600 duty on. The door, which is hand carved, is seven inches thick and weighs more than a ton. It originally guarded a palace wine cellar and bears a Latin inscription which suggested to Walbaum's patrons in the resort's palmy days that they spare not to indulge in the pleasures of wine. Walbaum, at White's instance, paid $28,000 for it. It is studded with angels playing musical instruments.

The new restaurant will have for its main first-floor dining room the parlor in which Walbaum received his guests. The walls of this apartment, as seen yesterday, were covered with bronzed gold leaf, instead of paper or hangings. The Circassian walnut mantel, also heavily gilded, bears the inscription: "When all the Temple is prepared within, why lags the drowsy laborer behind," showing that the conversation between Walbaum and his guests in this parlor was but brief formalities. There will be another dining room in the first floor, rear, where Walbaum had his main roulette room.

The restaurant guests can also climb up Walbaum's twenty-five-thousand-dollar carved Circassian walnut stairway, the balustrades of which are supported by twenty-five nymphs and cupids, who seem themselves to be climbing the stairway. The carving alone on the second floor of the old gambling house is said to have cost Walbaum $11,000. To complete the luxury and comfort of the guests, hand-carved tables and chairs, which cost Walbaum $1,000 apiece, will be retained. To match the woodwork and the furniture, Amram will keep also over the imported stained-glass doors the odd portiers of Walbaum's place, all of fine chamois skin lined with satin, costing in those old days $400 a pair. Over the whole will be shed a soft flood of lulling light from the gorgeous eighteen-hundred-dollar chandelier, called in the halcyon days of the resort the "Setting Sun."

The second-floor front chamber is the most luxurious and artistic of the house. Guests will walk upon carpets which alone cost $1,100. The ceiling, made of canvas and hand painted, reflects some $24,000 of art and beauty. It is illuminated by 500 hidden lights. Here, as in the third floor, the ceiling is supported by hand-carved pillars. Five pairs of velvet portiers, worth $350 a pair; six expensive imported chandeliers, one of which cost $1,000, and imported rugs adorn the third floor, where is Walbaum's slumber chamber and his nine-hundred-and-fifty-dollar mahogany bed.

The place will breathe a thousand memories of its gay past. A secretaire on the second floor still contains about $5,000 in checks of every depository in the country, whence hailed the funds of the gay revelers of old. There will be the same old iron folding doors at the rear of each stairway, too, and the same trap door of the roof, where once the hurried feet of patrons scurried when the fear of raiders was upon them.

Up to date, however, Mr. Amram, in all his searchings of the old haunt, and all his discoveries of the artistic and arabesque nooks and crannies it contains, has been unable to find any secret doors in the walls where Walbaum could have hidden his roulette wheels, as was found to be the case in the old Canfield resort. Of them there is no trace.

MILK DEALERS CONVICTED.

Two Sentenced for Selling Adulterated and Diluted Product.

Joseph Kelly, a milk dealer at 37 Catharine Street, was convicted yesterday in Special Sessions of selling adulterated milk, and sentenced to pay a fine of $75 or serve twenty days in prison. The prisoner was arrested on June 24 at the Desbrosses Street Ferry by a Board of Health Inspector. He had a wagonload of cans, containing 280 quarts of diluted milk.

Louis Goldfarb, a cream dealer at 138 Norfolk Street, was found guilty of violation of the sanitary law for selling cream containing less than 10 per cent. butter fat. He was sentenced to serve five days in jail and pay a fine of $150.

TAFT WINS AT GOLF IN DRIZZLING RAIN

With John Hays Hammond, Defeats Gen. Ames and W. J. Boardman by Score of 1 Up.

TIES SCORE OF MATCHES

President Will Devote Himself to Recreation Entirely Until Cabinet Officers Arrive in Beverly.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 16.—With no matters of public business to interfere, President Taft gave himself over entirely to vacation enjoyments to-day. He played golf in a drizzle during the late forenoon, lunched with John Hays Hammond at the latter's villa, and took a long automobile ride up the north shore with Mrs. Taft. The President is daily extending his late afternoon motor trips. The roads and scenery are attractive, and the journeys are selected from road maps of the North Shore and Cape Ann country. One of the President's trips last week showed a total distance covered of ninety-three miles. There is seldom a day that the mileage falls below fifty.

Attorney General Wickersham, Secretary MacVeagh of the Treasury, and Secretary Meyer of the Navy are due in Beverly later in the week to talk over department matters with the President. Meantime Mr. Taft will devote himself entirely to recreation.

To-day the President and John Hays Hammond defeated Gen. Adelbert Ames and W. J. Boardman, their old-time rivals, in a foursome match on the Essex County links. The score was 1 up, and the score of matches now stands at 2 all. The "rubber" will be played on Wednesday. Prof. Lewis More and Mrs. More, sister of Mrs. Taft, were with the President and Capt. Butt at Mr. and Mrs. Hammond's luncheon.

On the occasion of his forenoon visit to Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 20, President Taft will review a parade of some 5,000 troops of the regular army, and afterward will make a speech from the reviewing stand. A military tournament will be in progress at Des Moines at the time of the President's visit.

PREDICTS BIG CAR SHORTAGE.

Inter-State Commerce Chairman Says Year's Freightage Will Break Record.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—That the freight business of this country will in the coming year exceed the record made in 1907 is the prediction of Chairman Martin A. Knapp of the Inter-State Commerce Commission. The rush of business will be so great, said Mr. Knapp to-day, that a car shortage will almost certainly result. A car shortage now would indicate far greater traffic demands than in 1907, he explained, on account of the increased traffic facilities of the country.

"You will recall," said he, "that the railroads in 1907 had more business than they could do. They did not have the capacity to haul all the freight which was waiting to be moved. The railroads to-day are better equipped for handling business than they were two years ago, and I expect to see the records broken.

"What we refer to as a car shortage is generally not a lack of cars. It is in reality a lack of trackage, of terminal facilities, of sidings, of adequate power. Take the case of a great transcontinental line which has a tunnel. Its through business is limited to the capacity of that tunnel. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and the same applies to a road's capacity for business."

DANGEROUS WRECK LOCATED.

Revenue Cutter Discovers the Angelo African Off Carolina Coast.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The big steamer Angelo African, which was wrecked and sunk off Smith's Island, on the North Carolina coast, a few weeks ago, has been located by the expedition sent out to remove her hull from the path of navigation. It is likely, however, that instead of blowing the old craft up with dynamite, as was at first intended, buoys will be attached to her masts to warn other vessels of her proximity.

Capt. Carmine of the Revenue Cutter Seneca was sent out to locate the wreck, and he reported to the Treasury Department to-day that it would be a very expensive work destroying the hull by explosives. His suggestion for the safety of navigation impressed the department officials as reasonable, and it will probably be acted on.

CURTAIL OFFICIAL VACATIONS.

Commerce and Labor Department Employes Must Wait Till Work Is Done.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—No vacations for employes of the Department of Commerce and Labor until their work is done is the latest edict of Secretary Nagel. The order will affect about 12,000 employes.

"This does not mean," said Assistant Secretary McHarg last night, "that employes will not get vacations. When a bureau chief says he can spare one or more men for vacations there will be no objections, but otherwise the vacations musts wait. We have a flat appropriation from Congress and mean to keep within it."

WEATHER BUREAU'S DEFENSE.

Issues Bulletin Quoting Newspapers to Prove It Has "Made Good."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Answering a recent magazine stricture on its abilities as a prognosticator, the Weather Bureau has issued a bulletin intended to disprove the theory that the bureau "has not made good."

The bureau has gathered together in this bulletin opinions expressed in hundreds of newspapers throughout the country and in letters from representatives of various commercial, agricultural, and maritime interests, all tending to uphold the work of the bureau.

SEIZED CUTTER AMERICAN.

Charges of Robbery Off African Coast Not Sustained.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The State Department received a telegram to-day from Mr. Handley, the American Consul General at Boma Kongo, stating that an investigation disclosed that the crew of the small cutter flying the American flag which had been seized at Quissanga Argola, West Africa, about two weeks ago, were Americans, and that the vessel was American-owned.

The master and one sailor were sent to Loanda, the former charged with diamond robbery in the neighboring German colony. The charges of robbery against the master were not sustained, however, and the affair has been settled satisfactorily.

Use New Pennies as Nickels.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—It has been discovered that the new Lincoln penny is five times as valuable, in one respect at least, as the old Indian-head cent. Being a trifle larger and heavier than the old one-cent piece, the new coin, it has been ascertained, to the exceeding discomfiture of the telephone companies, will answer the place of a five-cent piece when making a call. Already many Lincoln pennies have been found in its pay station boxes by the local telephone company.

SEEK TAFT AID FOR TAWNEY.

Reported President Will Be Asked to Help Unofficially His Return.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—President Taft will be asked to indorse Representative Tawney in some public manner that will aid Mr. Tawney's re-election to the House a year hence, according to a report current in Washington just now. Mr. Tawney, who is Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, has been re-elected by a steadily decreasing majority for many years, and the support he gave the Payne Tariff bill at the President's request is said to have seriously weakened his already small following at home.

Mr. Tawney was the only member of the Minnesota delegation to vote for the Tariff bill. During Col. Roosevelt's term Mr. Tawney was in almost continuous war with the Administration, and as Roosevelt was popular in Minnesota Mr. Tawney found himself losing strength daily. The last straw came in the fight over the use of the Secret Service, when Mr. Tawney's efforts resulted in the tabling of a special message from the President.

Since March 4, however, Mr. Tawney has been making consistent efforts to smooth the way for Mr. Taft. It is known that the two men are practically at one in regard to reduced Governmental expenditures. Mr. Tawney was formerly in steady opposition to many of President Roosevelt's pet schemes for the extension of Governmental activities.

Exactly what Mr. Taft is expected to do for the Minnesotan is not made known, and no prediction is made of the President's possible course. It is suggested, however, that if the President in some unofficial manner should make it plain that Mr. Tawney is persona grata to the Administration, his re-election would be made much more certain.

FRANCE FAIRLY TREATED.

No Discrimination Against Her in Applying New Tariff Act.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—If there has been any discrimination against France in the application of the provisions of the new Tariff act to that country officers of this Government are not aware of it.

France, together with Switzerland and Bulgaria, had reciprocity arrangements with the United States under the terms of which certain of their products were admitted to this country at considerably reduced rates, compared with those that were paid by countries which did not enjoy such agreements.

Other countries, seeing the advantage the three countries named were enjoying, entered into similar reciprocity arrangements with the United States. In their case, however, the precaution was taken to state in the body of the treaties the exact period of the legal notice required to terminate them—a course not followed in the arrangements with France, Switzerland, and Bulgaria. In enacting the new tariff Congress provided that where there was no stipulated term six months from April 30 was to be regarded as the date of termination.

This action was duly communicated by the State Department to France, Switzerland, and Bulgaria, the executive branch of the Government being absolutely bound by the direction of Congress in this matter. At the same time it is stated that the President is entirely willing to consider carefully any representations in the nature of a protest that may be made. Indeed, there is reason to believe that exchanges on the subject have already taken place.

WANT A HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

American Health League Would Have a National One in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 16.—The activities of the American Health League, which is seeking the creation of a Federal Department of Health, have attracted attention to this organization. The league was organized by the "Committee of One Hundred," which was formed as a section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and which was charged with the investigation of public health conditions and the recommendation of legislation in that connection. The President of the Committee of One Hundred is Dr. Irving Fisher of Yale, and among its Vice Presidents are the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, Miss Jane Addams, Felix Adler, Prof. James B. Angell of Ann Arbor, Joseph H. Choate, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard; Archbishop Ireland, and ex-President Roosevelt, and others.

The American Health League is especially interested in the creation of a department of public health which will do for the men, women, and children of the country what the Department of Agriculture is doing for the sheep, hogs, and cattle, plants, and trees.

The American Health League will present its views on the creation of a department of public health to President Taft, and the latter has promised careful consideration before making recommendations in his first annual message to Congress next December.

CENSUS COST REDUCED.

Lower Prices for Machines Surprises and Delights Secretary Nagel.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, who is in Washington for a few days on business in connection with the next census, announced to-day that all bids for the machinery and books needed for the enormous clerical work involved had been received. Mr. Nagel expressed himself as surprised and gratified at the low figures of many of these bids. Punching machines, for instance, which are used in great quantities and which heretofore had not been quoted the department below the price of $600 are now offered for $300.

Mr. Nagel's success in obtaining low bids on these machines recalls the incidents that were the immediate cause of the retirement of S. N. D. North from the directorship of the census. Mr. North submitted to Mr. Nagel for his signature contracts for the purchase of the machines at a very high price, and Mr. Nagel refused his indorsement. After that disruption Secretary Nagel set out to obtain bids with the result that the prospective expenses of the Bureau of the Census are very much decreased.

The appointment of the army of enumerators who will do the actual counting for the next census will be postponed until just before the counting begins, said Mr. Nagel to-day. These men for the most part will be appointed from the district in which they will work.

Admiral Moore Quits Service.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—In accordance with President Taft's plan to have only active officers on duty in both branches of the service, Rear Admiral E. K. Moore, retired, will be relieved of duty as commandant of the Portsmouth Navy Yard. Admiral Moore is the last of the retired Rear Admirals to continue in active service.

Ambassador Straus Sails To-Day.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Oscar S. Straus, the American Ambassador to Turkey, has informed the State Department that he will sail from New York for his new post on the North German Lloyd steamship Prinz Friedrich to-morrow, and expects to reach Constantinople about Sept. 10.

Two Burned in a Garage Fire.

An explosion of a can of gasoline in the garage of Cyrus Willis, on Richmond Road, Grant City, S. I., yesterday morning resulted in a fire, which destroyed the one-story frame building and three automobiles and badly burned Joseph Asansio, a machinist, and Charles Blacken, a chauffeur. The loss was estimated at $6,000.

SMUGGLERS PLAN TO OUTWIT LOEB

Collector Hears of Attempts to Take Off Dutiable Goods in Small Boats.

STRICT WATCH AT PIERS

Hold-Up and Search of Steamship Captains Themselves Reveals Thoroughness of New Search.

Now that Collector Loeb, through his marine police patrol, has stopped effectively the bringing ashore at piers of small articles from steamships arriving here from abroad, information has reached him that efforts are being made to smuggle dutiable articles ashore by small boats and launches. There was a conference in the Collector's office yesterday to consider a plan of campaign to stop this method of avoiding the payment of duty.

Nearly every steamship arriving here brings hundreds of small articles which are not on the manifest. These, in most cases, are brought over by pasengers as presents for friends, for their own use ashore, or perhaps as a modest speculation. The guarding of the piers formerly was very lax, and so this constant stream of dutiable articles flowed into port without the payment of revenue. The customs men estimate that the close watchfulness of Collector Loeb, in stopping this practice, means a saving of thousands of dollars each month to the Government. Several instances have come to light recently illustrating the strictness with which this watch is kept. Perhaps the angriest man in this port yesterday was Capt. Finch of the White Star liner Arabic. He had the humiliation of being searched at the foot of his own gangway. The skipper was coming ashore, when two customs watchmen approached and wanted to know what he was doing.

"I am the Captain of this steamship," he told the men.

"We don't care who you are," they replied to the indignant navigator.

Then the customs men deftly went through the Captain's pockets. Assured that he was not smuggling they allowed him to go his way.

Capt. Smith of the Adriatic of the same line and the ship's surgeon, Dr. O'Loughlin, were invited to Marblehead to spend a few days. As they started ashore yesterday morning they went to the Customs Office off the pier and offered the valises they carried for inspection. Each officer was carrying a box of cigars, upon which the seals had been broken. In spite of their protests these cigars were confiscated. In the doctor's valise was a bottle of whisky. This suffered the same fate.

On the Red Star liner Lapland is a seagoing department store. Most of the goods sold are of American make. The steamship company has a contract with a confectioner by which the unsold boxes of candy remaining at the end of the voyage are exchanged for fresh candy. It has been the custom to make this exchange at the pier. The Red Star officials have been notified that hereafter no boxes can be carried from the pier and the exchange of confection will have to be made at the Appraiser's Stores, where the left-over candy will be sent on the arrival of the vessel here. Protests have been in vain.

A fireman came ashore from the Lapland a few days ago carrying a box of fifty cheap cigars, bought in Antwerp for less than half a cent apiece. He made no attempt at concealment, and his cigars fell into the hands of the Government officials. The watchman then went on board, searched the crew's quarters, and confiscated 400 cigars.

Collector Loeb would not discuss the situation, but another customs official, who is in a position to know the sentiments of the Collector, said that Mr. Loeb was more than satisfied with the thoroughness with which his newly formed marine police is doing its work.

Some of the steamship companies have written to the Collector thanking him for the protection he is giving them. One line said that they would save thousands of dollars a year by stopping petty pilfering from the ships.

BARK HARD HIT BY STORMS.

The Gartha's Misfortunes Blamed on Kisse, the Black Cat.

After a voyage of 140 days, during which she came 11,000 miles, the Norwegian bark Gartha crept into port through yesterday's storm and anchored under the lee of Staten Island. The Gartha encountering many storms got in dismantled of nearly all of her original upper spars and rigging. She made most of her long voyage under jury rig.

The bark started on her voyage from Batavia on Feb. 20. Ten days after leaving Padang on March 27 the storms began, and her skipper holds to the belief that the disappearance of Kisse, a big, black cat, marked the beginning of trouble. Some sailors do not believe a cat on board—and especially a black one—is lucky. As the Gartha was nearing Padang, Capt. Skaulestad noted the cat was not on deck. It was growing dark, and as he looked for Kisse he saw a man dart out of the aft companionway and throw a dark object overboard. He suspects it was the body of the cat, for Kisse was never seen again.

On April 11 the storm, long threatened, broke. The vessel was then in the Indian Ocean and far to the southeast of Java. Though the crew worked hard to take in sail the wind was too much for them, and with a great snapping and rending of canvas her gear began to give way.

The three topmasts and top gallant masts, with yards and sails, were carried away. The top hamper and wreckage hung over the side almost capsizing the vessel, and the heavy topmasts and yards pounded the side of the vessel with terrific force. Fearing this pounding would open the seams the crew of eleven men had to work quickly to cut the wreckage away.

This done the Gartha lay half a wreck wallowing in a sea that continually swept her. In this condition she rode out the storm. The men then put up a jury rig. A few days later the Gartha ran into another storm, but escaped damage. When off the Cape of Good Hope on June 10 she ran into another hurricane and lost the main lower topsail and the foretopmast staysail.

The Gartha brought a cargo of Java coffee valued at $600,000.

DINNER TO SAMUEL BRILL.

His Relatives Mark His Fiftieth Birthday by a Surprise Entertainment.

Samuel Brill of the firm of Brill Brothers was entertained last night at dinner in the Hotel Astor in commemoration of his fiftieth birthday by his family and immediate relatives. The event was a complete surprise to him.

Mr. Brill began his career as a newsboy, being compelled to leave school at the age of 13. By the time he was 22 he had saved enough money to start in business for himself, and thereafter steadily forged to the front. The dinner last night was a recognition of a competent business man and a worthy citizen.

NEW HEALTH BOARD SITE.

Plan to Purchase 12-Story Office Building in Place of Rooms in City Building.

With the city engaged in erecting a $7,000,000 office building with a view to accommodating all its administrative departments under one roof, a plan for the separate housing of the Health Department at an initial expense of some $900,000 became public yesterday through the publication in The City Record of the minutes of a recent meeting of the Health Board.

This plan, recommended by Sanitary Superintendent Walter H. Bensel, and adopted by the Board of Health, involves the purchase by the city of a twelve-story office building now in course of construction at the southwest corner of Irving Place and Sixteenth Street from the Kips Bay Realty Company. The company through its agent, Reon Barnes of 45 Broadway, has made a tender to the city of the premises for $850,000.

If the recommendations of the Sanitary Superintendent are carried out, the Board of Estimate would be required to authorize forthwith the issue of $100,000 worth of corporate stock to bind the bargain, with another bond issue not to exceed $800,000 to provide for the balance of the purchase price and equipment, as soon as the structure has been completed and accepted by the city.

At the City Hall doubt was expressed regarding the projected deal, which is considered as a rather costly makeshift in view of the city's own building enterprise near the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge. At the offices of the Health Board it was said that it had always been understood, there that the Health Department, with its offices and laboratories, should be housed apart from he other departments even after the mammoth new municipal office building had been completed.

When Mr. Barnes was called up on the telephone at his Broadway office, a person who said he represented the real estate agent said Mr. Barnes would have no statement to make for the present.

"After some time, Mr. Barnes will supply all the details," he said; "just at present he is anxious that nothing should be printed in the newspapers about this transaction."

DRUG TRUST SUIT UP AGAIN.

Park & Son Now Fix Damages at $3,500,000 and Allied Druggists Appeal.

Counsel for the defendants in the suit brought by J. D. Park & Son, wholesale and manufacturing druggists of Cincinnati, Ohio, against members of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, filed an appeal yesterday in the Supreme Court from the recent order allowing the plaintiff to put in an amended complaint fixing the alleged damages at $3,500,000 instead of $500,000, as claimed when the suit was first begun, about twelve years ago, and also allowing the plaintiff to take testimony outside of the State.

The defendant firms include some of the most prominent drug manufacturing houses in the country, and Park & Son, the plaintiffs, in their complaint, allege that the National Druggists' Association, including the individual defendants, sought to restrict and limit the wholesale and jobbing trade prior to 1897 by a rebate or contract plan by which the manufacturers adopted measures for the sale of their goods to certain wholesale jobbing druggists only. The list of such druggists was to be known as the "white" list, and another list of firms to whom no drugs were to be sold was known as the "cut-off" list.

The plaintiffs allege that they lost much trade, together with many customers, by reason of this procedure, and their specific demands for damages range from $50,000 loss in profits in goods of their own manufacture to $1,500,000 loss because many of their old customers would not deal with them for fear of being blacklisted.

SODA TANK KILLS CHILD.

She Was Playing Blind Man's Buff and Tipped It Over on Her.

The children of Morris Kearn, a candy store keeper of 3,783 Third Avenue, Rosie, 8 years old; Elsie, 7, and Gussie, not quite 2, were playing blind man's buff yesterday in the store and Gussie was "it." In the rear of the store Kearn keeps a tank from which he charges his soda water. It can be tipped over by a light touch of the hand, and when half filled with water weighs about 350 pounds.

Gussie stood against the wall with her eyes closed and waited until the others were in hiding. Then she walked about the room, groping for Rosie and Elsie. She wandered to the soda tank and pushed against it. The tank struck the partition, rolled back, and tipped over upon the child. It fell across her head and crushed her skull.

The screams of the mother brought Harry Solomon, a storekeeper, and he carried the child to a drug store at Washington Avenue and 171st Street. Dr. Kesler of Fordham Hospital was summoned and declared that Gussie had been killed almost instantly.

RUNAWAY COUPLE DEPORTED.

Young Bride and Former Suitor Must Go Back to Germany.

Nineteen-year-old Beatrice Mayer, who left her husband of a few months and eloped to this country with her first suitor, Adolph Grohman, a youth of 23, will have to go back to Prague. On the same vessel will go Grohman and Mrs. Mayer's maid, Franzeska Nagler. The trio arrived on Sunday on the Hamburg-American liner Cincinnati. They were held on a cablegram from the woman's husband, who had traced them to the steamship in Hamburg.

A special board of inquiry heard the case yesterday and decided that the man and the two women must be deported. Before the board Mrs. Mayer made an impassioned plea to be allowed to land.

"Adolph was my school companion, and we have loved each other for years," she said. "We wanted to marry, but my folks objected. They wanted me to marry a banker. I resisted as long as I could, but in the end they forced me into this objectionable marriage. I never loved my husband, but I do love Adolph. After four months of marital trouble I decided that the only way to avoid a life of trouble and unhappiness was to run away with Adolph."

Mrs. Mayer impressed the Immigration Inspectors as a woman of refinement. Grohman is a well-set-up young chap. They were well dressed, traveled first class, and were plentifully supplied with money.

PASSENGERS SEE RESCUE.

Seaman on the Minneapolis Dropped 54 Feet into the Water.

John Lyon, a seaman on the Atlantic Transport liner Minneapolis, which arrived here yesterday from London, was saved by a life belt on the trip. On Sunday afternoon the man was fixing one of the boats on the port side of the steamship. The boat was swung on the davit, and a line which Lyon was holding slipped. Lyon dangled for an instant on the line shouting for help, and then dropped fifty-four feet into the sea.

Capt. Frank H. Claret, who was on the bridge, heard the cry and saw the man fall. He caught up an emergency life belt and flung it toward the man. Other life buoys were thrown. The skipper's aim was good, and the belt struck the struggling seaman in the face. He caught it and climbed astraddle of it.

The vessel was stopped and a boat lowered, in charge of First Officer Fred Hutchinson. He picked up Lyon, who was contentedly riding the waves. Within fifteen minutes the man was on board again and the vessel was speeding toward port.

The Minneapolis's passengers watched the rescue from the deck rail and cheered the rescuers.

MARTIN IN MORE TROUBLE.

Another Judgment Falsely Entered Stricken from the Records.

Lawyer Joseph Martin, the Manhattan attorney now in the Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn, in default of $2,500 bail, charged with filing in the County Clerk's office in Brooklyn a judgment for $165,000, the consent of which is alleged to have been obtained fraudulently, was accused of filing another false judgment yesterday when Justice Crane, sitting in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, granted an order vacating a judgment of $427.37 against Abel, Benjamin, and Joseph Cooper of Manhattan, which counsel alleged had been falsely entered.

Martin was counsel for a Mrs. Pauline Beck, who brought an action against the Coopers to recover $800 and costs on a note alleged to have been made out by the Coopers. Jerome H. Buck, counsel for the Coopers, obtained a decision from Justice Blackmar in Brooklyn last April in favor of his clients, alleging that the note was obtained by fraud and conspiracy.

A few days later, Lawyer Buck learned that Martin had filed a judgment in the case, alleging that the Coopers were in default, because they did not file an amended answer to an amended complaint.

Justice Crane said he would send the papers in the case to the District Attorney.

WRIGHT GOING TO GERMANY.

Present Plans Contemplate No Flights in England.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Orville Wright, who arrived here to-day from New York, will spend only twenty-four hours in England. He is going on to Germany to-morrow.

He will be unable to do any flying here, for although his aeroplanes are completed, the motors for them have not yet been delivered. So far as Mr. Wright knows the only flying he will do in Europe will be in Germany. He may possibly return to England on his way home.

He has received no communication from the British War Office and no arrangements have been made for a meeting between him and British officials.

WRIGHT TO TEACH OFFICERS.

Aviator in Washington to Instruct Signal Corps Men to Fly.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Wilbur Wright has returned to Washington to begin the instruction of Signal Corps officers in the art of aeronavigation. Mr. Wright had a conference with members of the corps this morning, and preparation for the course of instruction was begun by leasing the aerodrome at College Park, Md., where the trial flights will take place.

Several days will probably elapse before the actual flights begin, as preliminary work on the aerodrome ground must be done. The grounds must first be cleared of all trees and a shed will have to be construced to house the flying machine.

Orville Wright is now in England.

BANKRUPT SIEGLER ARRESTED

Jobber in Woolen Charged with Contempt—Firm's Assets Concealed.

Max Siegler, of the firm of Max Siegler & Sons, jobbers in woolens and cloakings at 34 Walker Street, was arrested yesterday afternoon by United States Marshal Henkel on a warrant charging contempt of court and committed to Ludlow Street Jail.

An involuntary petition was filed against the firm on July 13, 1907, the schedules showing liabilities of $84,272 and nominal assets of $4,771. On the subsequent investigation it was shown that between December, 1906, and the date of the filing of the petition assets worth $94,000 had disappeared and that the personal drafts of members of the firm in the months preceeding the failure had aggregated $28,000.

Following these disclosures William Allen, the referee, ordered the members of the firm to pay to Warren I. Lee, the trustee in bankruptcy, $22,708, which they failed to do. After a rehearing Judge Hough of the United States District Court declared that the evidence all indicated to him that the bankrupts were concealing assets of the firm, and the warrant for Siegler's arrest followed. Another arrest will be made shortly.

ARE YOU GOING DEAF?

I have made a discovery in the treatment of head noises and deafness which I consider an important one. My discovery does away with the necessity of passing instruments into the ear tubes, which measures have proved unsatisfactory, are painful, and instead of curing the disease, have often forced it further up into the ear.

This is who I am and what I have done:—I graduated in medicine in New York in 1879. I was the prize winner of my class. I won in competitive examination the position of Physician to Bellevue Hospital, where I served in 1879 and 1880.

I have made a specialty of diseases of the throat and ear for thirty years. I decided the best way I could tell the people who I was and what I had done was to advertise in the daily papers.

The following interview with Professor Loomis will explain what he thought of me:—

"(New York World, Sept. 2, 1894.)

"Professor Loomis, of the University of New York, the great specialist, said, in alluding to medical men who advertise:—'Dr. McCoy, for instance, is an able man, well educated, a thorough scientist, and a first-class physician. He is a graduate of Bellevue Hospital. He advertises, does an immense business, and is doing much good.'"

Among the most interesting cases upon whom I tested my new method for head noises and deafness was Mr. Ludlow M. Wildrick, a gentleman 63 years of age. When Mr. Wildrick consulted me in my Chicago office the story he told me was as follows:

"It was in 1865 or 66, while I was in the army, that I first noticed I was losing my hearing. The loss of hearing came on slowly, and as my hearing failed I had terrible ringing noises in my head. After a while I noticed that I could hear better when I was in a noisy place than when in a quiet room. My left ear finally got so bad I could not understand a word that was said to me when the person was on my left side."

Mr. Wildrick visited my office about five months, after which time he considered he could hear well enough, because at that time, he told me, even with his worst ear, his left one, he could understand what was said clear across the room, and that his head noises had disappeared. His wife told me at that time that her husband had been hard of hearing for about forty years, and that he had kept getting worse all the time. She said that when he was lying with his good ear on a pillow he could not hear a sound. "And even with his good ear I would have to go right up to him to make him hear, and even then I would have to shout to make him understand what I said. Now I can talk to him in an ordinary conversational tone and he can understand me. He can even hear what I say to him from the next room."

Mr. Wildrick resides in Congress Park, Chicago. I only mention this case to show what can be done by my new method in many cases of deafness and head noises in persons well advanced in years who have been deaf a long time.

If you think my training and experience should make me a good ear doctor, I should be pleased to have you visit my offices. It will cost you nothing for an examination and advice. If your ears have been so neglected that treatment will not restore your hearing I have the best instrument ever invented to make deaf people hear. It is called the Baker Microphone. I will be pleased to give you an opportunity to test this little device free.

COST ONLY PROBLEM IN BIG BATTLESHIPS

Britain's Chief Naval Constructor Sees No Technical Obstacle to Type Proposed Here.

NO LIMIT TO SIZE OF GUNS

Question of Manoeuvring Has Already Been Settled by Atlantic Liners, Says Sir Philip Watts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—That the British Admiralty is alert to the prospect of the United States building battleships 10,000 tons or more larger than any now afloat was apparent from the promptitude with which Sir Philip Watts, Chief Naval Constructor of the empire, took up the subject with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-day when he mentioned to the correspondent that he was eager for details regarding the reported American plans and asked if THE NEW YORK TIMES could furnish them.

On the general subject he said he was in favor of big ships and big guns and plenty of them, but of course the most serious problem at once encountered in considering an increase in the tonnage of warships was that the cost of construction, armament, propulsion, and maintenance would be greatly augmented.

"It cannot be said," he remarked, "that one big ship can take the place of two smaller ones, for no ship can be in two places at the same time. If it be assumed that a power like Great Britain or America can cheerfully shoulder the increased expense, then let them have a bigger line of battleships, the bigger the better.

"The heavier tonnage gives greater stability for gun fire, and I don't know that any definite limit can be put at present on the possible calibre of naval cannon, if the difficulty of powder erosion within the bore be overcome, and I have no doubt it can. Our largest modern sea guns are of thirteen and a half inch calibre in battleships of the Collingwood type. You are to have some, I believe, of a sixteen-inch calibre.

"The main problem, I repeat, is how to produce the most efficient line of battleships at the least cost. Other things being equal, you want the biggest you can get. I don't think there would be any trouble in manoeuvring them. That question has already been settled satisfactorily by the great Atlantic liners."

AFRICAN UNION ADVANCED.

Constitution Bill for Federated British Colonies Passes Second Reading.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The House of Commons to-night unanimously passed the second reading of the South African Constitution bill.

In the course of the debate, ex-Premier Balfour said that the House, in dealing with the question of a Constitution for the federation of South African colonies—the Transvaal, Cape Colony, the Orange River State, and Natal—were discussing one of the most important events in the history of the British Empire. The bill, he declared, was a wonderful issue from all the controversies, battles, bloodshed, and difficulties to peace, and he believed the world could show nothing like it.

The race problem, Mr. Balfour said, was but a fractional part of the great question Parliament was now deciding. He strongly denied that it was intended to give the colored races equality with Europeans, declaring that, so far as the Government, society, and the higher forms of civilization were concerned, it would be impossible to give equal rights to the colored races without threatening the whole fabric of civilization.

In the opinion of Mr. Balfour, the best hope for the solution of this great problem was to place absolute and implicit confidence in the representative institutions the South Africans were now creating, and for the Home Government not to meddle with it. He added that he desired to do nothing that would hamper the Government in carrying out a measure so essential to the future of South Africa.

WOMAN HEADS LABOR BODY.

Miss Beeks Running the Civic Federation While Easley Is Abroad.

Miss Gertrude Beeks, Secretary of the Welfare Department of the Federation, will be in charge of the different departments of the Civic Federation, while Ralph M. Easley, its organizer, who sailed for Europe last week on a vacation trip is away.

None of the officers of the Civic Federation, except Mr. Easley, is so well in touch with all its departments as Miss Beeks, who practically created the department of which she is the head. She had a conference yesterday with Dr. Wilhelm F. Schall, who is here from Germany studying industrial conditions. Mr. Schall wanted to know something of the operation of Miss Beeks's department of the Federation, which aims to obtain pleasant conditions for factory employes.

Dr. Schall, who sails for Europe today, said he will try to establish a welfare department in some large concern in Germany, and introduce the system in German industrial centres. Mr. Easley will investigate while abroad the practicability of forming an International Civic Federation. The idea was discussed during a dinner given by the Executive Committee of the Federation to the delegates to the session of the Interparliamentary Union held at St. Louis in 1904. Delegtaes were present representing the parliaments of Austria, England, Belgium, France, Germany, Hungary, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Roumania, Sweden, and Switzerland.

Odd Fellows in Session.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 16.—With nearly 2,000 members of the order present, the eighty-fifth annual session of the New York State Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, got under way in the convention hall here to-night, with a short business session. To-morrow morning addresses will be made by State Senator Edgar T. Brackett and officers of the order. The convention will sit for three days.

NEW CRETAN RULERS DECLARE FOR GREECE

Provisional Committee, Instead of Hauling Down Flag, Takes Oath of Allegiance.

POWERS WILL ACT TO-DAY

If Greek Emblem Is Still Flying Bluejackets of Four Protecting Nations Will Resume Occupation of Island.

CANEA, Island of Crete, Aug. 16.—The Provisional Administrative Committee, to which the administration of the island was intrusted when the Cretan Cabinet resigned on Sunday, took the oath of allegiance to the King and Kingdom of Greece to-day.

The action of the committee apparently indicates that it is not its intention to meet the demands of the protecting powers and haul down the Greek flag, and that the powers will be forced to land troops again to insure the continuation of its international status.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—It is understood here that the recalcitrant Cretans had promised that the Greek flag raised by them would be lowered permanently tonight. If this promise is not carried out the international forces will remove the flag forcibly to-morrow, and marines and bluejackets of Great Britain, Russia, Italy, and France will again take up the duties laid down on July 27, when the Island of Crete was evacuated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Mr. Einstein, the Secretary of the American Embassy at Constantinople, has cabled the State Department that the situation there is endangered owing to the pressure which is being brought to bear on the Sublime Porte to demand fresh categorical explanations at Athens regarding Crete and Macedonia.

The Greek Government, Mr. Einstein adds, appears to have placed itself entirely in the hands of the four protecting powers who are continuing their conciliatory efforts. While the possibility of hostilities is said to be by no means removed, hopes are entertained of a peaceful solution of the difficulties.

RED CROSS FOR ALL ENGLAND.

Extensive Organization Planned for Service in Case of Invasion.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Based on the German and Japanese models, the War Office has issued proposals for a great voluntary Red Cross organization in connection with the territorial army plan.

It will be worked in connection with the existing Red Cross Society and St. John's Ambulance Society, and in the event of an invasion would cover the entire country with a network of Red Cross associations.

Men and women of all classes are invited to become volunteers to be trained in detachments in every territorial area as nurses and stretcher bearers and in every branch of the Red Cross service, utilizing country and local resources for hospitals, &c.

GERMAN MONOPOLY MENACED.

Competition in Commerce Foreseen in Americans Building Haitian Railroad.

PARIS, Aug. 17.—A special dispatch from Port-au-Prince, Haiti, says that a group of Germans, who have monopolized the commerce of that country for years, are conducting a violent campaign against the American bankers who are negotiating for a concession for the construction of a railroad system in Haiti.

The dispatch says the Germans control the press of the country which prints strongly worded articles against the Americans, and predicts the annexation of Haiti by the United States if the concession is granted.

The Germans fear, the dispatch concludes, that if the railroad is built, it will end their monopoly in the republic.

PEACE CONVENTION BEGINS.

Taft Writes He Would Like to Attend, but He Needs Rest.

MYSTIC, Conn., Aug. 16.—The delegates to the forty-third annual convention of the Universal Peace Union formally organized this morning for the three days' session at the Peace Temple in the grove. Welcoming speeches were made by President Alfred H. Love of Philadelphia, Palmer G. Whipple, President of the Connecticut branch, and others.

At the afternoon session the report of the year's work was made by the President, and speeches were made by Dr. Jesse Holmes of Swarthmore College and Julia B. G. Plummer of Providence, R. I.

In his review of the year's work President Love alluded to the plans which were proposed by the society and accepted by both sides in the recent street car strike in Philadelphia. He also said that of the recent Nobel peace prizes six were awarded to members of the society.

Letters were read from President Taft and Ambassador Bryce. The President expressed his hearty sympathy with the peace movement and said he would like to have been present but that he needed rest. Accompanying the letter was a card photograph of the Taft family, bearing the flag of the Peace Union.

In his letter President Taft accepted the honorary Vice Presidency of the society offered to him, saying he was glad to do so, "in case you think it will help the movement."

FLEET GETS BASEBALL NEWS.

Sunday Scores Flashed by Wireless to Eager Nautical Fans.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 16.—The fifteen ships of the Atlantic battleship fleet are to-day together on the Southern drill grounds off the Virginia Capes, with the exception of the Kansas, which is yet in Hampton Roads adjusting her gun sights in preparation for the target work which is expected to begin Wednesday. Everything is being made ready at the Navy Yard for the towing out on Wednesday morning of the torpedo boats Nicholson and O'Brien, which, with improvised masts and canvas stretched aloft, are to be used as targets. Naval tugs will tow them about in the choppy waters of the drilll grounds.

The fleet early to-day was eager for results of the Sunday baseball games of the National and American Leagues. The wireless operator on the Louisiana was first to get in touch with Norfolk, and as the local operator sent the baseball results through the air they were picked up by all the ships and immediately posted.

CLUE TO BRIDGE DYNAMITERS.

Erectors' Association Is Investigating Attempt on New Haven Structure.

The charge of dynamite exploded under the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad bridge over 156th Street, at Leggett Avenue, the Bronx, early yesterday morning, did less than $20 worth of damage, though it shook houses for three miles around and roused up the heads of households and started them into the night in the attempt to find out what had happened.

The six railroad tracks run below the street level at this point. The big steel bridge is supported on six concrete rests. The dynamite was placed near one of the rests at the southwest corner of the bridge. The only damage it did was to knock a small section of the concrete off the rest and shake out a few loose bolts.

John Metz, the watchman, was on top of the bridge at the time of the explosion, he said, and he didn't see any one placing the dynamite or running away after the explosion.

The bridge, which was almost completed, was to have been turned over to the city in the next two or three days by the Pittsburg Construction Company, the contracting builder. It belongs to the National Erectors' Association, whose officers said yesterday that they had begun a secret investigation into the attempt to blow up the bridge, and already had a clue to the dynamiters

Speaking of the dynamiting, Commissioner Walter Drew of the National Erectors' Association said yesterday:

"It is true that there have been no strikes of the structural iron workers for some time, but this concern, like all the concerns in our association, is an open shop firm, and the union has been fighting the open shop since it was declared locally and nationally in the trade some years ago. After it was declared, bridges were dynamited at intervals, some of the attempts being successful. These attempts came every now and then when contractors had begun to forget about previous dynamitings, and this attempt to dynamite the bridge in the Bronx looks like a revival of the former tactics."

NEW MOVE IN HASKELL CASE.

Oklahoma Governor Starts Another Action to Have Indictments Quashed.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 16.—The attorney for Gov. Charles N. Haskell and the five other defendants, indicted in connection with the alleged Muskogee town lot frauds, to-day filed motions in the Federal Court here to quash the indictments, setting forth a number of sensational allegations.

Aside from charges against five grand jurors and the allegation of improper conduct on the part of United States Marshal Grant Victor, the allegations deal largely with the Grand Jury's selection, with especial objection to the exclusion of Muskogee County, the home of the defendants, from the territory from which the jury was chosen.

It is alleged that George W. Strawn, J. H. Dixon, J. C. Burgess, A. G. Dumas, and W. T. Bailey, members of the Grand Jury which indicted the defendants, deliberately sought to go on that jury with a view to returning indictments; that Strawn, as foreman, conspired to intimidate the other jurors into voting indictments after they had refused to do so. The motion insists that Strawn repeatedly told the jurors they probably would be charged with perjury if they failed to indict, and at one time, when the ballot stood 8 to 8, he called for an open vote so he would know who should be prosecuted.

The six defendants were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury at Tulsa, Okla., on May 27, charged with obtaining titles from the Government to the lots in Muskogee by illegal methods.

Gov. Haskell and six other defendants had previously been indicted on the same charge, but on April 10 last Federal Judge John A. Marshall of Utah upheld a motion for the defendants to quash the indictments.

GAS EXPLOSION INJURES TEN.

Roof of Warehouse Lifted in Air and Seven Other Structures Afire.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 16.—Seven men and three women, two of whom may die, were injured early to-day when an explosion of natural gas wrecked the four-story building occupied by a storage company. The débris caught fire and was practically consumed.

The roof of the building was lifted high in the air. On the north side the falling wall crashed in upon a saloon, causing considerable damage. The south wall almost demolished a butcher shop. After the explosion seven buildings in the neighborhood caught fire and the district was threatened, but quick work on the part of the firemen saved the buildings.

Most of those injured were employed in the storage building. The explosion occurred in the basement. Four team drivers in the rear of the building were caught in the falling débris. As flames raged near them they were rescued with difficulty by firemen and spectators. Miss Beatrice Evans, a bookkeeper, was badly burned and cut.

Pedestrians outside were slightly injured by falling bricks first hurled high in the air. Two or three others were slightly injured by a runaway horse, frightened by the explosion.

Frank Wirick, manager of the storage house, was badly burned. Firemen were overcome by smoke. Many women in the neighborhood fainted of fright.

The total loss probably will approximate $100,000.

BOUND COUPLE, FIRED HOUSE.

Pair Freed Themselves and Fled to Roof with Baby—Finally Rescued.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., Aug. 16.—Four masked men early to-day entered the home of Charles Burlew, a storekeeper, at West Pittston, and going to the room occupied by the merchant and his wife, demanded of the former the money he received from his sales on Saturday. He refused, and was knocked insensible. The intruders then bound and gagged Burlew and his wife and ransacked the room.

After securing $360 from a mattress, the men set fire to the house and fled. Burlew managed to work himself loose, and after liberating his wife carried her and their one-year-old baby to the roof to escape the flames. Upon the arrival of the firemen, ladders were run to the roof, and Burlew and his wife and child were brought to the ground.

Mrs. Burlew became unconscious as the result of her experience and is in a serious condition. Shortly before noon four tramps were arrested in a railway yard on suspicion. They asserted their innocence, but were locked up.

TENANTS MAROONED IN BIG SKYSCRAPER

A Blown-Out Cylinder Head Stopped Elevators in Trinity Building at Lunch Time.

SOME ATE, OTHERS HUNGRY

Only Those Athletically Inclined Braved Climb of Many Stories—John W. Gates and C. M. Schwab Victims.

The Trinity Building, at 111 Broadway, is slim but very tall, so most of its 3,000 tenants must use one or the other of its fourteen elevators or else do some hard climbing to reach their offices. Shortly after noon yesterday about half of the 3,000 were out at lunch, and the other half wanted to go out. Then a cylinder head in the basement blew out. No one was injured, but great volumes of steam and hot water shot out into the lower basement.

And the elevators stopped.

It is usually the clerks and stenographers who go out to lunch first, the employers waiting until a more genteel hour. The downpour of rain rushed the returning clerks and stenographers, after their midday meal, back into the basement and ground-floor hallway of the Trinity Building. These employes, finding that they could not ride back to the upper floors of the twenty-one-story building, stacked their dripping umbrellas, laid aside their wet overcoats and rubbers, and waited. They faced the situation philosophically.

From time to time a subordinate would telephone the powers higher up that he was downstairs willing to come up and begin his duties, but that the elevators had not started. He was sorry, he said.

One o'clock came, and still the elevator situation remained unchanged. It was explained that the engineering department was getting up steam in a reserve boiler, and that as soon as this had been accomplished all fourteen elevators would begin work again.

Those who hadn't gone out to lunch before the accident grew hungrier and hungrier. Along about 1:30 o'clock, despairing of help from below, the more courageous of those who had been marooned above started to walk downstairs.

The stairway is in a small space. It winds twice between every floor. A man walking down from the twenty-first floor turned around about forty times before he reached the eating level. Many people can't turn around a great deal without getting dizzy, and as the heroes and heroines came down to the last flight of stairway, they were more or less wabbling. All who walked down were received with cheers and applause by their fellows below, and the more they wabbled the more they were applauded.

But some there were who had ordered luncheon by 'phone from near-by restaurants, and waiters with huge trays of food appeared in the lower part of the building. They, too, got applause. They approached the Directory Board on the wall with fear and trembling. It was like gambling; this waiter would draw the tenth floor, another would get the twentieth. But none of them got low floors, for tenants on the lower floors could afford to walk downstairs themselves. One waiter who drew the twentieth floor reported to the mob on the ground floor that it had taken him thirty minutes to make the trip.

After 1 o'clock the stock runners began to swell the crowd. Some of the brokers are as high up as the fifth floor, and running up to the fourth or fifth floor is not a delight, even to a professional stock runner.

At 2 o'clock the elevator situation was still unchanged. By this time employers were sending down word to employes that they must walk upstairs.

It came to be a matter of pride yesterday with employers throughout the building to talk about the proportionate number of their employes who had labored upstairs. It showed loyalty, it was pointed out.

After 2 o'clock it became absolutely necessary, in many cases, for the heads of offices who had walked down to luncheon to get upstairs. His neighbors reported that Charles M. Schwab had walked up to his office on the eleventh floor. John W. Gates, with offices on a lower floor, had walked, too, it was said. There was at least one office head, a portly person, who would not walk up. He telephoned for a clerk to bring down his papers to the cigar stand, and he transacted business from there.

Shortly before 3 o'clock all the elevators were started. It was said by the management of the building later in the afternoon that all the time two elevators had been kept going. If they were run at all, very few of the tenants knew anything about them.

TRANSMISSISSIPPI CONGRESS.

Friends of Ballinger and Pinchot Likely to Cause an Outbreak.

DENVER, Aug. 16.—With more than 5,000 delegates and visitors present from every State west of the Mississippi River, and many from Eastern Commonwealths, the tweifth annual trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress opened this morning in the Auditorium.

While Secretary Ballinger will not attend the congress, Chief Forester Pinchot will be here. There have been no definite arrangements for a discussion of the so-called Ballinger-Pinchot issues, but it is certain that supporters of the two officials will bring up the subject and ask for action supporting one or the other.

Because each State is limited to thirty votes, it is not expected that the Colorado delegation, which is opposed to Pinchot's policies, will be able to force definite action against the Forester.

One of the important features to come before the convention for indorsement is a plan for a National Western highway from El Paso through Yellowstone Park, and on to the Canadian border.

FRATERNAL ORDERS PROSPER.

More than $8,000,000,000 in Insurance, President of Congress States.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—More than 300 delegates, representing fifty-one fraternal societies of the United States, were gathered in this city to-day at the opening session of the twenty-third annual convention of the National Fraternal Congress.

According to the President's report, the fraternal insurance orders, with over $8,000,000,000 insurance in force, have been able to maintain a firm and united stand against the old line companies, whose outstanding insurance was last reported as totalling $2,577,246,881.

In regard to the minimum rate question the President said: "It cannot be contravened that the battle for minimum rate legislation has accomplished much for the salvation of fraternal societies. Minimum rates make it possible for all societies to do a safe business. Valuation would disclose conditions and furnish opportunities for a wisely managed company to show a surplus and either to give further benefits to its membership or in some manner to return a portion of the cost."

MOSQUITO PEST IN TEXAS.

Cattle Take to the Water and Coast Line Trains Are Emptied.

Special to The New York Times.

GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 16.—A mosquito scourge never before equaled is infesting the Gulf Coast section of Texas. Work in the rice fields has been abandoned because of the myriads of mosquitos attacking the laborers, whose only protection is boots and thick gloves. Owing to the heat the workmen cannot wear thick clothes, and handkerchiefs around the head and neck are easy prey for the long-billed mosquitos, said to be a new species in Texas.

Thousands of head of cattle sought the gulf and bays and other waterways to get away from the pests. Forced to stand in water neck deep, the cattle refuse to come out to eat, and unless relief from the mosquitos comes soon many cattle will die.

Several of the coast roads are operating their trains with few passengers because the mosquitos in dense clouds literally drive passengers under the seats. Even on Galveston Island, with a stiff gulf breeze blowing, cattle and horses are suffering, and tons of oil are being used to drive away the large mosquitos.

DRAWING FOR INDIAN LAND.

99,807 Applicants for Spokane Reserve —250 Get Tracts.

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, Aug. 16.—The shortest of the three great Indian land drawings took place here to-day. The Spokane Reserve, the hilly, timbered strip of land lying just north and east of the junction of the Spokane and Columbia Rivers, furnished the prizes.

There were 99,807 applications. It is believed valuable water rights, fruit tracts, and mineral deposits may be found on some of the land. Supt. James W. Witten having decided that only 250 names should be drawn for this reservation, the task was an easy one for the trained force.

Allen Newton, aged 24, of Helena, Mon., drew No. 1. Among the high-number winners in to-day's drawing for the Spokane Reservation were 34, David E. Gorman, La José, Penn., and 44, Etta Ross, Hamilton, Ohio.

NO UPRISING IN SPAIN.

American Back from Spain Says Trouble Is Confined to Barcelona.

The Spanish line steamship Buenos Aires, which was pressed into service as a Government transport while at Cadiz, arrived here yesterday. Her passengers, who were left at Barcelona, were transferred to Cadiz, where they were taken on board the Buenos Aires again, after her week of troop carrying was over.

During the three days at Barcelona, they were witnesses of the clash between the people and the Government guards. Among those who arrived was O. B. Stuart of Chicago, Post Office Inspector at Manila. Speaking of conditions in Spain, he said:

"It would be unfair to Spain to say that the whole people are in a state of uprising. The southern portion of the country is patriotic and supporting the Government. It is to the vicinity of Barcelona that the whole trouble is confined."

Likely to be Made Foreign Minister When He Reaches Tokio.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 16.—That Baron Takahira, Japanese Ambassador to the United States, will return no more to this country, but will be made Minister of Foreign Affairs by his Government, was stated to-day by well-informed Japanese, who named as his successor Kosai Uchida, now Ambassador to Austria. Baron Takahira sails for Japan to-morrow on the steamer Tango.

At a farewell dinner, exclusively Japanese, given in a Buddhist temple, the Ambassador told his countrymen that they were themselves in large measure responsible for the ill feeling against them in the United States.

EUROPE'S FAR FROM BOWERY, SAYS BIG TIM

The Senator Slips Home Quietly to Avoid a Noisy Welcome from His Constituents.

HE WON'T DISCUSS POLITICS

But He Is Enthusiastic About the Jeffries-Johnson Match and Wishes It Would Come Off in New York.

"I am mighty glad to be home, for it is only when you are over there that you realize that Europe is a long, long way from the Bowery," said Senator Timothy D. Sullivan as he greeted his friends yesterday morning, after sixty days spent on the other side of the Atlantic.

"Big Tim" arrived on the Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam, which reached her pier early yesterday morning. He tried to slip quietly into port, as he said he wanted to avoid a welcome by brass bands and screeching tugboats. Edward J. Dowling and Gus Roeder accompanied him.

The Senator's name did not appear on the passenger list, and it was not until the end of the voyage that the passengers knew he was on board. Capt. Roggvea was informed that the Senator was a passenger on Saturday, and at the concert Sunday night he instructed the band to play "Tammany" and "Harrigan," substituting the name "Sullivan" in the latter song. When the Senator was discovered there were loud cries for a speech, but he fled to his room.

"I have had a great time," said "Big Tim." "I believe Ireland is the greatest place on that side of the big pond, and next to it I think Holland is a mighty good place. I spent much time there. I got a look in at Paris and saw London.

"Take it from me America is a good place to live in, and the longer you are away the more you want to get home. American women are the best in the world. Why, the Frenchwomen are only fielders, while our girls sit in the grand stand.

"Now, don't ask me about politics. I have been away from home and am out of touch with things. The proper person to apply to is Mr. Murphy."

"Do you expect to see former Police Commissioner Bingham in the field as a Mayoralty candidate?" he was asked.

"I read the stories cabled abroad about Bingham with much interest, but I prefer not to discuss Bingham or the Bingham incident in any way.

"So they have signed for a scrap?" was his comment when told that Jeffries and Johnson had agreed to fight. "It will certainly be a great fight. What money has been offered for the match? Hugh McIntosh says he is willing to put up $50,000. It will not be enough. I think the price will jump to $75,000, and before the big fellows sign with any promoter, I would not be surprised to see $100,000 put up.

"It is a great shame that this city cannot have the fight. This would be the place for it, and the gate receipts would be between $300,000 and $400,000."

Mr. Sullivan denied the report that he had been gambling while abroad. He denied that he had wagered on the Grand Prix or played at Monte Carlo.

When asked what he intended to do now that he was back in the fight again, he answered: "Go to work."

His first task, he said, would be to meet his friends, and then look over his district.

DOCTORS TO HONOR HOLMES.

Will Commemorate the Autocrat's Eminence as a Physician on Oct. 9.

After the centenary celebration in honor of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes as an author, which will take place in this city on Aug. 29, the County Medical Society will, on Oct. 9, at the New York Academy of Medicine, 17 West Forty-third Street, celebrate his fame as a physician.

At a recent meeting of the County Medical Society Dr. Irving Wilson Voorhees of 3,544 Broadway pointed out that people do not remember as clearly as they should Dr. Holmes's eminence as a physician, and he was appointed Chairman of the committee to plan the celebration. As most of the members of the County Medical Society will be out of the city on Aug. 29, the later date of Oct. 9 was decided upon.

The committee has arranged for the following addresses: "Personal Reminiscences of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes," Dr. A. H. Richardson of the Harvard Medical School; "Dr. Holmes's Achievements as a Physician," Dr. Edward O. Otis of Boston, and "The Many-Sided Holmes," Dr. William H. Thomson of 70 East Fifty-fourth Street, New York City.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes was for thirty-five years Professor of Anatomy in the Harvard Medical School. He studied medicine abroad, and was in active practice for a number of years.

Boy, Victim of Overstudy, Secretes Himself in Cellar Filled with Rodents.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 16.—With rats as large as the average-sized cat scampering about him, Michael Florin, Jr., 14 years old, lay for four nights and four days in a dark, damp cellar at his home, East Meadow and Jefferson Streets, here. The police had sent out a general alarm for the boy, his father had sought him in all the near-by cities, and every child in the neighborhood was engaged in the search.

The boy's hiding place was about as repulsive a place as could be imagined. The floor was damp, and even in the daytime scarcely any light penetrated the place. By night the boy slept in an isolated corner between beams in a bed of rags he made for himself. In fact, he spent most of the four days and four nights in this little hole. He had little food during the period, and that little came from an icebox in the front of the cellar. Often the rats stole this, but they never attacked the boy, and he apparently did not fear them. He was found by a younger brother leaning against the icebox late yesterday afternoon, so weak from hunger and lack of sleep that he could scarcely stand. He was put to bed and a physician was called. To-day he was better. He did not explain his strange prank.

"My son is a victim of overstudy," said the father. "He is devoted to books and spends every minute he can get poring over them. Six weeks ago he was ill, and I had a physician from New York. He said the boy's brain was affected from overstudy. He advised me to keep him out of school and to take him to New York for a course of treatment. He told me he went into the cellar to sleep, and when I asked him why he did not come out when he awoke, he just yawned and said he was too tired."

LEN UNMOVED BY QUESTIONS.

Chinese Who Brought Murdered Bow Kum Here Held as Witness.

Chin Len, the Chinaman who brought Bow Kum, the murdered Chinese girl, here from San Francisco and has since been living with her in a tenement at 17 Mott Street, was questioned yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Turnbull and afterward sent to the House of Detention as an important witness.

According to Mr. Turnbull the Chinaman's story was virtually a repetition of that told to Coroner Harburger on Sunday, to the effect that he had gone out on Saturday night to play cards with friends, and that on returning early Sunday morning had found Bow Kum lying on the floor of their room dead. He explained the imprint of his hand in blood discovered by the police on the shutter by saying that he had attempted to lift the girl's body to the bed and had got blood on his hands.

Mr. Turnbull said that at no time did Len contradict himself or seem to be in the least confused in telling his story.

Louis Spiegel, the lawyer who appeared for the Chinaman, said that he was retained by Tom Lee, the Mayor of Chinatown, to defend the prisoner.

Capt. Michael Galvin of the Elizabeth Street Police Station removed and sent to Headquarters yesterday one of the panels of a door in the house at 17 Mott Street on the floor below where Bow Kum's body was found. It was marked in several places with what appear to be finger prints in blood.

EDWARD W. SCOTT ARRESTED.

Real Estate Broker Held Responsible for Girl's Hotel Bill.

Edward W. Scott, a young real estate broker, who lives at the Westchester Country Club, near Yonkers, was arrested there yesterday by Detectives Higgins and Roth of Yonkers on complaint of the proprietors of High Cliffe Hall and the Arlington Hotel, that city. A. J. Robinson of High Cliffe Hall said that late in July the young man had brought in a beautiful young woman, who, he said, was ill. She gave the name of Miss Burnam, Mr. Robinson said, and recovered wonderfully the following day.

The young woman stayed at his hotel a week, went on Mr. Robinson, and every day young Scott called. She left owing a bill of $27. She later was a guest at the Arlington, whose proprietor, Mrs. Ella Timmerman, said she left owing $50. William S. Scott, a broker, of 66 Broadway, New York City, appeared in court and settled the claims.

Miss M. Barry, as the young woman was known at the Arlington, borrowed $2 from a waiter there, it was said yesterday, but this claim was not settled.

NO PNEUMATIC TUBES YET.

Work of Installing Them for the Customs Service Held Up.

Notwithstanding that an appropriation of $170,000 was made by Congress early last Spring for the construction of pneumatic tubes between the Appraiser's Stores and the Custom House for the transmission of official papers, nothing is to be done at present looking to the installation of the plant, because the Controller of the Treasury, T. J. Tracewell, has held up the work.

The necessary permission had been obtained from the Board of Estimate, and everything was in readiness to award the contract, when Controller Tracewell discovered that the Government could not fulfill the requirement in the franchise that in case of the discontinuance of the tubes they must be removed. Another stumbling block, according to Mr. Tracewell, was that the Government could not obligate itself for damages to property resulting from the installation of the tubes.

A. B. Fry, Chief Engineer of Federal Buildings, declared that the work of putting in the tubes could be begun at once if the Controller would permit it. Customs officials declared yesterday that the tubes are imperatively needed.

Shocked to Death by Third Rail.

Peter Donlin, a blacksmith, living in Jersey City, was shocked to death by the third rail at Ammerman Avenue and the Long Island Railroad, Arverne, yesterday afternoon. He was crossing the tracks when he slipped and fell, his hand falling upon the side of the third rail, while his legs lay across one of the tracks. Dr. Salzer of St. Joseph's Hospital, who was called, said he had been instantly killed.

Gas Rebates Reach $9,644,972.68.

Last week the payments aggregated $106,950.98 on 32,784 vouchers.

HESITATES TO TELL BRIDGE CAR PROFITS

Public Might Think the Company Is Making Too Much, Says Williamsburg Line's Counsel.

LOSS ON THROUGH SERVICE

Metropolitan Receivers May Take Off Some of the Cars—Anxious to Buy 500 Shares of Stock.

The inquiry which Commissioner Maltbie of the Public Service Commission is making upon the application of the New York City Railway for permission to sell 500 shares of the stock of the Bridge Operating Company, which runs the local cars across the Williamsburg Bridge under a contract with the city, developed more interesting information yesterday.

William M. Coleman, counsel for the Bridge Operating Company, told the Commissioner that the receivers did not want to make public the figures showing the profit on the operation of these cars, lest the public, hearing of them through the newspapers, should conclude that the operation was unduly favorable.

The Metropolitan Street Railway receivers are willing to pay $300 a share for the stock which the City Railway owns in the Bridge Operating Company, and Commissioner Maltbie has raised a question whether this figure, three times the par value of the stock, did not indicate that the City Railway enjoyed too favorable terms from the city.

Yesterday at the commencement of the hearing Mr. Maltbie asked Mr. Coleman if he had the figures showing dividends on the Bridge Operating Company's stock, which had been asked for at the previous hearing.

"I want to ask to be relieved from putting in those figures," said Mr. Coleman. "Those figures would seem to show that the Bridge Operating Company is able to show large profits because it is able to purchase power at a low cost, and because its administration expenses are small.

"It is apparent to the officials of the Brooklyn and Manhattan companies that a great deal of money is being lost in the operation of through cars over the bridge. The Metropolitan receivers have gravely considered, on account of this expense, taking off the through cars now operated on the north tracks of the Williamsburg Bridge. It is a question if the whole bridge operation does not mean that more money is being lost in the operation of the through cars than is being made by the local car service.

"Now, if the figures showing the profit on the local cars are made public, it will be half the truth at best."

Commissioner Maltbie said he would take until Wednesday to consider the matter. Mr. Coleman remarked, parenthetically, that the assets of the City Railway were small enough any way, and that the sale in question was arranged after competitive bidding.

"Was the sale advertised?" asked Mr. Maltbie.

"No," said Mr. Coleman, "it was not advertised, but Mr. Whitridge bid on the stock."

"How much did he bid?" asked the sitting Commissioner.

"I don't know," said the counsel for the Bridge Operating Company.

DISCUSS CENTRAL BANK PLAN.

National Monetary Commission in Session Here.

The National Monetary Commission appointed two years ago by Congress under the Currency Reform law for the revision of the monetary system of the United States held an executive session yesterday afternoon, which lasted well into the evening, at the Plaza Hotel. The session was behind closed doors, and at 7 o'clock last night an adjournment was taken to 9 o'clock this morning.

Senator Aldrich, Chairman of the commission, who with his wife and two sons, Winthrop W. and Richard S., is stopping at the Plaza, declined to make any statement in regard to the work of the commission, and several other members when approached also refused to talk. Senator Aldrich's secretary, A. B. Shelton, who is the secretary of the commission, said that some data might be given out at the close of the session. He thought it would be over to-night.

Several members of the commission are stopping at the Plaza. Representative John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, Representative Edward B. Vreeland of New York, and Senator John W. Daniel of Virginia, are registered there, but they were reticent in regard to the work of the commission. It was hinted, however, that the establishment of a central Government bank at Washington was under consideration.

CITY BREVITIES.

Supreme Court Justice Brady dismissed yesterday the writ of habeas corpus sued out by Mrs. Clara E. Ludeman, wife of Arthur Ludeman, son of August A. Ludeman, President of the Consumers' Park Brewing Company of Brooklyn, who sought to obtain possession of her child pending a suit brought against her for divorce. The Court, however, gives Mrs. Ludeman permission to visit her child, now in the possession of its grandparents, for three hours on one day of each week.

The weekly report of the Health Board, filed yesterday, shows an increase of a little more than 1 per cent. in the death rate for the week ending Aug. 14, 1909, over that of the corresponding week of last year. The total deaths this year were 1,474, as compared with 1,334 last year.

Grace Maidhoff, the young California woman who was arrested on July 25 last on a charge of passing worthless checks among merchants in Harlem, and afterward implicated her lawyer, John H. Freese, by saying that she had acted under his instructions, was indicted yesterday by the Grand Jury for forgery in the second degree. Freese was also indicted on the same charge. Both defendants will be arraigned for pleading to-day.

James S. Shea, Republican leader of the Fourteenth Assembly District, obtained a license yesterday to marry Mary Gertrude Alcock, a stenographer of 303 West Thirty-seventh Street. Mr. Shea is a Supervisor of Racing Accounts for the State.

ASKS $20,000,000 INCREASE.

Westchester Railroad Petitions Service Board to Act on Merger.

At a public hearing yesterday in the Engineering Society Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, before the up-State Public Service Commission, the New York, Westchester, Manhattan & Boston Railway Company asked permission to make an increase of $20,000,000 in its capital stock. The company's present capital is $4,000,000.

The corporation, which is controlled by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company interests, recently acquired all the rights, title, and interest to the New York and Port Chester Railroad, and it asked for permission to consolidate the two properties, the same to be operated under the name of the New York, Westchester & Boston Company, which is building a four-track electric road from the Lenox Avenue terminal of the Subway to Port Chester, with a double track branch running from Mount Vernon to White Plains.

With the consolidation of the two companies, the Westchester company will ask permission to abandon portions of the respective routes, using only those parts which are advantageous to a direct line. The company also asks permission to abandon that part of its proposed route running from White Plains to Elmsford.

President L. S. Miller stated that so far the right of way had cost the company about $240,000 a mile and that the prospective business did not warrant a three-mile extension from White Plains to Elmsford. The Commissioners took the papers, copies of the franchises of the two companies, and other data and will give a decision later.

The legal representatives of Port Chester, White Plains, New Rochelle, Mount Vernon, and other towns affected were present, but no opposition to the plans of the company was offered except from White Plains. The White Plains people remonstrated against the termination of the route in that village, saying that the road would be of greater benefit if it ran through to Elmsford. They also wanted the route shifted further to the east of town to develop that section.

It was stated at the hearing that the company will not build power plants of its own, but will get its electricity from the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. It is believed that the difficulty of the transmission of high voltage electricity is one of the company's reasons for wishing to cut out Elmsford.

AUTO STRIKES FLOWER BOY.

He Ran Out to Sell Flowers to Occupants of R. R. Crosby's Machine.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 16.—Albert H. Hammershan, a boy of 7 years, was struck by an automobile owned by Robert R. Crosby of 57 East Seventy-eighth Street, New York City, on the Old Point Judith Road this morning. The boy is seriously injured, but will recover. He ran from the side of the road to sell flowers to the occupants of the automobile. He was taken to his home by Mr. Crosby.

Mr. Crosby was running at a slow rate of speed when the accident occurred.

AUTO HURLED INTO A CREEK.

Five Men Hurt Near Atlantic City—Forced to Swim—Machine Wrecked.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 16.—In a blinding rain storm a large automobile carrying five men from this city to Philadelphia skidded on a bridge spanning a creek on the boulevard just outside the city early to-day, and, striking the railing of the structure with terrific force, threw the men into the water, fifteen feet below. All were painfully injured, and they escaped death from drowning by swimming and wading ashore. The automobile was wrecked and hung over the side of the bridge.

The occupants of the car were: Edward Rankin, Philadelphia, badly crushed leg; James F. Marston, Philadelphia, fractured arm; James F. Henry, Boston, left leg bruised; F. F. Martin, Washington, head and face bruised, and W. H. Dayton, New York, right leg cut and bruised.

All of the injured were brought to the City Hospital, and all but Rankin, after having their injuries dressed, were able to leave the institution.

Illness Good Excuse for Speeding.

Dr. William Linder of 1,780 St. John's Place, Brooklyn, convinced Magistrate Hylan in the Gates Avenue Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, that he had been hurrying in his automobile to a sick patient on Monday when he was arrested for exceeding the speed limit, and the Magistrate suspended sentence on him.

SLAY WOMAN IN ROOM AND GET SAFELY AWAY

Murderers Believed to Have Hidden in House After a Night of Revelry.

MOTIVE EVIDENTLY ROBBERY

Mrs. Vicco's Rings and Money Found on Floor Persuade Police Her Struggles Scared Off Thieves.

After a night of revelry in her house at 105 West Twenty-ninth Street, Mrs. Madeline Vicco was shot to death early yesterday morning. The police believe the murder was committed by intruders, who crept to the woman's room bent upon robbery. Appearances indicated that their victim gave them such a struggle that they feared being caught by other occupants of the house. After killing her they fled, leaving behind them diamond rings they had torn from the woman's fingers and money that had been scattered over the floor.

Mrs. Vicco had lived in the house for twenty years, and the police knew her as a masseuse. The basement of the house was occupied at various times by Italians who ran a restaurant. On the floor above Mrs. Vicco, who was past 50, had a suite of rooms, while the upper floors were occupied by boarders.

Many callers came to Mrs. Vicco's house, most of them being French and Italian waiters, who, after drinking in the restaurant, would have a dance in the apartments used by Mrs. Vicco. The boarders, all of them waiters or chefs, would join in these gayeties.

On Sunday night there was a lively throng of men and women in the house. They remained until after 3 o'clock, when Mrs. Vicco ordered the lights turned down and went to her bedroom, in the rear of the first floor. No sound was heard by any of the occupants of the house until shortly after 5 o'clock, when Isadore Abrams, a boarder on the floor above Mrs. Vicco, heard groans in her room. Abrams ran down and knocked at the woman's door. When she failed to open it Abrams went to the street and called Policeman Morschauser. The door was broken in and Mrs. Vicco was found lying within a few feet of it. Before an ambulance could be summoned the woman was dead.

It required only a brief survey of the woman's apartments to convince the police that robbers had done the work. In Mrs. Vicco's bedroom $135 in bills were found strewn upon the floor, while the woman's rings, which she always wore, were on the bed. There was evidence that a violent struggle had occurred. Mrs. Vicco's fingers were torn from the tugging at the rings, and her neck showed that she had been choked. Two bullets had been fired into her heart, and it appeared that she had raised her hand to ward off the bullets, for her right arm was burned with powder. A bankbook showing a deposit of $1,900 was found at the foot of the bed. Mrs. Vicco kept it in her dresser, which had been opened.

The police took Abrams around to the West Thirtieth Street Station House, but allowed him to go after being convinced that he could throw no light upon the murder. They arrested Mamie Estelle, a French maid, but she declared she had heard nothing. All the occupants of the house were closely questioned without any clue being developed as to the identity of the murderers.

Coroner Acritelli, after examining all of the witnesses, expressed the opinion that the murder was committed by two or more men acquainted with Mrs. Vicco. He thinks they probably were in the group of revelers on Sunday night, and that they hid somewhere in the house when the others left, awaiting a favorable time to commit the robbery.

HONOR RETIRING FIREMAN.

Comrades Present Gold Medal to Capt. Thomas F. O'Connor.

Capt. Thomas F. O'Connor, known in the Brooklyn Fire Department as the "no complaint Captain," was retired from the Fire Department last night after twenty years of service. The Captain was attached to Hook and Ladder Company 59, which is at Fourth Avenue and Nineteenth Street. On last Saturday O'Connor sent in his retirement papers, but up to Sunday night, when he went off duty, he had received no official acceptance of his retirement. Yesterday was his regular day off, and when the Captain received a summons from Deputy Chief Cummings to appear at his truck company in full uniform last night he thought he was to be continued in the service.

As he entered the firehouse, Deputy Chief Lally and Chief Cummings, with the entire company, were lined up on the floor in dress uniform. The Captain gave a start, but Chief Lally stepped over to the Captain and pinned a gold medal on his chest, the gift of his men.

Capt. O'Connor entered the Fire Department in August, 1889, and in February, 1896, was made a Lieutenant and assigned to Engine Company 26, in State Street, which takes in the business district of lower Brooklyn. In August, 1900, he was made a Captain. In 1906 Capt. O'Connor was assigned to Rockaway Beach to reorganize the Fire Department there which, up to that time, had been a volunteer one.

In January, 1903, Capt. O'Connor rescued Mrs. Emily Rokerstoff and her two young daughters, Jennie and Lottie, from their home, 486 Atlantic Avenue, with scaling ladders. He received a gold medal for his bravery. In February, 1904, he saved Mrs. Lenhan from her house at 446 State Street, and in 1904 he saved the life of a cripple, John O'Brien, whom he took from the fourth floor of a burning building at 446 Baltic Street.

The Captain never made charges against his men at Headquarters, but disciplined them himself. Capt. O'Connor is 45 years old and lives with his family at 91 Nevins Street.

NEW RECTOR'S IN CAB ROW.

Rival Taxicab Companies Wrangle Over Privilege of Stand.

All day yesterday a dispute was waged between the New York Taxicab Company and the new Rector's restaurant, at Broadway and Forty-sixth Street, formerly Churchill's restaurant. The New York Taxicab Company has a city permit and a contract with the old Churchill establishment for a cab stand there.

Yesterday machines of the Taxi Service Company and the New York Taxicab Company clashed for places in front of the eating house. Melville S. Forrester, Inspector for the latter company, told his men to "stick it out," while the manager of the restaurant tried his best to force the machines away from the stand.

Inspector Boettler of the Traffic Squad appeared in front of the restaurant last night and ordered Policeman Cambrecht of the Traffic Squad to arrest George Maroney, a chauffeur for the Taxicab Company. He was taken to Night Court.

Frederick G. Milligan, counsel for the New York Taxicab Company, told Magistrate Corrigan that the company had a five years' contract with the old management of the restaurant, and a city permit. He maintained that the fact that the place had changed hands could not abrogate the contract.

Magistrate Corrigan put the case off for the West Side Court to-day and paroled the chauffeur. He also decided that the New York Taxicab Company had a right to use the stand until the matter had been adjudicated.

Warship's Silver Set Gone Astray?

A dispatch from Washington that the silver service set donated by the citizens of South Dakota to the officers of the cruiser named after that State is not on board the vessel, but stored away in the navy yard here, has started gossip among those in touch with the navy yard. No one could be found at the yard yesterday to verify the story, as Paymaster Tobey, in whose care the silver set should be, if it were in the navy yard, is on his vacation. It was said, however, that as the vessel was built at the Mare Island Navy Yard, and has been on the Pacific Coast since she was put in commission, in 1908, there could be no reason for sending the gift to the navy yard here, and that if not on board the vessel, the service would probably be at the Mare Island Navy Yard.

The Value of Telephone Service to the small Shop Keeper

ONE AND ONE-HALF million telephone calls are made in New York and vicinity each day. A very large proportion of these messages are purchasing orders, or relate to buying or selling. This fact is of vital interest to shopkeepers. It indicates that the telephone system is the great channel through which flows a large part of the City's trade.

Large shopkeepers are well aware of this fact, and have installed many telephones to serve as inlets for telephone orders. In many cases, telephone trade constitutes a large proportion of their business.

Small shopkeepers, too, can get telephone trade—providing they have telephones, and give prompt attention to telephone orders. Telephone buying is on the increase, and the shopkeeper without a telephone is left at the post in the race for business.

TALKS on TEETH

BY

G. GORDON MARTIN, Inc.

Teeth--- Wisdom

How many of your wisdom teeth have you left?

It seems as if nature added these teeth more as a form of punishment than for use. They come late, hurt and bother wretchedly while coming, and soon begin to show decay.

Then they must be treated or taken out. Their going left a vacancy that could never be supplied until the Martinolar Method was discovered, AND MISSING TEETH COULD BE RESTORED WITHOUT THE USE OF PLATES OR ORDINARY BRIDGE WORK ON BOTH SIDES OF SOUND TEETH.

Nature supplied thirty-two teeth in the beginning, and she generally knows what is necessary for the proper care of the human body.

Now if one subtracts two or four or a dozen teeth from the original supply because of disease—or worse yet, because of ignorant dentistry—the deficiency should be made good. Every dentist on earth admits, and has always admitted, that a full set of teeth was necessary, but the only way they had of filling up the gaps was to half fill the mouth with a big, clumsy "plate," upon which were fastened sundry "false teeth."

These filled up the gaps all right, but were no good to chew with.

Bite on one side and down went the plate on the other—and like as not it would drop out of the mouth entirely.

No wonder it was called a "partial" plate.,

The other plan of restoring missing teeth was styled "bridge work"—but this was limited to space "between" teeth. It couldn't work on either side, and being high in the centre, it was torture to bite on it, for the "give" or "spring" strained the "pier" teeth until they became loose and diseased.

Then the bridge came out—and as "partial" plates were no good, the common practice was to pull all the rest of the good teeth and supply a full plate. Such was "dental science" until about six years ago, when a wonderful discovery was made, and the "Martinolar Method" of supplying missing teeth without the use of plates or so-styled "bridge work" was introduced to the world.

This was the greatest step that had been taken in dental science in a century.

The United States and several governments of Europe granted patents to this company on the process, and the G. Gordon Martin Co. (Inc.) began business in Chicago in a modest office.

After six years' work the fame of the Martinolar Method has spread to the far corners of this country, Canada and portions of Mexico.

The company maintains sumptuously appointed suites of offices in New York, Chicago, Brooklyn, Kansas City and Minneapolis, and the business having grown in six years to such magnitude that at present it is conceded to be the largest dental business in the world.

Only a brief summary of the Method can be given in this limited space, but the whole story is admirably told in "Martinolar Dentistry," a book of 48 pages, profusely illustrated, which we want you to send for and read NOW.

We mail it absolutely free, upon request.

It will give you more information about the teeth than any book you ever read before on the subject.

Of course if you live within calling distance of our offices, come and let us look your teeth over. No charge for such service.

The method calls for no boring or cuttting into the gums, no surgery, no pain, nothing about it to fear, AND IT'S NOT EXPENSIVE.

Once in, the teeth look beautiful, feel good, and can be used EXACTLY LIKE NATURE'S TEETH.

NOT A TAX ON BUSINESS.

It seems to be assumed that the corporation income tax must be valid because it is proposed on President TAFT'S distinguished authority, and because its language follows a decision of the United States Supreme Court. But there seems a chance that the language used in levying the tax is nullified by the administrative clauses. The decision that a tax may be laid in respect to a franchise to do business is not followed by a statute which collects a tax on net income or earnings. That is not a tax on doing business, but a tax on making a profit. A tax on doing business must include all that do business, regardless of whether or not they make profits. No taxgatherer admits as excuse against payment that the taxpayer has had a bad year.

This is the essential vice of an income tax. It involves self-assessment, and therefore imposes a test too hard for human nature on the whole. Some are conscientious, and pay more than those who are not conscientious. Some are ignorant, and do not know how to evade the tax lawfully, and thus pay more than those who have such knowledge. Thus honesty is penalized, and a bonus is placed on evasion of the law. It is this latter consideration which will impede the law's enforcement. Talent equal even to the talent which drafted the law will study it to evade it, for it lacks the sanction of public opinion. There is a rather general impression that the Government does not need the money, and that it is sought to be taken from those who will pay it by trick and device, and for other reasons than those of mere taxation. Infallibly when the tax bill is presented it will be challenged as to the authority by which it is laid, the corporations being subject to State jurisdiction, and the tax being Federal.

If the language of the statute is cited the reply will be made that the tax is void because it is not what it purports to be—a tax on the privilege of doing business—but that it is a tax only on those who make profits, and therefore unequal and discriminatory. A tax might gladly be paid in respect to a franchise to make profits, but necessarily no such franchise can be issued, and not being in existence cannot be taxed.

PUBLIC SERVICE PROPOSALS.

It would be interesting to know just why the Public Service Commission puts out its latest explanation of the rapid transit situation. All that is new in the case is the criticisms of the various spending proposals, and apparently the authors of the official plans deem the criticisms of their schemes damaging enough to require a fresh presentation. It is only possible to repeat previous acknowledgment that the execution of the Commission's plans would accommodate the public in some degree. It is impossible to spend a hundred millions of dollars in transit facilities without bettering a situation worse than exists anywhere else in the world, as appears definitely enough by the report of the Committee upon Congestion which happens to be published concurrently with the Public Service Commission's statement.

The case is so very bad that it is irritating to find the custodians of the City's interests leading the betrayal of them. No other word describes the plan to spend vast sums in any but the best way, and it is a mockery so to describe the Commission's plans. There is not the faintest disclosure of any perception that the Commission represents the City as a corporation engaged in the rapid transit business. It holds its brief entirely for passengers, and seems to think that their interests can be bettered in some way by crippling the present Subway.

What is happening is not a proposal of completion of the city's monopoly, under the Commission's regulation, but an attack on the city's interests, both as a corporation and as an aggregate of farepayers. The City's investment will be damaged by the creation of competition on unfair terms, and the terms are unfair when it is proposed to give assistance from tax money to rival bidders, who can succeed only by dividing the business and drawing custom from the City's lines. The Commission's plans threaten damage to the aggregate of farepayers when they propose to spend $100,000,000 to less advantage than is possible. Surely if the Commission individually were the owners in reversion—as the City is—they would never propose to parallel the City's road on the lower east side, and to grant no facilities to the unsupplied west side. Surely if the Commission were operating the existing subway as their individual property they would not omit connection with such a feeder as the Pennsylvania station—but even in the latest version nothing is said about the putting of that station on a loop. The Commission complains that the operators of the City's route amend the Commission's plans. But the Commission's plans are in urgent need of revision by their authors, otherwise they are unacceptable.

The case is even worse regarding Brooklyn. The Brooklyn stations of the City's subway are the busiest of all except one. Every payer of those millions of fares knows that he gets a through ride for 5 cents. The busiest traffic centres of Brooklyn are reached, and every section of Manhattan will be reached if the system is extended. But it is proposed to create another system, which requires the expenditure of some millions of public money to make it more than a mockery, which cannot give the transfer privileges of the City's line as extended, or even as existing, and which does not offer a 5-cent fare. And this monstrous proposal is made with the happy irresponsibility of those whose sole care is to serve the people, without a thought regarding balance sheets. Up to this date no such prospectus has been put forward as is deemed necessary even by wildcat corporations. There are no traffic studies given to inform bidders, and no estimates of cost. Perhaps the Commission has something of the sort in mind. When it is produced it will be interesting to examine the Brooklyn end of it. The Commission's proposals are farcical from one point of view, and tragical from another.

FOOD LAWS OF THE STATES.

The State Food Commissioners, whom President ROOSEVELT praised as being virtually the authors of the Federal Pure Food law, have changed front. They are accused by their critics of repudiating this law. It is declared that at their annual meeting at Denver beginning Aug. 23 their association will urge a new "Model Uniform Pure Food Law" for enactment by the various States which will differ radically from the original law "framed by, prayed for, fought for, and hailed as the capsheaf of American food legislation by the State Food Commissioners."

The benefit accruing in the three years since this law was passed is great and undoubted. The very Commissioners who now seemingly condemn it began work immediately to obtain the repeal of the old State laws, admitted by everybody to be inadequate, diverse, and confusing, and to bring them into harmony with the new Federal statute. Most of the States have acceded to their request. The food companies doing an inter-State business have profited by this uniformity of State and Federal control, and, in itself considered, uniformity is proper and desirable. Why should its friends become its foes?

Perhaps they have found, or think they have found, loopholes in the Federal statute through which dishonesty can enter. It would be surprising if a test of three years should not discover clauses that might be strengthened in some degree, at least, in the interest of purity of food products dispensed to the millions. Administrative rulings according to the terms of the Federal law may have defeated the purposes of its first sponsors, thus causing them to desire its amendment. If this is the case, their task might be simpler if they should first petition Congress to change the law which has become the pattern of the States, and then proceed along the line of urging State legislation in conformity to the amended measure. The present procedure of the State Commissioners is curious, and the reports of their deliberations next week will be awaited with interest.

WERE THE TRICKSTERS TRICKED?

Our neighbor The Tribune has a poor opinion of the secret, dark, and midnight cracksmen of its party. It has made the important discovery that, although they worked diligently with jimmy and centre-bit and skeleton keys in the attempt to pluck out and destroy the substance and meaning of that provision of the Payne bill which would have enabled the President to get information for the use of Congress in revising tariff schedules upon the basis of the difference in cost of production here and abroad, they failed to accomplish their purpose. Senator HALE is confident that the cracksmen were successful, that they took out of the once well-rounded and adequate tariff commission clause everything that was of any value, and left with the President merely the authority to employ a few clerks to assist him in determining when the maximum tariff should be applied. Senator ALDRICH had the hardihood to say that the amended clause was "even broader than the original one," and the President has expressed the opinion that he still has under that clause the power to collect a great deal of information "upon which future Executive action and Executive recommendations may be based."

The Tribune rejoices in sharing that opinion, and bases it upon its discovery that, while the remnant of the tariff commission clause does limit the functions of the clerks to maximum rate matters, the administrative part of the new tariff law confers far wider powers. Section 11 of the administrative paragraphs of the bill contains this provision:

> That when the actual market value as defined by law of any article of imported merchandise, wholly or partly manufactured and subject to an ad valorem duty, or to a duty based in whole or in part on value, cannot be ascertained to the satisfaction of the appraising officer, such officer shall use all available means in his power to ascertain the cost of production of such merchandise at the time of exportation to the United States and at the place of manufacture, such cost of production to include the cost of materials and of fabrics and of all general expenses, to be estimated at not less than 10 per centum, covering each and every outlay of whatsoever nature incident to such production. * * * And in no case shall such merchandise be appraised upon original appraisal or reappraisement at less than the total cost of production as thus ascertained.

The Tribune believes that "no fuller authorization of an inquiry into the cost of foreign production could well be drawn. But the emasculators seem to have overlooked it entirely." The authorization of Section 11 does not seem to us to be particularly full. The inquiry into cost of production which it authorizes is expressly limited to "imported merchandise wholly or partly manufactured and subject to an ad valorem duty"; moreover, it is not a Commission, not a person employed by the President, but the appraising officer, who is under this section vested with the power to inquire into production cost. This is not a general power, it is limited to particular cases arising in Custom House business. If President TAFT should attempt under such doubtful authority to begin a laborious inquiry into the production differential, we imagine that Senator HALE would introduce a resolution calling upon the Secretary of the Treasury to inform the Senate, if not incompatible with the public welfare, whether any money had been expended for salaries and expenses of persons other than appraising officers in pursuing such inquiries, and whether such inquiries had been made for other purposes than determining the amount of duty to be assessed.

We do not at all believe that the law officers of the Government would encourage the President to use this section for the purpose of baffling the tricksters. Section 11 was in the Dingley act. If that confers the needed authority there was no occasion to create a tariff commission, as was done in the Payne bill. One curious change was made, however. The Senate bill adopted Section 11 of the Dingley act, which says that when the actual market value "cannot be otherwise ascertained to the satisfaction of the appraising officer," then he may use all available means to determine the cost of production. The Conference Committee struck out the word "otherwise." The effect of this amendment is to require the appraising officer, when market values cannot be ascertained, to inquire into production cost abroad as a first resort. But even if this trifling change were made with the intent to baffle the cracksmen, we do not see how Senator ALDRICH or The Tribune or anybody can find in the section in question the authority which the Commission clause originally conferred.

It was the intention of the House to empower the President to secure information "which will be useful to Congress in tariff legislation" as well as to customs officers in enforcing the law. The persons employed by the President were "to make thorough investigations and examinations into the commerce and trade of the United States and foreign countries, and all conditions affecting the same." That meant a tariff commission. The Conference Committee, as Senator HALE remarked with a grin, took all that nonsense out of the bill. The standpatters want no investigation, they do not want Congress to be bothered with Executive recommendations of further tariff changes based on a businesslike ascertainment of the true rate of duty that would protect our manufacturers against goods produced abroad at lower cost than here. Whatever may be our opinion of the morality of Senator HALE and the other gentlemen who robbed the Commission clause of all its meaning, our admiration of their skill and success is quite undiminished.

THE BRAINS OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Lists of men of merit, like "Who's Who in America," Dr. J. MCKEEN CATTELL'S "Statistical Study of Eminent Men," "American Men of Science," and special lists of from 1,000 to 3,000 scientific men compiled by Dr. CATTELL and by Dr. F. A. WOODS show that the men of Massachusetts, either by virtue of superior stock or environment, or both, boast far more than their share of fame and eminence. Reckoning from the census of 1860, their approximate date of birth, Massachusetts has produced 108.8 scientific men per million as against 3.75 per million for the South. Excluding negroes from the calculation, this New England State has to its credit seventeen times as many scientists as any Southern State. In the whole white population of 1860 Massachusetts should have produced but 4.52 per cent. of the total number of men of science in the country; as a matter of fact, she has produced 15.4 per cent. She leads all other States of the Union, and "is easily ten to thirty times ahead of some States," Dr. WOODS concludes.

Dr. WOODS and Dr. CATTELL dispute in Science of Aug. 13 whether blood or training, "nature or nurture," accounts for the three-decker brains and their attainments in Massachusetts. On the side of heredity Dr. WOODS shows that, whereas the State gave birth to seventeen times as many men of especial scientific merit as other sections, it "has at the same time produced more nearly fifty or a hundred times as many men, if the highest ranks of eminence be alone considered." He adds:

> The group of States, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia, are not usually thought of as lacking in "wealth, opportunity, institutions, and social traditions," and yet this territory is distinctly behind New England in the production of scientific men, and only as good as the great Western and North Central divisions, which were largely peopled by New England stock.

Here Dr. WOODS is at pains to point out that the professional and upper classes composing the intellectual aristocracy of New England did not migrate to other States. But Dr. CATTELL rejoins:

> It is probable that if the 174 babies born in New England who became leading scientific men had been exchanged with babies born in the South the scientific productivity of New England would not in that generation have been materially decreased, nor the scientific productivity of the South have been greatly increased. It is certain that there would not have been 174 leading scientific men from the extreme Southern States, and only seven from Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Dr. CATTELL thinks that the educational advantages and opportunities for research in Massachusetts "would give its scientific men a higher average standing than those elsewhere, even though their native ability is the same." But he agrees with Dr. WOODS that "exceptional genius" is not the product of environment, nevertheless environment may interpose a veto on its performances. He thinks there may be "mute inglorious" Emersons in Southern churchyards.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Offense Not to Be Tolerated.

Gen. BINGHAM, late Commissioner of Police, is a bit apt to be led into exaggeration of statement by enthusiasm or anger, and this very human failing is probably to some degree illustrated in his complaint in a current magazine that the Police Magistrates make the preservation of order needlessly difficult by undue leniency, especially to young offenders. The Magistrates deny this accusation indignantly, and, of course, nobody with any modern ideas as to where the responsibility for boyish crimes and misdemeanors really lies wants them to exercise a barbarous severity in punishing actions which, after all, are more the result of misdirected or thwarted energies than of any inherent viciousness. Still, there are certain offenses which in a city like this are well-nigh intolerable, and should be met with whatever of sternness may be necessary for their prompt suppression.

Prominent among them is the rough play, prone to degenerate into riot and ruffianism, which boys and young men of a rather numerous class are prone to indulge in whenever considerable numbers of them happen to be gathered in a Subway or elevated train. Gen. BINGHAM asserts that the Magistrates too often treat these misdemeanants as if what they did was of trifling importance, and, on the ground that "boys will be boys," are usually content to discharge them with a reprimand, rarely inflicting even small fines. At least the occasional accuracy of this charge was shown in the experience of the boys returning Sunday on a Subway express from Van Cortlandt Park. They were arrested for annoying, and insulting the other passengers, and assaulting such of them as ventured to resent their misbehavior.

Magistrate HERBERT, before whom they were arraigned, fined the worst of the boys $3 and let the others go with a reprimand. To be sure, he had their parents brought into court, showing a wise appreciation of where the fault really lay, but the gravity of the offense committed was by no means fully impressed upon either the boys or the parents by the punishment inflicted. Just what should have been done we do not pretend to say, but, obviously, the penalty should have been sufficient as to both quality and amount thoroughly to impress these youngsters and others like them with the conviction that misconduct in a public conveyance is a form of amusement to be avoided with care. For every passenger in such a vehicle is peculiarly at the mercy of every other. There is no immediate escape from a troublesome neighbor, and silent endurance is the alternative to a squalid altercation likely to lead to a fight. When, as in this instance, the police do their duty, they should be supported by the Magistrates with something more effective than a reprimand or a trivial fine.

Insurance Companies Waking Up.

With much satisfaction The New York Medical Record notes the fact that the insurance companies are at last coming to realize that there is a close connection between their pecuniary interests and the taking of intelligent measures to protect and improve the public health. Of course, if all disease were banished, all accidents were prevented, and everybody either lived on forever or only died a "natural" death in extreme old age, the business of life insurance would disappear. That ideal condition, however, is about as far away as it ever was, and meanwhile it is much to the advantage of the companies that their policy holders should know how to postpone death and use their knowledge.

This would increase profits in two ways—by decreasing the number of claims paid before the premiums and their earnings equaled the face value, and by decreasing the cost of insurance, multiplying the number of those who could afford to carry it. Appreciation of these facts has led one company to plan a tuberculosis saratorium for its employés and such of its policy holders as choose to use it. The State law at present does not permit this, but there is nothing to prevent the execution of another plan, which involves a campaign of education by the distribution among policy holders of literature dealing with personal hygiene and preventive medicine, and in addition providing, free of cost and whenever desired, a complete physical examination and whatever advice may be needed to prevent or overcome any threatening or existing defect or disease.

According to The Medical Record the examinations on which the issuance of policies has long been conditioned have done an enormous amount of good, both by revealing previously unsuspected maladies and by leading to their proper treatment. Still greater benefits would accrue if more people were taught that periodical medical examinations have their advantages. The era of preventive medicine, it says, has barely dawned, and it adds:

> Statesmen are beginning to open their eyes to the vast importance of conserving the health of the Nation in order to insure its civic integrity and permanence. The industrial world is not only no longer unwillingly yielding to wise laws designed to safeguard the health of the laboring classes, but is actually initiating, of its own volition, measures for improving the physical welfare, and, therefore, indirectly the industrial efficiency of the workers. The educational authorities are beginning to focus their attention upon the bodily health of the child, for without this all efforts at mental training are worse than useless. The insurance interests, which have become an integral and indispensable part in the modern machinery of society, are merely falling in line with this universal tendency.

Lynching for a New Offense.

It is almost incredible that a negro should have been lynched because he sued for damages a white man who had shot his cow, yet that is the statement made in a dispatch from Louisiana, printed yesterday. If the story was true, if the negro really was strung up to the branch of a tree and riddled with bullets simply because he applied to the courts for redress when wrongfully deprived of his property, the affair was in some ways about the worst manifestation of the lynching spirit that has ever disgraced the country.

Always in theory, and usually in practice, a mob killing is the infliction of wild justice for crimes so heinous that the slow process of law can be called inadequate. In this case, however, there seems to have been not even the poor excuse that the victim of the lynchers deserved killing. Had he shot the man who shot his cow, his taking off would have been at least explicable, and, in conceivable conditions, defensible, but to hang him because he went to law for the adjustment of his grievance was a complete abandonment of civilization. If any considerable number of people took part in the murder, that part of Louisiana—Moorehouse Parish—must be in sorer need of missionaries than Darkest Africa or the South Sea Islands.

NOT "SOULLESS."

Standard Oil Company Takes Good Care of Its Employes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Whatever may be the faults of the Standard Oil Company, I am sure that most of the criticism is unjust and uncalled for. A corporation is said to be "soulless," yet this particular corporation treats its employes like a lot of human beings with souls. Who ever heard of them going on strike? They seem to be a well-treated and happy lot of mortals, have sick benefits and a pension system which is highly satisfactory. This certainly does not look as if the Standard Oil chiefs were a lot of monsters. Merit and ability are rewarded, and if I were in need of employment I should like nothing better than the privilege of starting at the bottom with this much-abused concern.

I have just read a fascinating book written by the founder of the Standard Oil Company which shows the writer to be a modest and kindly gentleman of the old-fashioned school of common sense and usefulness. Long life to John D. Rockefeller? JOHN E. MASBIE.

As to "Caste" in the Army.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to say a word on behalf of the much abused "officer." A "commissioned officer" is one commissioned or authorized by the United States Government to command its soldiers, to instruct them in all that pertains to their calling, to care for their physical welfare, to safeguard their personal interests. He is supposed to achieve with the material placed in his hands the maximum efficiency with the minimum outlay. He is, therefore, the superior in education, in military ability, and in authority.

The enlisted man or soldier of whatever rank is, by United States Army regulations, required to salute all commissioned officers, to rise, stand at attention, and uncover when an officer enters quarters, &c., and in every way it is impressed upon the soldier that he must treat an officer with respect and obey him as the tangible representative of the Government clothed with authority to enforce obedience.

Therefore there can be no social equality between the two grades—there is no desire for social intercourse, one with the other, and the deepest respect, each for the other, can only obtain where each recognizes and respects the sphere of the other.

There is no "caste" in the army, but plenty of rigid discipline, impartially enforced. It is not intended to usurp the functions of social amenities, but as a "force" to be feared upon occasions. GEORGE L. BAKER, Jr.,

Burials at Sea.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Seeing the notice this morning of the deaths of two transatlantic passengers followed by burial at sea, I should like to ask why is such practice on ocean liners necessary? It is most inhuman toward friends and relatives. To avoid it would not require more than two air-tight caskets kept on each steamer, which could be arranged to exhaust the air from them for more perfect preservation of bodies, and all the liners have means to communicate with relatives by wireless dispatches.

A Lot of Fresh Water.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There has been considerable discussion in certain circles of his neighborhood, recently as to the amount of water in the Great Lakes and their tributaries as compared with the fresh water contained in the rivers, lakes, &c., on the balance of the globe. We of Michigan have great pride in our State, its resources, and in the great bodies of fresh water which encircle it. I therefore assert that the water of the Great Lakes and their tributaries amounts to at least one-third of that contained in all fresh water bodies of the earth. MENDAX.

A Hardship to Passengers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

This morning a taxicab discharged its passengers at the Grand Central Station and immediately a party of four seeking a convenient conveyance in the heavy rain entered the cab. A hansom driver called a policeman, who compelled them to vacate the taxi. This, I believe, is according to law, but it does seem a silly law which permits the hansom driver to pick up these same fares and deprives the chauffeur of the opportunity, not considering the inconvenience to the would-be passengers.

INVESTIGATING UTILITIES LAW.

Legislative Committee Ready to Consider Possible Amendments.

The legislative committee appointed to look into the question of whether the Public Service Commission's law should be amended so as to place the telegraph and telephone companies under the supervision of the two commissions will meet at the Murray Hill Hotel at noon to-day to begin its investigation.

There has been a general impression abroad that the resolution under which the committee was created is broad enough to permit of its investigating the Public Service Commissions, as well. There is no provision for any such investigation in the resolution.

The members of the committee are Senator George A. Davis of Buffalo, Chairman; Senators John Kissel of Kings, and J. J. Frawley of New York, Assemblyman Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., of St. Lawrence, who framed the Public Service Commission law, and Assemblymen John Yale of Putnam, Artemus Ward, Jr., of New York, J. H. Walters of Onondaga, and Thomas J. Geoghegan of Kings.

THE "SILENT SIEGE."

Three Thousand Hours of Peaceful Picketing by Englishwomen.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Women in quest of a vote have taken to standing at the door of the House of Commons from the time the members begin to gather until they go home. If Parliament sits all night, they stand there all night. If it rains, they wait in the rain.

It is strictly "peaceful picketing." The women make no disturbance. They do not say a word; but each holds in her hand a suffrage petition, to show why she is there. It is said that more than 100 women have stood at the gate for an aggregate of more than 3,000 hours. Ladies of wealth and high social position stand side by side with their poorer sisters.

Lately the workingwomen and the college graduates have made a special demonstration. A London paper says:

> This week has seen the introduction of picturesque variations into the routine of watching. Labor and brains have each made their silent appeal at the gates of the House.
> On Wednesday night representatives of the workingwomen stood at St. Stephen's entrance. Widows with little children dependent on their earnings, breadwinners and rentpayers, each would have been entitled to the vote were the sex bar once removed. Dishevelled and weary eyed they stood. With these delegates stood Mrs. Despard, Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson, and Mrs. Margaret Moore, symbolizing those powers of organization and co-operation which make weakness itself formidable."
> The following night a band of disembodied spirts clad in academic robes hovered around the sacred precincts of Westminster. What were they? Persons they were not, for did not Lord Salvesen, with the voice of authority, barely one year ago, pronounce that women graduates were not persons? But, angels, demons, or whatever the law's majesty might choose to call them, there they were, from almost every university in the kingdom. London, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dublin, Liverpool, St. Andrews, each sent its representatives; science, medicine, law, and letters had each its feminine exponent. Gay scarlet gowns of the doctors of medicine flaunted against the gray old stone of St. Stephen's. The sombre togas of the arts and sciences, brightened with the vivid purple, white, and gold of silken hoods, circled the Mother of Parliaments with a girdle of wisdom. The scene might have been transferred bodily from "The Princess."

The police have not interfered with the "silent siege" of the House of Commons; but when two young Scotch ladies, graduates of Edinburgh University, tried to stand peacefully in the street outside Mr. Asquith's house, with petitions in their hands, they were promptly arrested, and sent to prison for three weeks, under the regime allotted not to political offenders but to common criminals.

Amundsen a Norwegian.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your very interesting and instructive SUNDAY TIMES has two errors in it on Sunday, Aug. 15, to which I wish to call your attention. Capt. Roald Amundsen, who found the Northwest passage in the ship Gjoa, is not a Dane, but a Norwegian. A Norwegian is as much complimented by being called a Dane or a Swede as would be a German called French.

The second error is in the article "Delivering Mail Furthest North." In big headlines it says: "The only reindeer mail route in the world." It is wrong. For some twenty years reindeer have been used to carry mail part of the way across the mountains between Bergen Kristiania, in Norway, during the Winter. Also all traffic done in the last 1,000 years in the most northern part of Norway—Lapland called—has been and is done entirely with reindeer or on skis during the Winter.

THE SEA.

I stand by the sea and hear
A multitude crying in fear—
A panic of Babelish talk
Around an immovable Rock;
A sobbing of women in pain,
Of men who labor in vain;
A wailing of babes who drown;
The cry of a soul gone down.
But the Rock jeers back alway,
Though their tears are show'rs of spray.

Sometimes it is calm and glad,
Or sullen, or silently sad;
Sometimes it is whispering low—
As passionate tides sweep slow;
But ever the Furies thirst,
And ever rebellions burst;
And ever the women sigh
And little children cry,
And strong men try and die!
But the Rock nor feels nor hears,
Though its face drips with their tears.

OUTSIDE REFORMERS PLAN EARLY FUSION

Meet to Discuss Ways and Means of Getting in Ahead of Older Organizations.

WANT TO BE FIRST IN FIELD

Committee of 100 Will Censor Nominations of Others, but Will Make None—It May Discuss Fusion To-Day.

A majority of the "small fry" organizations, which expect to tail on to any fusion movement that may be effected this Fall, held a meeting yesterday afternoon and arranged to issue a call to a general conference of all the anti-Tammany forces. To the meeting held yesterday afternoon neither the Republican organization nor the Committee of One Hundred, which expect to form the hub of the general anti-Tammany movement, had been invited.

This omission was a topic for speculation and amusement among members of the two last named organizations. Yesterday's meeting was generally regarded as an attempt on the part of the minor allies to "get in on the ground floor."

An anti-Tammany organization known as the "Cleveland Democracy" fathered the conference. The Voters' Federation, the Manhattan Single Tax Club, the Democratic Union, the Independence League, and the Allied Real Estate Interests, according to an official announcement made after the meeting, were the other organizations represented.

At the headquarters of the Independence League it was said later that, in the absence of Mr. Hearst, that organization had not even begun to consider the question of becoming a part of a general fusion movement. The Allied Real Estate Interests recently adopted a resolution providing for neutrality in the coming campaign, and even directed Allan Robinson, President of the organization, to withdraw as a member of the Committee of One Hundred.

No importance was ascribed to yesterday's fusion meeting at the headquarters of the Committee of One Hundred. A member of the committee said yesterday evening that the question of fusion might come up for discussion at a meeting of the full Committee of One Hundred scheduled for this afternoon, but there would be no hard feelings over the apparent effort of the minor organizations to "get in ahead."

"It is quite possible" said this member, "that we may depart from the custom of former years when so-called conference committees were appointed, which were in reality nothing but committees to make barter and bargain of the nominations.

"This year fusion will be on different lines. The Committee of One Hundred may content itself with appointing a committee to exercise a censorship on the nominations by all organizations and to give its endorsement to the right kind of men. The Committee of One Hundred has no candidate for any office to be voted for, and will not have any such candidate, in the sense that that word has been used in the past."

The meeting yesterday was held at 134 West Twenty-fifth Street, the newly-opened headquarters of the Cleveland Democracy. That organization was represented by W. B Selden, its Chairman, and William F. Schneider, Jr., and ex-Assemblyman Richard H. Smith; Joseph W. Savage, Secretary of the Dock Department; A. M. Powell, and ex-Assemblyman Brenner of Brooklyn represented the Voters' Federation; the Manhattan Single Tax Club sent Joseph R. Brown; the Independence League Frank Mullen, and the Democratic Union James O'Brien. The Allied Real Estate interests were said to have been represented by Alfred R. Tompkin.

A brief platform, which already has been printed in THE TIMES, was promulgated, and a resolution adopted providing for the appointment of a committee, which will be announced and probably will meet to-day, for the purpose of calling a general fusion conference for Monday of next week.

It was also decided to appoint a committee on finance to collect campaign contributions.

"HONEST GRAFT" EXPOSURE.

Second of Republican Campaign Educational Series Deals with It.

The second of the series of "educational pamphlets" to be issued for campaign purposes by the Republican Club, appeared yesterday. It deals with "honest graft," and like its predecessor is illustrated. On the title page appears the Tammany tiger, wearing upper hibliments of clerical cut and a silk hat and passing a group of gentlemen of the "honest grafter" profession. Beneath appears the motto familiar from the vaudeville stage: "He cannot make his eyes behave."

The text of the pamphlet deals with various real estate deals by the city, chiefly in the Borough of Queens. Here are some gleanings:

Richard Croker in his time was satisfied with what George W. Plunkett was pleased to term "honest graft," referring to commissions on the city's purchase of real estate. Plunkett had his real estate office in the Old Trinity Building, and saw no harm in ascertaining in advance what property the city required for improvements, and to purchase it before any one else discovered it and reap the profit of increased prices.

Under the McClellan regime the system has changed, as the records of the Kissena Park, the Police Training Ground, and numerous other deals show.

During the six years George B. McClellan has represented Tammany at the head of the city government, $75,000,000 fifty-year bonds at 4 and 4½ per cent. have been issued to buy in the neighborhood of $30,000,000 of real estate, actual value. The original owners of the property, which was bought by the city, did not get the "velvet"—the $45,000,000 of plunder. In the majority of cases the original owners sold, at the market, to the camp followers and personal friends of those at the head or close to the head of the various city departments.

More than a billion and one-quarter dollars in six years is the cost of a Tammany control of the city to be raised by the people of the city, and not a mile of new subways contracted for or really necessary improvements of every sort which are justly demanded by the people.

New Yorkers, young and old, are charged an increased debt of $156.82 in the past ten years, 130 per cent. over the per capita indebtedness of 1898. Is it justified?

There will be in all five pamphlets in the series.

"A BROKEN IDOL" AT THE HERALD SQUARE

Madge Voe Conspicuously Artistic in a Cast Which Includes Otis Harlan, George Richards and Others.

A BROKEN IDOL. A Musical Comedy in Two Acts. Book by Hal Stephens. Lyrics by Harry Williams. Music by Egbert Van Alstyne. Staged by Gus Sohlke. Herald Square.

CHARACTERS.

Sing Wee ..... Madge Voe
Sun Lee Loo ..... Lawrence Comer
Silas Pugsley ..... George Richards
Mrs. Lucretia Muddleford .. Carrie E. Perkins
J. Ely Muddleford, D. Z. ..... Otto Hoffman
Jack Mason ..... Forrest Huff
"Doc Whatt?" ..... Otis Harlan
Lord Dunby ..... David Andrada
Marion Pugsley ..... Alice Yorke
Mlle. Marie de Deau ..... Laura Guerite
Officer Jenkins ..... Fred Hill
Henry ..... Maxwell Sargent

About the most insistent memory that remains fifteen minutes after the last curtain has fallen on "A Broken Idol" at the Herald Square is of a little, mournful, plaintive Chinese girl, who, at occasional intervals during the typical hodgepodge of a jingle-jangle show, walked on the stage to coo about the lover who forsook her.

The rôle of Sing Wee, daughter of Sun Lee Loo, is merely a fragment, chiefly remarkable in itself for its lack of relation to anything else in the piece; its lines are few and not of much importance; all told, in fact, Sing Woo is probably not on the stage more than ten minutes of the two hours or more devoted to the show. But unlike most of the others connected with the piece, Madge Voe, the actress intrusted with the slight rôle, appears to have been interested in creating an impression of character rather in directing attention to her own individual attractions, whatever they may be. And the result of her effort combined with magnetism which at once makes itself felt, and a most insinuating quality of voice, is to make the little rôle stand out as the one genuinely artistic bit in the performance.

For the rest "A Broken Idol" is mostly hustle, bustle, and noise, and apparently the significance of the title is a closely guarded secret. The story itself limps woefully between the songs and dances and finally gets lost before the second act, which is better entertainment than the first. This is not necessarily to be regarded as extravagant praise either, but here at least therre are several of the picture posing specialties and dances which Mr. Sohlke, the stage manager, introduced so successfully in "The Three Twins." Girls suddenly appear from the body of a stage dragon breathing fire and fumes, and again from the midst of bushes that gave no previous hint of feminine blossoming, and a Yankee land ditty once more provides excuse for a pitty-pat clog accompaniment to the "Old Kentucky Home," with the blacked-up lasses doing their steps on marble top tables quite in the fashion of minstrels up-to-date.

The chief comic performer is Mr. Otis Harlan, who frequently laughs at his own fun, thereby anticipating the audience in what is its proper function. George Richards, Carrie Perkins, Otto Hoffmann, and Alice Yorke do the conventional musical comedy things conventionally, while Laura Guerite, in the rôle of a dancer from the Folies Bergere, recalls the story of the father of the décolleté débutante who, being asked if his daughter has had her coming out, remarked that she would have come out a great deal more if he had not set his foot down. But Miss Guerite and the costumer did the best they could.

A big illuminated balloon, with human freight, arranged to float out over the heads of the audience, is one of the novelties calculated to attract attention. Last night it failed to make a very successful flight, but this no doubt will be amended.

'DETECTIVE SPARKES' STAGED.

Hattie Williams Appears in a New Comedy by Michael Morton.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 16.—Charles Frohman presented at the Apollo Theatre to-night the comedy, "Detective Sparkes," with Hattie Williams as star. "Detective Sparkes" was written by Michael Morton.

Mystery begins with the finding of a wrecked balloon, which undoubtedly had a man and a woman as passengers, and the efforts made to establish the identity of this couple. The only clue is a brooch, found in the basket of the balloon. With the evident intention of blocking the efforts in this direction and thereby saving the reputation or the woman in the balloon, there is a robbery in the house of Lord Axminster, all of the latter's collection of miniatures being taken. Detective Sparkes is placed on the case. The latter is a most elusive person. No one has seen him, no one knows him, and he becomes a good deal of a mystery himself. It is only as the curtain is about to drop on the play that Athole Forbes, a young American girl, succeeds in clearing matters and bringing the real Sparkes into the presence of the other characters in the play.

In his maze of episodes Mr. Morton has threaded a love story.

George Broadhurst's Play Is Presented in Hartford by W. A. Brady.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 16.—George Broadhurst's play, "The Dollar Mark," was produced here to-night by William A. Brady. The story takes you from the heart of the Rockies to Newport, on a sea-going yacht, and then to lower Broadway, where in a Directors' room in a prominent bank he presents a last act.

The cast is a large one, and includes Robert Warwick, Clay Clement, Cuyler Hastings, Hassard Short, Brinsley Shaw, Pauline Frederick, Diva Marolda, and Selone Johnson. United States Senator Morgan G. Bulkeley, Governor Weeks, and Mayor Hooker were present. The Legislature of Connecticut attended as the guests of Speaker Elmore E. Banks.

SHUBERTS GET DECISION.

Gaites Prevented from Producing "The Three Twins" at Boston Theatre.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—By a decision handed down here to-day by Judge Dana, Joseph M. Gaites is prevented from producing "The Three Twins" at any other theatre in Boston than the Majestic—the Shubert theatre—on Aug. 23.

Last Spring Gaites wrote a letter to the Wilbur-Shubert Company stating that although he had made a contract to play "The Three Twins" at the Majestic, he would not play there, but would play instead at the Boston Theatre, booked by Klaw & Erlanger. This was at the time that the Shuberts were announcing the severing of their relations with Klaw & Erlanger, and the Wilbur-Shubert Company applied for an injunction.

EDUCATIONAL OPERA PLANS.

Season to Open on Aug. 30 with Meyerbeer's "Le Prophete" in French.

Oscar Hammerstein last evening announced the repertoire for the opening week of his Education Opera season, beginning Monday evening, Aug. 30, at the Manhattan Opera House. The initial opera of the season will be Meyerbeer's "Le Prophète," in French. The title rôle will be sung by M. Lucas, who, during the past season, has appeared in it in Paris. It will also serve to introduce to the American public Mme. d'Alvarez, a Spanish contralto, of the Royal Antwerp Opera. Others in the cast will be MM. Leroux, tenor; Laskin, and Nicolay, bassos.

Signor Carasa, the young Spanish tenor, will make his début in "Aïda" on Tuesday evening. Mme. Alice Baron, late of the Paris Opéra, will appear for the first time here in the title rôle. Mme. Soyer will be the Amneris and M. Pignataro the Amonasro. The American basso, Henri Scott, will, on this occasion, make his first appearance as a member of Mr. Hammerstein's company, singing Ramfis.

Mme. Marguerite Sylva will make her American début as a grand opera singer in the title rôle of "Carmen" on Wednesday evening. M. Duffault, a French tenor, new to New York, will be the Don José. The Micaela will be another newcomer, Mme. Walter-Villa, and the Toreador M. Laskin.

"Lucia," which will be the Thursday evening bill, will present another new singer, Mme. Lalla Miranda. With her will appear another new Italian tenor, Sig. Domenico Russo. Others in the cast will be MM. Pignataro, Venturini, and De Grazia.

"Aïda," with M. Carasa and Mme. Baron, will be repeated on Friday night.

The Saturday matinee bill will be "Traviata," with Mme. Miranda as the heroine, and another new Italian tenor, Sig. De Bernardo, as Alfredo. M. Pignataro will be the Father.

"Le Prophète" will be repeated Saturday night with the same cast as on Monday. Maestro Sturani, who last season was the musical conductor at the Philadelphia Opera House, will conduct the performances.

COHAN'S MINSTRELS AGAIN.

George Evans and "Honey Boys" in Burlesque and Musical Comedy.

Cohan & Harris's Minstrels, revived and up to date, and George Evans and his "One Hundred Honey Boys" in new nonsense and songs, kept a large crowd in hilarious laughter at the New York Theatre, where the company began its second annual engagement last night. It was more than a minstrel show, for it embraced vaudeville, burlesque, and musical comedy in generous proportions.

The minstrel part had all the old-time minstrel flavor, and even the most ancient minstrel "gag" was not forgotten. As becomes a minstrel show audience, however, everybody laughed as if it were all new. The comedians in the minstrel part were Sam Lee, Earl Benham, John King, and Harry Van Fossen, and the interlocutors, Vaughn Comfort and John P. Rogers. All the old-time songs were sung, including "The Hat That Father Wore," "The Wedding Bells," "Down Where the Watermelons Grow," and "The Rose of Killarney."

George Evans had half an hour of funny talk which kept everybody laughing, and then came the best number of the show, a dancing number called "Scenes from Blackville," as conceived by James Gorman, and which ended with an old-fashioned breakdown. Alexander and Scott did some clever dancing and singing. An interesting marching feature by a number of performers dressed as colored soldiers with lighted battleships in the background also found favor. The vaudeville feature consisted of acrobatic performances by Joe Beganny and his troupe of "Lunatic Bakers," an act which called forth liberal applause.

The entertainment ended with a "minstrel musical comedy" written by George M. Conan entitled "The Fireman's Picnic." George Evans took the part of Snowball Livingston, a headwaiter, who impersonated a fireman, while Sam Lee, as Monk Anderson, "a bad nigger," created amusement by recounting how easily he dispatched his numerous victims.

BELASCO PRODUCES COMEDY.

"Is Matrimony a Failure?" Shows Town Upset by Illegal Marriages.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 16.—David Belasco presented here to-night the comedy "Is Matrimony a Failure?" by Leo Ditrichstein. The theme is credited to Blumenthal and Kadelburg, authors of "Die Thur Ins Freie." Although the original idea is Teuton, the comedy as it now stands is in substance and treatment distinctly American.

The scene of action is Rosedale, a small town typifying American provincialism. This small, aggressively moral community living in the even tenor of its rural ways one day is thrown into commotion and consternation by the sudden explosion of a bomb hurled straight into their very hearts by a young lawyer who arrives from New York.

This ambitious young Blackstone makes the gleeful discovery that every wedded person in Rosedale who has been received by the Town Clerk (and this includes nearly every married couple in the population) is not legally married.

After the excitement of the crash the contracting parties begin to remember certain flaws and shortcomings in the lives of each other. Consequently there ensue negotiations for "better terms" before the marriage is renewed.

Gertrude Hoffmann in Hindu Dance.

Gertrude Hoffmann appeared in a new dance at Hammerstein's Theatre and Roof Garden yesterday. The new dance is called "Radha," and is modeled upon the dance which Ruth St. Denis has been giving in London. The scene depicts the interior of a Hindu temple, with the shrine of Radha in the background. High Priests are kneeling at worship and the townfolk pass to and fro, stopping merely to offer their sacrifices. After a brief prayer the Idol of Radha comes to life and begins the dance, which is supposed to show the struggle of the human soul to enter into the Divine. The scenic effect is representative of Hindu mysticism.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

The Alhambra Theatre will reopen for the season on Monday, Aug. 23. The theatre will be under the management of Victor Williams, son of Percy Williams.

Trixie Friganza appeared at the American Music Hall yesterday for a week's engagement. She sang a new song, "Carrie Marry Harry."

Frances Ring has been engaged for the principal woman's rôle in "The Intruder," a comedy by Thompson Buchanan, which will be given a metropolitan production by William A. Brady about Oct. 1.

"The Master-Key," a play by Cosmo Hamilton, an English writer, will be produced in Philadelphia by William A. Brady on Monday, Sept. 6. It was placed in rehearsal yesterday.

Mlle. Genee, accompanied by her uncle, Alexander Genee, will sail for New York on the steamer Baltic Aug. 28. Miss Genee begins rehearsals for her new play, "The Silver Star," on Sept. 6. After its first production in Atlantic City and an engagement in Philadelphia it will be brought to the New Amsterdam Theatre for a run under the management of Klaw & Erlanger.

Klaw & Erlanger will open the Circle Theatre Aug. 30 with the new production, "In Hayti," by John J. McNally and Jerome and Schwartz, introducing McIntyre and Heath.

Lillian Russell and the members of her company began rehearsals yesterday of Edmund Day's comedy "The Widow's Might," which will be produced early in September at the Liberty Theatre. In the cast will be Frederic Truesdell, Sydney Booth, Julius McVicker, Susanna Westford, Ellen Mortimer, and Morgan Wallace.

Fred Niblo and his wife, Josephine Cohan, arrived yesterday on the White Star liner Arabic after a fourteen weeks' tour of Europe, during which Mr. Niblo obtained many moving pictures for his travel talks. He will begin his season about Oct. 1.

At Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre yesterday Augusta Glose appeared in a repertoire of spoken songs, poses, and impersonations, to which she accompanied herself on the piano.

Rehearsals of George M. Cohan's new musical show, "The Man From Broadway," were postponed yesterday owing to the absence of Raymond Hitchcock and his wife who, it is said, were cast adrift for five hours in a canoe on Long Island Sound Sunday night.

CITY'S MERCHANTS MEET FOREIGN WANTS

FOREIGNERS' PHONOGRAPHS

Records Are Made in Many Different Tongues—Expensive Rolls Are Manufactured in Italian and Spanish.

The presence in the city of a large number of foreigners was attested last week by the appearance of "Aquí se Hable Español" signs in the windows of several downtown stores. They are designed to attract the many Spanish families from Cuba, Porto Rico, Panama, and Central America who visit New York in the Summer in the same way that New Yorkers seek the coolness of Maine sea breezes. They are very liberal buyers, but they seldom know English, and the stores are anxious for the patronage of the women, who are keen shoppers and valuable customers.

Spanish interpreters are not the only ones employed by the stores. Within the last few years many establishments have formed regular corps of linguists for the benefit of their foreign patrons, and have on their staffs at least one French, one German, one Italian, and one Spanish interpreter. When a shopper needs assistance, a "guide" is sent for, who accompanies her from counter to counter to help her complete her list of purchases.

The most reliable interpreters are frequently found among the bookkeeping force, declares the manager of a large house.

"Germans or Frenchmen of a very intelligent class are apt to look to bookkeeping as the means to secure a good opening in this country," he explained. "They realize that the figures in the two languages are the same, and that a man can be earning excellent wages as an expert accountant long before he has mastered the English language. Almost any firm employing a sizable bookkeeping force will have among it some young foreigner who has taken this way to get a start in America."

Another interesting development of the large number of foreign residents in this country is the foreign department of a phonograph company. Records are now prepared to cater to their tastes. There are records in Bohemian, Russian, Polish, Hungarian, Hebrew, Swedish, Danish, Finnish, German, Norwegian, both northern and southern dialects of Italians, Spanish, and not only Parisian French, but the "Breton" French, spoken by the "habitants" of French Canada.

Salesmen armed with these records go to the mines, mills, or construction camps, where foreign labor is employed. They give a Bohemian demonstration to the workmen of that nationality, play Puccini and Verdi for the Italians, or, if they find a settlement of Jewish laborers far from a synagogue, they produce for them the entire service, chants and all, as given by the best Jewish choir in the country.

Very few expensive scores are, however, manufactured in any of the foreign tongues but Italian and Spanish. The phonograph people are aiming principally at the fairly prosperous immigrants working in this country. In a small mill town it is by no means uncommon to hear a talking machine rendering an entertainment in Swedish in the parlor of a boarding house, while across the street Italians are listening to "Aïda" à la phonograph with devout intentness. For the French-Canadians such folksongs as "Aloette," "In the Prison of Nantes," or "St. Malo, Beautiful City by the Sea," have been recorded for the phonograph.

The Spanish assortment is larger than any other except English, and contains a full quota of all the finer orchestral selections. This, again, is designed for the well-to-do Spaniards of Cuba and Porto Rico, when they make their yearly visits to New York.

Oddest of all the foreign rolls, however, are some 1,000 planned for the Pacific Coast trade. These records give forth the choked gutturals of Chinese and Japanese, and certainly sound no worse than the orchestra of a Chinese theatre.

"When a Pacific Coast family has an excellent cook, Chinee or Jap, whom the employer wishes to conciliate, he may invest in a few selections in the cook's native tongue and have them played while the dishes are being washed or the floors scrubbed. Far-fetched as this may sound, it is to meet just such a demand as this that the Talking-machine concerns find it worth while to maintain a good-sized Oriental department.

BAR HARBOR SOCIAL NOTES.

Special to The New York Times.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 16.—The Horse Show, the climax of Bar Harbor's social season, opens Tuesday, and the final preparations are practically completed. There has been an unusual delay this year in selecting the judges, but it is known now that John A. Conaway of Philadelphia, together with two others, will judge the saddle class, and Edward Browning and George D. Widener, both of Philadelphia, will be among the judges in the harness classes.

Mrs. Edward J. Pooler was hostess this evening at the Swimming Club, seventy-five guests enjoying dinner at the clubrooms, followed by a dance and supper. It was one of the largest private dances of the season, and the guests numbered both the older and younger set.

Mrs. Eben Sutton of Baltimore entertained at luncheon at the Swimming Club Sunday.

Mrs. Franklin Osgood was another entertainer of Sunday evening. She leaves Wednesday for Lenox.

Two Last Season's Plays Reopen.

Two more of last season's plays reopened for Fall engagements last night. "The Man from Home" by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, with all of the original cast excepting two, began a second run at the Astor Theatre. William Hodge, who originated the rôle of Daniel Voorhees Pike, still heads the cast. The new members are Miss Madeline Louis and Louis P. Verande.

At the Hudson Theatre Charles Klein's drama, "The Third Degree," returned last night for a short engagement. The only new addition to the cast is Frazer Coulter, who succeeds John Flood. Helen Ware, Edmund Breese, and Wallace Eddinger continue in the leading rôles.

Girl Poisoned by Handling Money.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 16.—Miss Etta White is ill at her home on Sandford Street suffering from poisoning, caused, it is supposed, by handling germ-infected money. Miss White is cashier in a store here. Some days ago the left side of her face broke out in a rash and the physician who is attending her is of the opinion that she probably rested her chin upon her hand after handling bills that held some poisonous matter.

Mrs. Shelby M. Cullom Ill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Shelby M. Cullom, wife of the Senator from Illinois, is critically ill at her home in this city, and the attending physician has given up hope of her recovery. Pulmonary and heart trouble are the causes of Mrs. Cullom's illness. Mrs. Cullom, with the Senator, returned to Washington from Atlantic City last Saturday, and she was stricken soon after her arrival.

Automobilists—Automobile Owners—Automobile Dealers—interested in used cars should not fail to consult the Automobile Exchange columns in next Sunday's New York Times. You will find the most complete list of second-hand bargains on the market.—Adv.

MISS HERRESHOFF TO WED.

To Became the Bride of Luigi Masnado of Old Italian Family.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 16.—Although there has been no formal announcement of the engagement of Miss Lothrop Herreshoff, daughter of Mrs. J. B. Francis Herreshoff of 40 West Sixty-ninth Street, and Luigi Masnado of Italy, a member of an old Italian family, the Herreshoff family does not deny that the engagement exists and that the marriage will take place in New York in October.

Frederick Herreshoff was here Sunday, following his golf victory at Manchester, to meet Masnado, who joined Mrs. Herreshoff and her daughter last week. It is the intention of Mrs. Herreshoff to make the wedding as quiet as possible, because of her dislike for the publicity which has been given to many international marriages.

Mrs. Herreshoff and her daughter will remain at Hotel Aspinwall, where they have been since early in the season, until well into October, when they will go to New York, and the ceremony will take place there.

MRS. BELMONT AIDS SUFFRAGE

Posts Window Cards Announcing Tent Meetings at Marble House.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont is working hard for the success of the woman suffrage cause and for the meetings to be held at Marble House Aug. 24 and 28, and has already received many subscriptions from the Summer residents of Newport.

To-day Mrs. Belmont in one of her automobiles toured the city and put in windows cards giving the dates, names of speakers, and subjects for the meetings to be held at Marble House. Mrs. Belmont will give garden parties on the days of both lectures.

Mrs. Belmont has arranged to sell tickets to the lectures at $1, but this ticket will not admit to the house, which will be reserved for those who purchase the $5 tickets.

Gov. Pothier of Rhode Island will preside at the second meeting and Major Boyle of Newport at the first one. An immense tent will be erected on the grounds of Marble House, and the lectures will be given there. Mullaly's orchestra will play during intervals.

As at last Friday's performance the audience will be seated at small tables throughout the Casino. CHIEF RABBI SALANT DIES IN JERUSALEM

A FRIEND OF MONTEFIORE

Collected Donations for the Building of New Synagogue Bet Ya'akob—Favorite of His People.

A dispatch received in this city last night told of the death in Jerusalem yesterday of Samuel Salant, the chief rabbi of the Ashkanezic Congregationalists in that city. Samuel Salant was born in Byelostok, Russia, on Jan. 2, 1816. He was advised to go to a warmer climate on account of lung troubles when he was quite young, and this forced him to settle in Jerusalem. At Constantinople he met and formed an intimate friendship with Sir Moses Montefiore, who was then on his way to defend the Damascus Jews, who were accused of ritual murders.

Salant arrived in Jerusalem in 1841 and rejoined Sundl of Salant, his father-in-law, and about 500 of the Ashkanezic tribe who had preceded him. From 1041 until 1851 Salant, who now became known as "Meshuliah," visited the principal cities of Lithuania and Poland. He reorganized the Wilna congregation so successfully that its contributions to the temple were afterward doubled. He went to Amsterdam, Holland, in 1860, also visiting London on his return to Jerusalem.

Upon his return to the temple city Salant started to collect donations for the building of the new synagogue Bet Ya'akob, which is now the finest building of its kind in Jerusalem. Salant continued to be a favorite of his people, and upon the death of Chief Rabbi Meir Auerbach, in 1871, Salant was chosen to succeed him as head of the Ashkanazim.

Salant's eyesight began to fail him in 1888, and three years later he was rendered totally blind. This, however, did not impair his usefulness and activities in Jewish affairs. He requested an assistant in 1900, and Rabbi Elijah David Rabbinowitz-Theomim of Russia was appointed to that position.

Salant was an eminent Talmudist. He won the sympathy and confidence of the outside world by his moderation toward all classes of the Jews.

Brigadier Gen. Edwin F. Townsend.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Brig. Gen. Edwin Franklin Townsend, U. S. A., retired, died at his home in this city yesterday of apoplexy. He was born in New York in 1835, and was graduated from the West Point Military Academy in 1852 in the same class with Gens. Hood, McPherson, and Howard. After serving as instructor at West Point for four years he resigned his commission and practiced law in Milwaukee until the outbreak of the civil war. He re-entered the army then as Captain of the Sixteenth Infantry Regiment. For the first year of the war he served in the Department of the Cumberland and later commanded a battalion of the Army of the Ohio. DETECTS A THIEF FROM BED.

Sick Woman Watches a Robber from Window and Captures Him.

Miss Elisabeth Howard of 159 East 104th Street, who had been attempting for three days to resist the call of her business, was compelled yesterday afternoon to get up from her sick bed to go out and have a thief arrested. She is regularly employed as a detective by a Fifth Avenue department store.

Ralph Mercanto's cobbler shop is at 162 East 104th Street, and while lying on her bed Miss Howard can look at it. Friday she saw a dishevelled figure shuffle into the shop, and then slink hurriedly out again. Saturday she saw the same figure in the shop, and yesterday afternoon Mercanto, having just stepped out of his shop, the same man went skulking in the shop, came tippling out, and stood in a doorway nearby.

Miss Howard couldn't resist the temptation. She got up and went down to Ralph Mercanto's shop. She asked him if anything was missing. A search showed that $3, a pair of shoes, and some shoe laces had been stolen.

"Come here," said Miss Howard, "and I'll show you who took them."

She pointed to Martin Fay of 102 East 101st Street, who was still in the doorway. Mercanto leaped upon him, screaming and yelling so loud that the reserves of the East 104th Street Station, which is only a door or two away, came rushing out to suppress a supposed riot. They arrested Fay, who confessed to the robbery. He was charged with petty larceny.

He said he was, by calling, a private watchman.

COMPLAIN OF CLARK ROAD.

Sugar Company Declares Itself Discriminated Against in Freight Rates.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Refusal of the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad Company, which was built by Senator W. A. Clark, and other steam lines to join with the Pacific Electric Railway of Delhi, Cal., in the making of through routes and joint rates to points in other States is the basis of a complaint of discrimination filed to-day with the Inter-State Commerce Commission by the Southern California Sugar Company. By reason of the defendants' refusal to make such routes and rates the sugar company alleges it is forced to pay excessive rates for the transportation of its products.

While there are some exceptions to the rule, it practically is the general practice throughout the country for steam railroads to decline to enter upon either passenger or freight traffic alliances with electric railroads. The reasons for this attitude never have been stated clearly, and it is not unlikely, therefore, that the commission shortly will enter upon an inquiry into the whole general matter.

WANTS BETTER COUNTY JAILS.

Prison Association Speaker Would Have Jailers Who Unlifted Inmates.

SEATTLE, Aug. 16.—The American Prison Association spent most of the opening session to-day in a heated debate on a paper written by Dr. H. C. Sharp, formerly surgeon in the Indianapolis Reformatory, on the "Indian plan" of performing surgical operations on hopeless idiots and confirmed criminals.

W. A. Gates, Secretary of the California Board of Charities, spoke of reform work in prisons. The county jail ruined its victims, he said. It should have "a separate cell for each prisoner, well lighted and ventilated and supplied with sanitary plumbing," and "trained jailers with humane instincts and high character, who appreciate the opportunity of making better the persons placed in their charge."

Atlantic City Liquor Men Arrested.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 16.—Six arrests of café and saloon men accused of Sunday liquor selling, but not included among those arrested by the agents of the Lord's Day Alliance, were made by warrants issued by the Good Citizenship League, another reform body of the resort, to-day. The prisoners gave bail. Managers and players of the Sunday ball game of yesterday were fined $1 each by Recorder Keefer to-night.

Erie County Shortage $70,000.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The experts who have been at work on the County Treasurer's book for a month, to-day estimated the total shortage of back tax funds at approximately $70,000. Samuel W. Hoffheins, formerly back tax clerk, is serving a term in Auburn for complicity in stealing the money, and the trial of former Cashier Jared C. Weed will be moved on September 7 on a similar charge.

Hugh Campbell Ward.

Hugh Campbell Ward of Kansas City, senior member of Gov. Hadley's law firm, Ward, Hadley & Neal, died Sunday forenoon in a private sanitarium, 247 West Seventy-sixth Street. Death was caused by apoplexy, following an attack of indigestion. Mr. Ward had been spending the Summer with his wife and their four children at Bass Rock, near Gloucester, Mass. He returned to Kansas City on a business errand and was taken ill on a train. He telegraphed to his wife, and she brought him to the sanitarium in this city. Mr. Ward was a wealthy man. For many years he had been identified with many charities in his native State. Two weeks ago he presented $25,000 to the Young Women's Christian Association of Kansas City.

MATHEWSON TWICE SAVED BY MURRAY

Giants' Outfielder's Second Fine Catch Holds Pirates to Tie Game.

RAIN AFTER THE EIGHTH

Pittsburg Cuts Down New York's Lead in Third and Overhauls Giants in Eighth—Score 2 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

FITTSBURG, Aug. 16.—New York ought to send a big delegation to Philadelphia to cheer Red Murray when he appears in that city with the rest of the Giants tomorrow, for to-day, first by a good double play and later by one of the most magnificent catches ever made in baseball, he saved Christy Mathewson from a second defeat at the hands of the Pirates. Murray's play retired the locals with Leach and Wagner on second and third, and the score 2 to 2. Had it not been made the result would have been at least 4 to 2 in Pittsburg's favor, for the fly, if uncaught, must have been a triple. McGraw's great little outfielder achieved his feat in the nick of time, as the game was stopped at the end of that round—the eighth—by a downpour that made resumption of play out of the question.

That it did not reach the ground was astounding. It was careening to Seymour's territory, far out of Si's reach. Tommy and Hans were pounding the paths homeward from the crack of the bat, and Miller was hotfooting from first to second when the catch was made. New Yorkers in the grand stand had their hearts in their throats. Apparently the game had been snatched from the Giants, the Pirates having tied in that inning. Eleven thousand local rooters roared as if the pennant's fate hinged on the outcome of the afternoon's sport. If ever a fly looked safe, that fly did.

But all that time young Murray was legging it athwart the sward. He ran so fast he looked like an inverted Y with the upper end dipped in the sunset's hue. Fielders may have sprinted as fast before, but none present could name them offhand. Red's spurt was glorious. It took him from a deep point in his own position 'way inside Si's bailiwick. Not until he was well toward the middle of centre field did the spectators begin to reckon the chance of his getting under the ball. Up to that moment everybody had taken it for granted the smash was a three-bagger, and a good many figured it a homer.

Well that the rain came down. No ordinary baseball crowd could stand much more in an afternoon after such ball as that. Murray's catch was a fine climax to a game which, flawless on the part of New York, was brilliant on the other side, despite Pittsburg's three errors. 'Tis no slight task to hammer Christy Mathewson almost out of the box. Yet that was what the Pirates were doing again when Murray saved the Boy Wonder in that grueling eighth. It's doubtful if Manager McGraw would have sent Matty to the mound for the ninth, unless the Giants had regained the lead by a pretty good margin.

The Giants got the 'vantage early in the game. They registered twice in the second chapter on Barbeau's low throw that gave a life to Murray; Clarke's muff of Devlin's soft fly; Bridwell's sacrifice; Merkle's single, Meyers's walk, and Matty's out. And they did all that against Vic Willis, whom Manager Clarke had selected to put Matty to the blush. But they didn't stay two runs to the good very long. Clarke's crew got at Matty in the second round. Gibson opened Pittsburg's half of the third with a three-sacker to the blackboard. That worried Christy, and he evidently had all he could do to make Willis ground out to Merkle. That Matty was wobbly was shown more emphatically when Barbeau got away with an infield tap on which Gibson scurried under the wire.

It was on the next play that Murray, for the first time, saved Mathewson from defeat. Leach carved out a liner that ordinarily would have been good for a single, and would have sent Barbeau at least to third. Lots of onlookers thought it was safe, and the few New Yorkers groaned at the thought that Barbeau might get all the way around on it. But Murray attended to ...at. He glued his eyes to the ball as if left the bat and, without swerving in his gaze for an instant, took himself to a distant point in the sphere's path in time to freeze to it. Nor did he stop at that, for with a sparkling hurl to Merkle he doubled Barbeau off first, ending the round with the score still 2 to 1 in the visitors' favor.

No more chalking was done till the second half of the eighth, when Hyatt, swinging a cudgel in place of Willis, delighted the home rooters with his triple to right. The chance was so good that Clarke sent Abbatichio in to run for Hyatt. Batty proved worthy the opportunity, for he dusted home with monoplanic speed on Barbeau's sacrifice fly. Leach followed with a double to centre, but Bridwell negotiated Clarke's raise. Matty forced a pass on Wagner, and then Murray, by his amazing catch of Miller's fly, for the second time saved New York from defeat. The score:

Athletics Trounce Senators and Again Lead Detroit in Race.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Philadelphia defeated Washington handily to-day, thereby again taking the lead in the American League—6 to 1. Johnson was wild and ineffective in the fourth and fifth innings, when all the visitors' runs were scored. Gray relieved Johnson in the sixth inning, and the Quakers went out in their order of going to the bat in the four final rounds. Krause was very effective, especially in pinches. The feature of the game was a home run drive by Pitcher Johnson.

Third Baseman Baker crashed into the railing in front of the pavilion in trying for a foul fly, and was shaken up enough to make him retire from the game, Nicholls taking his place. Manager Mack was seen after the game and said Baker's injuries was not serious. Score:

FAVORITES FIRST ON SODDEN TRACK

Rain Reduces Fields to Meagre Numbers and Keeps Down Attendance at Saratoga.

JOCKEYS THROWN AT JUMP

Three Riders Tumble as a Result of the Uncertain Going—Dorante a Popular Winner.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 16.—A dismal day of steady, cold rain reduced the attendance at the races to-day to just the regulars. The big fields named to run in a programme of purses were cut down to skeletons, only three horses of the fourteen entered in the selling mile going to the post, while five of twelve in the mile handicap, the feature of the card, ran on a sodden track in uncertain going. The public choices fared well in spite of the conditions, and the best backed horses won through the card, with F. A. Forsythe's Dorante the most popular winner. The latter, with the top weight, started favorite in the mile and a furlong handicap, and, taking the track in the opening strides, was never headed. He easily galloped to the far turn, and then, swinging on under a pull to the end, won, hard held, a length and a half before H. G. Bedwell's stable entry, Nadzu and Zipango, which, ridden out, were second and third a head apart.

Nadzu's performance was a singularly good one, as though he fell far to the rear and seemed hopelessly out of the contest in the first half mile, he closed an immense gap when he set sail for the leaders and was coming on in fine style at the end, but too late to be troublesome to the winner.

Crystal Maid found the going just to her liking in the seven-furlong handicap for mares, and, breaking out of the crowd in the first furlong, raced easily in front for the remainder of the distance, winning far off before May Amelia, while Field Mouse, beaten in a vain chase after Crystal Maid, was eased up at the end and let Hill Top take third place by a head.

Three horses of the five that ran in the steeplechase fell and left it an easy thing for Commodore Fontain, the favorite, which had no trouble in beating Student King, the only competitor at the finish.

Meno, after a queer fall, was remounted by Jockey Turnburk and ridden over the course for third money. W. Allen, who rode Selectus, got a terrific fall on the far side of the field, and was brought back to the stand in the track ambulance, but quickly recovered. English, who rode Grace Cameron, was brought back unconscious and was taken to the hospital suffering from a sprained shoulder.

Diction, well handled by Ural, came on from the rear, and, hard ridden to the end, won the selling purse for two-year-olds, a length and a half away from Scarus. In another race for two-year-olds Thomas Welsh sent out the winner in Loco, carrying the colors of W. S. Fanshawe. Berkley, for the local establishment, the Beverwyck Stable, outran the odds-on favorite, Red River, from the first jump and cantered in first in the selling mile.

NEW YORK IN FINAL GAME.

Local Printers Will Play Chicago for the Championship.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 16.—Chicago and New York will fight it out at Comiskey's ball park to-morrow for the printers' championship of America and possession of the Garry Herrmann Trophy. That was decided to-day when, in the third game of the "triple-header" Chicago's "No. 16" put the St. Louis team out of the way. The score of this contest, which was a wild and woozy affair, was 8 to 4, and the thrills served up for the fans, and particularly the local rooters, were plenty.

The opening combat in the morning enlisted the St. Louis and Pittsburg teams, and resulted in the elimination of the Pirate bunch, something that has not yet happened in the National League race. The score of this contest was 10 to 0, not so close.

The first contest in the afternoon was a warm affair, and saw the finish of Boston, last year's champion, New York being the winner, 5 to 4. But the real interest of the "triple-header" was, of course, contracted in the battle which decided whether Chicago or St. Louis should tackle the Gotham bunch of typeslingers to-morrow. The best guesser in the wide, wide world could not have told where victory would land until E. Pierce had fanned the last man, closing the combat. The score was 8 to 4 in favor of Chicago. The New York-Boston score:

GEORGE GANO TROTS FAST.

Geers Drives Two Winners at the Fort Erie Meeting.

BUFFALO, Aug. 16.—Light attendance marked the opening of the four-day Grand Circuit meeting at the Fort Erie (Ontario) race track this afternoon. Heavy rain which fell during the night made the track a trifle slow. When the horses scored in the first event rain began to fall, but the storm passed away and the track was not disturbed.

The feature of the card was the 2:05 pace, which was won by George Gano, after Major Brino had captured the first heat. Edward Geers upset calculations in the 2:20 trot when he brought Marin N. home in front of Penisa Maid, the favorite Geraldine. Geers's pacer was never in trouble in the 2:11, and won in straight heats.

Smith Defeats Davis.

Eddie Smith defeated Jeff Davis last night in a ten-round contest at the Olympic Athletic Club, West 125th Street. The exhibition was a poor one, the boxers resorting to clinches in the early part of the bout. Smith forced the fighting in the eighth round, but Davis doubled him up with a punch in the stomach, causing the latter to clinch to save himself. Davis dropped Smith with a hard right on the jaw in the tenth, but there was not enough force in the blow to seriously affect Smith, who came back and secured the verdict.

Souvenir century medals will be given to those who compete the entire distance, and also medals for those who for any reason make only part of the century.

Giants Get $1,000 for Catcher Needham

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16.—The National Baseball Commission in session here to-day, decided that the St. Paul American Association Club must pay the New York National team $1.000 for catcher Tom Needham. The New York Club's claim against the St. Paul Club for $500 for pitcher Holmes was not allowed, Holmes reverting to the New York Club. The Pittsburg Club was ordered to pay $300 to the Wilkesbarre (Penn.) Club for failing to keep an exhibition date on July 18.

The commission rendered a decision in the case of Pitcher James Vaughn of the Macon (Ga.) Club, who was claimed by Cincinnati and Brooklyn, National, and the New York American League Clubs. The commission decided that Vaughn belongs to the Louisville American Association team.

SIXTY DELEGATES TO TALK ATHLETICS

Annual Meeting of Intercollegiate A. A. to be Held at Murray Hill Hotel Dec. 28.

ADDRESS BY DR. SARGEANT

Prominent Harvard Authority Will Discuss "Athletic Competition"—Want United Support.

The annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association will be held at the Murray Hill Hotel Dec. 28. Several important matters relating to college athletics will be discussed, and the meeting gives every promise of being of unusual interest. The association comprises over sixty universities and colleges, but a number of applications for membership will be acted upon before the annual meeting. Each of the colleges will send a delegate, and in addition there will be many visiting delegates from institutions interested in the work, but not yet members.

The objects of the association are to put collegiate athletics on a commonsense basis throughout America, to encourage sport for sport's sake, and to support various rules committees—particularly those for football and baseball.

The reports of several Presidents of prominent Eastern universities decrying the extreme prominence of sports in modern collegiate life has stirred up the officials of the Intercollegiate A. A., and considerable disappointment has been manifested by them that these heads fail to give their hearty support to the organized movement for their proper control. In discussing this phase of college athletics a prominent member of the association said:

"For some unknown reasons certain heads of big institutions in the East do not openly favor what seems to us a sane effort to bring about reforms they themselves announce as most necessary. By withholding the influence and prestige that would result from their institutions belonging to this National association they delay the accomplishment of these needed reforms. It is to be hoped in the interest of college sport that they will either yield to the repeated requests to join in the work or cease complaining of conditions they are unwilling to assist in correcting.

"One of the most prominent speakers in the coming convention is Dr. Sargeant of Harvard, whose subject will be 'Athletic Competitions.' It is well-known that Dr. Sargeant believes the competitive feature of college athletics has been overdeveloped. There is a great contrast between collegiate athletics in the United States and England. We take the subject much more seriously than our cousins across the water, and in consequence we are accused of over-training and even of over-anxiety to win, with the attendant doubtful methods that such a state of mind would be apt to induce.

"The treatment of this subject by a man of Dr. Sargeant's great reputation will be of great interest and value. His address will be published by the Intercollegiate Association, and circulated among all the colleges and universities in the United States. It is by such educational methods as these that our organization hopes to influence college athletics for their betterment."

Although the association has become a most powerful factor in college athletics it has been somewhat handicapped in its work by the refusal of certain universities in the East to officially countenance the movement, and become members of the association. The college Summer baseball question has been well handled by the association, and other subjects of equal importance have been treated with conservative judgment and unqualified success.

Capt. Palmer E. Pierce, the President of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, has been largely instrumental in effecting many important reforms in college athletics. His services have been appreciated by his unanimous election to the Presidency each year despite his protests and oft-solicited desire to have the position filled by some other person.

Yale Stadium Story Denied.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 16.—A denial is given to the report that the athletic authorities at Yale have secured a site for a stadium for use in football games and that plans for a structure are being made. There have been negotiations in various directions for a site, and the most likely place seems to be a tract of land near the present athletic field in Orange. The atheletic authorities hesitate about placing the stadium outside the city limits owing to friction which has arisen in the past over the policing of the field and the control of the highways leading to the scene of the contest.

Football Practice at Annapolis.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 16.—The members of the football squad of the Naval Academy will cut a little over a week off of their leave by returning to the Academy on Sept. 20, instead of Sept. 28, when the new scholastic work begins. Practice will begin on the return of the squad, under Lieut. Frank D. Berrien, head coach, and Capt. George R. Meyer. The tug Standish will meet the practice fleet at Hampton Roads on its return from the Summer cruise, and bring the members of the squad to Annapolis in advance.

Stanley Ketchel Starts East.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—Stanley Ketchel will start East to-day on a hurried trip to prepare for his bout with Sam Langford, but messages received here by friends say that he will spring a big surprise in the boxing line on the Easterners.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

ULYSSES L. TRUITT.—Ulysses L. Truitt, clerk, of 546 West 147th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $3,863 and nominal assets $400 in real estate in Cincinnati, mortgaged for $500. The debts were contracted in Cincinnati in 1907-08 and in this city this year.

JOSEPHSON & FRIEDMAN.—Josephson & Friedman, wholesale dealers in cotton and woolen goods, of 70 Eldridge Street, who were petitioned into bankruptcy on March 20, are meeting with considerable opposition in their efforts to put through a composition at 33 1-3 cents on the dollar. Six creditors, among whom are Jacob S. Bernheimer & Brother, Gallard-Cahn-Hall Company, Heller & Long, and Warren Godfrey Company, have filed specifications of objection to the composition. Various allegations are made, among which are that they made a false statement to obtain credit on June 30, when they claimed to have a surplus of $37,000, and that Abraham Josephson has left the State, taking all the books of record.

CAMERAPHONE COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Cameraphone Company, manufacturers of moving picture phonographs, at 573 Eleventh Avenue, filed by J. A. Whitman, President, show liabilities of $38,229, of which $888 is for wages to thirty-four employes, and nominal assets of $42,190, consisting of stock and materials, $3,655; machinery, $4,319; accounts, $29,854; cash on hand, $10; cash in the Commercial Trust Company, $1,673; cash in the hands of attorneys, $2,679 claimed as setoff for professional services, and three patents, value unknown. FINANCIAL MARKETS

Many Stocks React Sharply in Irregular Market—Call Money Rates, 2@2½ Per Cent.

UNION LEADS THE DECLINE

No Further Information Had Regarding Road's Segregation Plan—July Trade Showing.

The movements of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday were referable almost exclusively to the technical position created by recent trading, there being no developments which could be regarded as having important bearing on the day's course of prices. The day was one of reaction from the level to which prices had previously advanced, the declines being largest in the stocks which were the leaders of the upward movement. At the opening the market showed clearly the influence of profit-taking sales in the issues which had benefited most by last week's movements of the market this selling being conducted coincidentally with substantial advances in Reading and Southern Pacific, two stocks which recently had lagged behind the rest of the list. The market, at first irregular under the influence of the selling which was under way, began to yield rapidly before the morning was over, and at the end of the day despite some recoveries from the lowest, losses of from 1 point to 4¾ points were recorded in many of the active issues. Off all the stocks which contributed to any substantial extent to the day's trading the only ones which escaped without losses were Atchison, Reading, and New York Central among the railroads, and People's Gas among the miscellaneous issues. Included in the list of recessions were such declines as 3⅝ in Union Pacific common, 4¾ in the preferred, 1⅞ each in United States Steel common and preferred, 1¼ in Missouri Pacific, 1¼ in American Smelting, ⅞ in Amalgamated Copper, and smaller losses in Southern Pacific, Great Northern, and in a number of other stocks. The unusual heavy losses recorded in the two Union Pacific issues must be viewed, of course, in the light of the very sharp advances enjoyed by these issues last week when Union Pacific was advancing in the face of declines in other parts of the list. No additional information was forthcoming yesterday regarding the reported plans of the Union Pacific interests in respect to the working out of the segregation plan which is understood to be under consideration and the absence of such further details was perhaps the moving factor in the selling which brought about the losses in these stocks.

One item of information which came to hand yesterday which is of more than passing interest, although dealing with a matter to which Wall Street gives little attention in the present condition of the stock market was the Government's report on the country's foreign commerce for the month of July, showing an excess of imports over exports. July was the second consecutive month in which the country's exports fell short of imports, these two months forming the first period in twelve years in which this country imported more than it exported. The month's exports amounted to $109,452,334, compared with exports of $103,199,576 in July, 1908, and the imports to $112,290,196, compared with $86,438,493 a year ago. The excess of imports over exports amounted to $2,837,962, against an excess of exports over imports in July a year ago of $16,761,083. During July the country's imports were still under the stimulus of the prospective changes in the Tariff bill, which hastened imports of many commodities the rates of duties upon which were expected to be raised and the showing for this month and the month which preceded it is, therefore, not a sure indication of the general tendency of our foreign trade. The returns for the current month will be relieved very largely of the influence of the tariff changes which were in prospect in June and July, and now have become operative, and the figures for this month will, therefore, be awaited with interest.

Call money loaned freely yesterday at 2½ per cent., and the tendency in the time money market was still toward increased firmness. The day's record in this respect served to emphasize the change which has recently taken place in the monetary situation.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—On the Stock Exchange in this city a few individual issues showed noteworthy strength while the majority lay dormant. Philadelphia Company extended its recent advance another point, while the preferred and United Railway investment bonds were also buoyant. This was only natural in view of the new finance by the latter company. United Gas was reactionary and lost a fraction.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

C

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Excitement Has Subsided.

Traders who were excited over Saturday's market were inclined to characterize the later trading yesterday as stupid. Certainly some stocks were in sharp contrast with their activity at the close of last week, but the total transactions for the day footed up a highly respectable total. Probably one reason for assuming material dullness in the market was the quietness of Union Pacific, not to speak of its reactionary tendency. Many brokerage offices were visited by their good customers yesterday morning, who are accustomed to give their orders either by telephone, when in the city, or by telegraph from Summer resorts. Many of those who appeared in the financial district came from Summer resorts, stimulated to exertion by the possibility of a wild market, something which some of the letters and advices sent out after the close on Saturday led the recipients to believe. The list was irregular to such an extent that buying or trading of any kind by the average customer in the average brokerage office was limited. The market was too uncertain and traders were not disposed to enter on a guessing contest immediately after a market had shown a disposition to fluctuate wildly.

Union Pacific Rumor Crop.

Whereas on Saturday no rumor concerning Union Pacific was too weird to be accepted as a possible fact, there was a disposition to be a little more critical yesterday. Generally the belief prevails that the preferred stock will be exchanged, through some plan or other, for common and that eventually the common stockholders will benefit by some sort of segregation plan. That is the broad, general idea prevailing among traders and brokers, and if something of that kind does not develop there will be a great deal of disappointment.

Some Stocks Supported.

New York Central was apparently selected to hold the fort when the market began to react in the earlier trading. While it showed a substantial advance, others of the good stocks—that is, good trading stocks—were reacting rather easily. If the earlier strength was not maintained the stock did not, at least, show any positive weakness. Southern Pacific also showed greater stubbornness than some of the other stocks, but last week there were days when Southern Pacific did not show any marked energy. Traders bearishly inclined were variously affected by the market. Some of them regarded the reaction pleasantly enough, but they were not convinced that it bore the earmarks either of liquidation or of depression caused by withdrawal of support. The strength of two or three stocks was attributed to direct support for the purpose of preventing or inspiring a concentrated attack on other issues showing weakness. It is certain that if every stock on the list had shown a tendency to react as much as Union Pacific, for example, there would have been much heavier selling, and possibly the downward movement would have been facilitated by professional effort. The action of some of the minor stocks inspired little comment, although a break in Wabash was attributed to the action of certain interests supposed to be absorbing the stock.

Low Price of Governments.

Any one who has followed the Government bond market has noted the gradual and steady decline in prices. The 2 per cent. bonds are now selling at approximately their low price, the quotation for registered being about 100⅞ to 101⅛, while the coupon bonds are quoted about 101 to 102. This comes close to the low figures. The so-called long 4s registered are quoted between 116 and 117, the approximate market being presumably 116⅜ or 116½. These also are very close to the low figures. There is no mystery in this general weakness, although it is interesting and suggestive. The continued withdrawal of Government deposits and the uncertain state of Government finance have induced weakness and liquidation. At the moment there is some buying by banks for the purpose of circulation, the bonds being considered cheap.

City Bond Outlook.

Men who make a specialty of city bonds say that there is a fair market for these securities. In some issues there is an apparent absorption, resulting in a considerable amount of these securities being taken out of the market. Some of the activity is in the new 4s. Question has been raised as to the legality of some of the recent issues, but most investors are quite content to accept, first of all, the general opinion of the city authorities and their legal advisers, and, secondly, the fact that the Tracy report gives a substantial leeway so far as the debt limit is concerned. There are some houses, however, which are so extremely conservative that they will not handle these issues until they have been finally passed upon by the courts. On the other hand, the most conservative houses are quite satisfied to advise their clients to purchase these bonds. One thing that those interested in city bonds are not quite certain about is the effect which the passage of the Constitutional amendment concerning New York City bonds and their issue may have.

OUR TRADE BALANCE AGAIN AGAINST US

Heavy Imports in June and July Due to Anxiety of Importers to Avoid New Tariff.

SOME IMPRESSIVE FIGURES

Excess of Exports First Seven Months Only $67,000,000 Compared with $372,000,000 Last Year.

Again last month the exports of the United States fell below the imports. In June the adverse balance of trade reported was the first in twelve years. Both were primarily due to the anxiety of importers to anticipate the higher tariff, and since the new tariff schedules did not go into effect until Aug. 5, the excess of imports over exports during July is a measure of the attempts of importers to lay in supplies before the higher rates went into effect. There was, however, a drop in the totals of imports as compared with the imports of May and June, and the usual Summer falling off in exports.

If imports had continued at the rate of the two earlier months, there would have been a much larger adverse balance. The imports for July totaled $112,290,000, compared with $124,693,000 in June, which was shorter by one day. Compared with July, 1908, there was an increase of $25,851,000, while by comparison with July, 1907, there is a decline of $25,851,000. Exports increased by $6,252,758 over July, 1908, reaching a total of $109,452,334. Imports were $112,290,196.

Taking the seven months of the current calender year, exports, although they are the smallest since 1905, total $897,425,504, which compares with $980,997,089 in 1908 and $1,069,999,907 in 1907. Imports were $830,287,488, compared with $808,886,648 in 1908 and $875,901,076 in 1907.

The total imports of $830,287,488 is something over 30 per cent. larger than in the previous year and cuts down the excess of exports for the seven months to $67,138,000, which is smaller than in any year since 1897. Last year the balance of trade in our favor was $372,110,000.

Merchandise movements during July since 1900 have been as follows:

American Securities Close Uncertain on the London Exchange.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Money was in quiet demand on the market to-day and discounts also were quiet. The Continent took one-third and the Bank of England the remainder of the $8,500,000 in gold available.

Trading on the Stock Exchange generally was quiet, but prices were firm, with American shares again the feature. Consols and gilt-edged securities hardened on investment buying. Copper shares and Kaffirs attracted attention at the higher level, but the latter, with home rails, closed easier.

American securities opened quiet but firm, with prices generally above parity. At noon values were from ¼ to 2 points over Saturday's New York closing. The Harriman issues, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé, and United States Steel monopolized attention in the forenoon, and profit taking caused a setback later. There was renewed support, however, which caused a recovery, and the market closed uncertain.

Bar silver steady, 23 9-16d per ounce.

Money, ½@¾ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1⅛@1⅝ per cent.; for three months' bills, 1 7-16@1½ per cent.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was inactive.

THE COTTON MARKET

Dull, but Somewhat Stronger—Closes Steady, 3 to 9 Points Up.

Cotton was much less active yesterday, and fluctuations were irregular. Prices ruled above Saturday's close, and the market closed steady at a net advance of 3@9 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3@5 points, and shortly after the call the market sold 10 to 11 points net higher in response to steady late cables, and a renewal of dry, hot weather in the Southwest.

The detailed weather reports from the Southwest showed no rain of consequence over the week, and temperatures were high at several points. New crop news appears to be offset for the time being by reports that the South is a willing seller for forward shipment around present prices, but neither bulls nor bears were aggressive. Liverpool reported that the South was offering freely there, but other cables stated that Manchester was better and that sentiment was more cheerful.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—Starting out with a sharp advance in response to strong English and Continental markets, the market yesterday made further gains on predictions for rain in Northwest harvesting sections, and a possible delay to the movement, but along in the late afternoon, on attempts by early purchasers to get profits, weakened sharply and closed unchanged from Saturday. The interior movement was big, including 933,000 bushels at Kansas City and St. Louis.

FURLONG BACK ON EVE OF WIFE'S FUNERAL

Had Been on a Fishing Trip and Didn't Know She Had Been Ill, He Says.

PROSTRATED BY THE SHOCK

He Was on a Sailing Vessel for Days in Sight of the Coast—Promises to Clear Up All Stories.

City Magistrate Henry J. Furlong of Brooklyn returned to his home at 80 Sunnyside Avenue yesterday, after a mysterious absence of several days, during which his wife died. The Magistrate returned, according to his friends, broken in health, and last night he was said to be under the care of a physician at his home.

Just where and how Mr. Furlong had spent his time since a week ago yesterday, when he was last seen by his family at Rockaway Beach, where the Furlong seaside home is located, was not definitely explained last night. William Webster, an insurance operator and a close friend of the Magistrate, said that Mr. Furlong had been "for days" on a vessel sailing up and down the Atlantic Coast, most of the time within sight of the highlands of New Jersey, but that all this time he was in ignorance of the illness and death of Mrs. Furlong, which occurred early last Saturday.

"It was not until the Judge reached New York this morning, on his way back to Brooklyn, that he read in a paper for the first time of the death of Mrs. Furlong," said Mr. Webster. "The shock was inexpressible, and he was hardly able to make his way home. Many of the stories recently bruited about the Judge are entirely untrue, and have tended to give a false idea of conditions existing at Hazlewood, Mr. Furlong's farm.

"His friends have the greatest confidence in him, and everything will be explained in time. At present he will not be allowed to explain, by the advice of his physician, Dr. Marcus E. Peterson. One thing, however, he insists, must be clearly stated, and that is, that no woman had anything to do with his absence."

In a later interview Dr. Peterson declared that the Magistrate had told him that he had been upon a fishing trip with a party of men. They had been on a schooner, he said, in waters adjacent to the New Jersey Coast. He had also spent some time near Asbury Park.

Frank Travis, the clerk of the Gates Avenue Police Court, over which Mr. Furlong presides, received the first intimation yesterday of the Magistrate's return to the city, when he received a telephone message from Mr. Furlong, saying that he was in Manhattan and had just read of his wife's death and was on his way home.

Mrs. Furlong's funeral will be held to-night, and to-morrow the body will be placed in a vault in Evergreens Cemetery, pending the completion of the burial plans.

The return of Magistrate Furlong will have no bearing upon the investigation now being made by the District Attorney's office into the affairs of the Gates Avenue Court. Assistant District Attorney Robert H. Elder was informed that the Magistrate had returned to the city, but said he did not see why the news should have been sent to him.

District Attorney Clark, who has been on a vacation, will return to-day. Mr. Elder denied a report that Mr. Clark had been called back to take charge of the investigation growing out of a confession made by Jacob W. Gotthelf, indicted for trying to bribe a witness in the Wolf pickpocket case, and involving the administration of the Gates Avenue Court.

Mr. Elder said there were no new developments in the case.

CONTEST OVER BULL ESTATE.

Widow of Noted Surgeon Opposes Probate of Brother-in-Law's Will.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16.—This afternoon, before the Town Council of Middletown, which acted as a court of probate, was received the will of the late Melville Bull, former Congressman and Lieutenant Governor of Rhode Island and a brother of the late Dr. William T. Bull.

The will was offered for probate by Charles Bull and Henry Bull, Jr., brothers, and Mrs. Harriett Smythe, a sister, whose home is in Germantown, Penn. This will is dated November, 1901, and was witnessed by Postmaster A. C. Landers and J. Stacy Brown, a lawyer, both of Newport.

Mrs. Bull, widow of the surgeon, protested against the probation of the will, representing that a previous will had been made by Melville Bull. This document has never been found.

Mrs. Bull says that the missing will left all his property, which will be less than $100,000, to her son, William T. Bull, Second, who, under the will probated to-day, receives his father's share of the property. Mrs. Bull, who is now in Europe, was represented by Judge John C. Burke of Newport, and Edward Lauterbach of New York. The nurse of Melville Bull, Miss Ann Lee of Newport, testified she knew Melville Bull did make another will.

ATTACK COLONIAL BUREAU.

Means Retention of Insular Possessions, Anti-Imperialists Tell President.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—A letter deprecating the transfer of Porto Rican affairs to the Insular Commission of the War Department from the Department of the Interior and opposing the idea against the new Colonial Department at Washington has been sent to President Taft by the Anti-Imperialist League.

The letter, which is signed by President Moorfield Story and Secretary Erving Winslow of the league, says, with reference to the Porto Rican matter:

"The action taken must inevitably tend to create discouragement and discontent and to suggest indefinite postponement of the hopes of the Islanders."

The letter expresses the hope "that the Administration will not give any encouragement to the proposal that the affairs of the Philippines and other 'dependencies' shall hereafter be confided to a new Colonial Department to be created, thus crystallizing and tending to give permanence to their retention."

IMPORTED COUNTERFEITS.

Italians Charged with Passing Here Bad Bills Made in Italy.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—With the arrest of Giuseppe Spica of New York, Secret Service operatives believe they have unearthed an unusual counterfeiting plot. Spica is alleged to be in league with a band of counterfeiters who have their plants in Italy, manufacturing spurious American silver certificates.

Spica is alleged to have distributed sixteen $2 notes in this city recently. He was held to-day under $2,000 bail for the September Grand Jury.

COMES HOME AFTER 15 YEARS.

Wife of George Frey, Thinking Him Dead, Failed to Recognize Him.

Special to The New York Times.

BROADWAY, N. J., Aug. 16.—After an absence of fifteen years, in which time his friends and relatives were convinced that he was dead, George Frey walked into town to-day, bought cigars for old friends who did not recognize him, went to the home of his wife, a quarrel with whom was the cause of his disappearance, and talked with her and his son half an hour without being recognized. He had to tell Mrs. Frey who he was in order to refresh her memory.

Mrs. Frey almost fainted when she was informed that the prosperous stranger, who inquired so interestedly about the welfare of her son and the progress of the town, was once her own husband.

It was not a reconciliation that Frey sought, however. He has made money in Montana, and he wants to settle property on his son, Garville. When the formalities of that step are completed he says he will go back to the West. Both mother and son have lived in comfort for the last fifteen years. The son has married and brought his family under his mother's roof.

It was thought when Frey disappeared that he had been murdered. He had last been seen by a neighbor, Emanuel Marlatt, with whom he had gone to Phillipsburg. After leaving Marlatt Frey went to Chicago and became a contractor. He made money and invested heavily in Chicago real estate, which returned him big profits. Frey is 55 years old.

WELL MAKES 12 PERSONS ILL.

Girl Welcomes Typhoid, as It Sends Her to Hospital with Stricken Mother.

Esther Moriarty, the 5-year-old daughter of Mrs. Hugh Moriarty, was taken to the Mountainside Hospital, Montclair, yesterday, suffering from typhoid fever. She is the twelfth victim of the old infected wells in Glen Ridge. Her mother and two little sisters were taken to the hospital a day or two ago, and Esther, who was already showing signs of being ill, could only be consoled for their absence by being told that she, too, might soon be permitted to live at the big hospital.

When the ambulance came for her yesterday she was as happy as if she were going on an outing.

"I'm glad I'm going to mamma," she declared, and she now occupies a cot next her mother and sisters.

The other persons infected by the wells are five members of the Conklin family of Montclair, Michael Dare, a 6-year-old boy, and two children of the Higgins family. Health Officer Brown of Glen Ridge would not be surprised if more cases develop, as many people have been using the water. The cause of infection is believed to be drainage from near-by houses.

FEARED RABIES, TOOK POISON.

Baggageman, Bitten by Dog Several Days Ago, Tries to Die.

Fearing, it is believed, that he would become a victim of hydrophobia, Patrick Macklan, 51 years old of 415 York Street, Jersey City, took a dose of poison yesterday and is not expected to recover. Macklan, who was employed as a baggage handler in the Pennsylvania Railroad station in Jersey City, was bitten on the thumb by a dog several days ago.

He had the wound cauterized, but since then he had expressed the fear that hydrophobia would result from the dog's bite.

He entered the saloon of George Ormsby, at Montgomery and Green Streets, yesterday, and ordered a glass of beer. He sat down at a little table and was seen to take a powder from a box in his pocket and drop it into the beer. After draining the glass he calmy informed the bartender that he had taken poison.

An ambulance was called from the City Hospital, and he was hurried to that institution. Physicians there say his prospect of recovery is slight.

REFORMER A SUICIDE.

Judge Washburn Formed "Omnibus Society" to Banish Poverty.

Special to The New York Times.

WELLESLEY, Mass., Aug. 16.—Ex-Judge Charles E. Washburn committed suicide at his home this morning, shooting himself. Three years ago his eldest son was drowned while skating at Lake Waban. He was 58 years old, and had lived in Wellesley about thirty years. He had always taken a prominent part in town affairs and drew up the original by-laws of the town.

He was a graduate of Cornell, and for many years was trial justice at Wellesley. He also had been Principal of the Needham, Wrentham, and Wellesley high schools.

About a year ago Judge Washburn formed the "Omnibus Society" in an attempt to banish poverty and establish a National system of social economy. The society included all sorts of people, from millionaires to Chinese laundrymen.

MORE PARK VANDALISM.

Ornamental Wall Around the Esplanade Partly Destroyed.

Park Commissioner Henry Smith has discovered that sometime after dusk on Saturday evening a gang of vandals, supposed to have been boys returning from a baseball game, battered and disfigured the southeastern portion of the ornamental sandstone wall around the esplanade in Central Park.

For a space of twenty-five feet the filigree work was destroyed, holes were punched in the wall, which is a foot and a half thick and three feet high, the scroll work splintered, and the animal heads on the posts knocked off.

"This piece of vandalism was evidently the work of boys coming home from a ball game, and it appears as if bats had been used by them to deface the wall," said Mr. Smith yesterday. "I do not know what I can do to stop such outrageous destruction of property. I have too few police, and they have their hands full."

He could not estimate the cost of repairs to the wall.

BURNED IN AUTO EXPLOSION.

Two Men Badly Injured and $5,000 Damage Done to Garage.

Charles Brackining, 33 years old, of Washington Avenue, Grant City, and Joseph Asoian, 20 years old, who is stopping at the Atlantic Inn, also of Grant City, Richmond Borough, were taken to St. Vincent's Hospital last night suffering from burns received by the explosion of a gasoline tank in the garage of S. G. Willis, on Richmond Road, Grant City. The men were severely burned about the head, face, and body. The garage caught fire.

The men returned to the garage last evening with the automobile, and just as they stepped from the machine the explosion occurred, the burning gasoline scattering over their clothing. The garage suffered damage of $5,000.

Now is the opportune time to pick up a bargain in an automobile. Many splendid offerings will be found in the Automobile Exchange of next Sunday's New York Times. Owners who have selected their cars through those advertised in The New York Times are satisfied owners.—Adv.

WOMAN NOW ACCUSES COLER'S MAN LANGAN

ODD INSPECTION METHODS

Deputy Anderson Just Used to Ride Around Till He Saw a New Building, Then Look It Over.

When the investigation conducted by the Commissioners of Accounts into the administration of Borough President Bird S. Coler of Brooklyn was resumed yesterday a new chapter was added to the revelations of last week involving Edward W. Langan, Chief Inspector of Elevators in the Brooklyn Building Department, and the Frieda Globe Tower Company, which, as last week's testimony showed, Langan and his friends had exploited.

The new witness was a middle-aged woman, Mrs. Mary Kempell, who had come from Orange, N. J., to tell the inquisitors that on the strength of Langan's representations she had parted with $400 to obtain a concession to sell milk at the Coney Island Hippodrome, an enterprise that arose on the ruins of the Tower company. Mrs. Kempell said she had been referred to Langan by President Friede of the defunct concern.

Mrs. Kempell said she met Inspector Langan and he told her he could get the concession for her for $300—half for the outside concession and half for the inside rights. When Mrs. Kempell returned to have the contract executed she was told that the price had been jumped to $500. She said she paid $400 in three installments.

"I had to borrow the money and told them not to cheat me," she testified. "Mr. Langan and a man named Madden then showed me a watch which he said his parish priest had given him as a proof of his honesty."

Mrs. Kempell said she did not get the concession, and when she came to demand her money back, she testified, Langan was always too busy to see her. Once, she said, she went to see Langan at the Building Department and implored him to give her money back as she had borrowed it on her husband's name. He told her he did not have the money.

"Had you known before you first met Lanean that he was an employe of the Building Department?" asked Commissioner Mitchel.

"Certainly," she replied. "I borrowed the money on the strength of Mr. Langan's official position. I told the people of Orange what a grand position he had and what a nice man he was."

John R. Anderson, Deputy Superintendent of Buildings for Brooklyn, was another witness. He caused much amusement by his answers to questions regarding his qualifications for the position and working methods. Mr. Anderson formerly was a private employe of Borough President Coler, and, according to yesterday's testimony, looked after the Borough President's interests in the Building Department.

"Can you give the safe-bearing capacity of granite?" asked the Commissioner.

Mr. Anderson couldn't, nor could he answer the same question with regard to stone, brick, sand, and clay.

The witness said he could tell whether a building had been put up solidly and whether the walls had the required thickness.

As to the inspection methods of the department, the witness said the only means he had of knowing what buildings were being put up, was to board a car with the Superintendent and "go around and look for them."

"When we saw a pile of building materials on the street, we would know a building was going up, and get off the car and look them over," said Mr. Anderson.

The witness said the former Superintendent of the department had been absent from the office for a month at the time and that he never came to the office on Saturdays.

"He was always absent when something came up that he didn't wish to handle," said the witness.

Commissioner Mitchel brought out that the department automobile was used on Sundays "to inspect amusement resorts on Coney Island."

Daniel F. Sullivan, Coler's former chauffeur, but now a messenger in the Building Department, testified that he had taken Deputy Superintendent Anderson to the tracks in the department auto.

"How often?" asked the Commissioner.

"Oh, two or three times," the witness replied.

Col. Steward's Nomination Confirmed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Chicago Aldermen in special session to-day confirmed the appointment of Col. Leroy T. Steward as Chief of Police, to succeed George M. Shippy. Col. Steward will probably begin his new duties late in the week after disposing of affairs pending in his former work as Superintendent of the City Delivery in the Chicago Post Office.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Word was brought here to-day of the practical wiping out by fire of the Village of Pike, Wyoming County. All the stores on the main street and many houses were burned. The loss is estimated at $75,000. The fire, which started in a barn, spread to Sherard's Hotel, which was destroyed. The Methodist and Presbyterian churches, the Masonic Building, a fine three-story structure, eight stores, and fifteen dwellings were burned. The villagers fought the flames by means of a bucket brigade.

FERNIE, B. C., Aug. 16.—Twenty-two buildings were destroyed by fire in Coal Creek last night, causing a loss estimated at $100,000.

DIRECTORS' MEETING ILLEGAL.

Former German Count Sued Copper Company for an Accounting.

The referee named by the Supreme Court to pass upon the legality of a Directors' meeting of the Cottonwood Creek Copper Company, held on Oct. 5, 1908, filed his report yesterday, finding the meeting illegal, owing to defective advertisement. At the same time, however, he held that the subsequent meeting on July 11, 1909, was proper.

The appointment of the referee was made at the instance of Hans Frederick Barnes, Secretary of the company, who wished to know as to its legality, the notice of call having been signed by Noah L. Barnes, as President, and not by the Secretary, as provided for by the bylaws, by reason of which the Secretary was estopped from taking advantage of conditions following certain actions of the Directors at the meeting in question.

Hans Frederick Barnes, prior to taking this name, was Count Frederick von Hockberg. Some time ago he was sent abroad by President Barnes to interest German capital, and did so to the extent, it was reported, of about $200,000. Some months ago he brought suit in the Supreme Court to compel an accounting, on the allegation that the company represented itself as holding valuable property, whereas, he alleged, it was valueless.

WM. WINTER QUITS TRIBUNE.

Veteran Dramatic Critic Retires After Forty-Four Years' Service.

William Winter, who has been dramatic critic of The New York Tribune for the last forty-four years, severed his connection with that newspaper on Sunday last. No reason was given for his resignation.

Mr. Hart Lyman, managing editor of The Tribune, said yesterday that Mr. Winter resigned of his own accord, and that he had no reason to expect that he would reconsider his action. Mr. Winter celebrated his seventy-third birthday last month. He joined the staff of The Tribune in 1865 at the invitation of Horace Greeley. He was perhaps the best-known critic of the drama in this country. He is also a well-known author on dramatic subjects.

Some of his best-known works are "Shakespeare's England," "Gray Days and Gold," "Old Shrines and Ivy," "Life of John Gilbert," "Wanderers, Being the Poems of William Winter," "Shadows of the Stage," and "The Stage and the Press."

Son of President Diaz Not Killed.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 16.—A rumor to the effect that Porfirio Diaz, Jr., son of President Diaz, had been assassinated, is pronounced absurd. The rumor originated in El Paso. Mexican officers are highly incensed at the many gross exaggerations and baseless rumors which have originated at that point in the last few weeks and attribute them to political refugees.

Osteopaths' Suit Adjourned.

Supreme Court Justice Crane of Brooklyn yesterday adjourned the case of the osteopathic physicians against the Board of Health until Thursday. Dr. Charles F. Bandel of 148 Hancock Street, in behalf of the Osteopathic Society of New York, is trying to obtain an injunction restraining the Board of Health from enforcing a new section of the sanitary code which, he asserts, bars the osteopaths from granting death certificates.

Boy Killed by a Baseball.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Benson Smith, 14 years old, was killed to-day by a pitched baseball that struck him on the right ear. He had been catching in a game, and as he turned to leave his post the pitcher, Martin Bally, pitched another ball that hit Smith. He died in a few minutes.

THIEF GOT LAUNDRY BILLS.

Stole the Wagon, Delivered the Goods, Then Collected the Money.

Edward Davis of 115 East 106th Street, a driver for the Harlem Wet Wash Laundry, 79 Manhattan Street, started out on his deliveries last night. He took a basket to a customer at 100 West 114th Street, and when he got back his wagon was gone.

He telephoned a description of the horse and wagon to Police Headquarters, and then, thinking the horse might be following of his own accord the old road, he called on another customer, only to learn that the laundry had just been delivered and collected for. And so it was all along the line, down to Second Avenue and 117th Street, where Davis found his horse, all blanketed and snug, tied up, waiting for him. The wagon had been pretty nearly cleaned of wet wash.

Davis jumped into his wagon. Policeman Capone asked him whose it was, and upon the driver saying it was his, Capone answered:

"Well, come with me to the East 126th Street Station. A general alarm has been sent out for that wagon, and you'll have to prove ownership."

And so Davis went to the East 126th Street Station, where he finally got permission to drive his wagon back to the office of the laundry.

DENIES POLICE GRAFT STORY

But Baker Won't Discuss Bingham Unless Latter Begins It.

Police Commissioner Baker was asked yesterday to comment on the article on police matters prepared by former Commissioner Bingham for a magazine. He said:

"I haven't read the article itself, but have seen extracts from it in the newspapers. As far as that alleged $600,000 bribe he says was offered him is concerned, he had a good chance to tell the Grand Jury all about it, but he didn't make good. I think his story about the $100,000,000 graft is all untrue.

"However, I do not want to get into any controversy, and will not talk about him unless he says something about me."
